Invited To Help "Operation Christmas Child"

St. John's Church in Grantsville is again participating in Operation Christmas Child and invites the community to join its efforts.

Initiated by the Samaritan's Purse (Rev. Franklin Graham), the project enables underprivileged children ages 2 to 14 in other nations to "learn of the joys and meaning of Christmas by witnessing the love of Christ."

"Simply pick the sex and age of the child you will sponsor and fill a regular shoe box or plastic box with items," said a St. John's spokesperson.

A list of acceptable and unacceptable items is available by calling 301-895-5656 or 800-353-5949, or logging on to samaritanspurse.org.

Donations will be accepted until Nov. 15 and may be dropped off at 94 Main Street in Grantsville. Items can also be picked up by calling 301-895-5656 and leaving a message.

"We challenge you to become involved in this fun and rewarding experience by doing your missionary work right from your home," said a St. John's spokesperson.

Mining Legacy

able that even a stump, the large pillar of unmined coal that the underground deep-miners used to hold up the tunnel roof, is valuable enough for a surface mining company like Tri-Star to dig almost 300 feet to get it.

Carey said the Tri-Star operation is a good example of today's surface mining industry reclaiming the land as they go.

A trip down the back roads of the site is a trip into the past. Following a series of drainage ditches and ponds down the slope, previously mined areas are now grassy slopes, the oldest thicketed with locust trees and underbrush.

The drought has hit here, too. The ponds are dry, their cracked mud bottoms visible. The water runoff they were designed to clean doesn't exist for now. Mongold said Tri-Star barely has enough water to keep the coal dust down as their big machines march along paths on the low side of the mile-long "cut" in the mountain.

Things have changed since the mid-1970s, when Carey, then a geography student at Frostburg State University, took part in an aerial photography project to map the scars left by mining. Then, he said, "the scars were just everywhere." Now, he says, of the 9,500 acres of cuts, more than half have been reclaimed – about 2,000 acres through state programs, funded largely by a 35-cent per ton federal coal tax, the rest by industry, with regulators looking over their shoulder.

After he graduated, Carey took a job with a mining company. Then, he says, a permit to mine took three months to prepare and cost $1,200; now the same process takes six months and costs around $50,000. The cost and the regulation, he says, result in his office turning down very few permits – coal companies know what they have to do to get approved and submit their plans very carefully.

Maryland has only about 30 active coal mines, and Carey says his inspectors visit them frequently. Most of the willful pollution Carey saw during his early days in the industry is gone. Those companies are out of business. The Maryland coal industry itself has shrunk dramatically from its peak years at the turn of the 20th century when 4 or 5 million tons were mined every year. According to the federal Energy Information Administration, they produced a little over 5,000 tons in 2003.

Carey still sees some corner-cutting, though. Driving down one mountain road he points to a site where trucks stand inactive, and reclamation stands still. The company's priorities are somewhere else, most likely trying to extract extra coal while the prices are high, but they'll be getting a reminder soon.

"We still have problems," he said. "But they're fewer and farther between."

Carey points to a former gob pile, now a grassy slope lined with the tracks from four-wheelers. A lime-doser ticks away at a nearby stream.

At another site, cows graze near a set of manmade ponds that filter acidic mine drainage. Carey is proud of the work his bureau has done, which makes the McDonald Mine site all the more frustrating.

"That's the side of coal mining that people think of," he said. "The sins of the past," visited on the present.

Miss Fike, Mr. Conaway United In Double Ring July Ceremony

Danelle Nichole Fike and Jay DeWitt Conaway were united in marriage on July 17, 2004. The double ring ceremony took place at the Friendsville United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Robert Milliren and Pastor Phil Dukes officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Gene and Sherry Fike, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John Conaway of Fairmont, W.Va.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore an elegant ivory Casablanca bridal gown. The gown was strapless with an Italian matte satin cuff and a matching satin trim at the hemline. The bodice and bottom of the gown were adorned with beaded lace work. The look was completed with organza-covered buttons all the way down the back of the dress with a chapel train. The bride's headpiece was of pavé rhinestone flowers and leaves, with a fingertip veil with small adorning pearls. She carried a bouquet of mixed pastel flowers and wore a heart-shaped locket that belonged to the groom's grandmother.

Serving as bridesmaids were Kimberly Billek, friend of the bride, Point Marion, Pa.; Jo Marie Conaway, sister of the groom, Fairmont; and Heather Kurcaba, friend of the bride, Morgantown, W.Va. The junior bridesmaid was Hannah Fike, sister of the bride, Friendsville.

The bridesmaids wore sleeveless periwinkle gowns by Jordan's Fashions and carried small bouquets of white roses tied with periwinkle ribbon. Flower girl was Olivia Conaway, niece of the groom, Fairmont, who carried a white Sabrina organza basket with white rose petals. The bride and her wedding party's fashions were provided by Oliverio's Bridal in Clarksburg, W.Va.

Serving as best man was John Conaway, father of the groom, Fairmont. Groomsmen were Jeff Conaway, brother of the groom, and Jason Cunningham, friend of the groom, both of Fairmont. Serving as junior groomsman was Tyler Conaway, Fairmont, and honorary ring bearer was Andrew Bauserman, Harrisburg, Pa., both nephews of the groom. The groom and his groomsmen wore designer black tuxedos from Classic Bridal in Morgantown.

Attending the guest book was Telisha Conaway, niece of the groom, Fairmont. Distributing wedding programs was Malinda Cunningham, friend of the groom, also of Fairmont.

Prior to the ceremony, music was provided by pianist Cindy Frantz. During the ceremony, music was provided by organist Bobbi Dukes. Prior to being given away, the bride paid tribute to her late grandmother by lighting a memorial candle and placing a rose at the candle while vocalist Allison Sines sang "I Believe" by Diamond Rio.

Jo Marie Conaway, bridesmaid and sister of the groom, sang "Can't Live a Day" by Avalon. Special scripture was read by Linda Reckart, aunt of the bride. The bride and groom presented each of the mothers with a single long-stemmed red rose during the ceremony. Webers florist in Oakland provided the flowers for both the ceremony and reception. Photography services were provided by Photography by Jeannine.

Miss Nelson Weds Mr. Bolden At St. Peter's Catholic Church

Barbara "Barbie" Jean Nelson and Cobenn "Coby" Wayne Bolden were united in the Sacrament of Holy Matrimony on Saturday, July 16, 2005. The ceremony took place at 3 p.m. at St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in Oakland, with Father Donald Parson as celebrant.

Barbie is the daughter of Robert and Betty Nelson of Kitzmiller. She is the granddaughter of the late Wilbert and Mildred Beeman and the late James and Olive Nelson.

Coby is the son of Wayne and Linda Bolden of Deep Creek Lake. He is the grandson of Guy and Helen Hardesty of Springs, Pa., and James and Betty Bolden of Meyersdale, Pa.

The altar flowers were placed in honor and memory of the bride's and groom's grandparents.

The wedding began with the seating of the mothers and the lighting of the family candles, while soloist Bea Shaw sang "Ave Maria."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride, attired in a Christina Wu designed gown made of ivory satin, carried a hand-tied bouquet of 15 long-stemmed ivory roses, baby's breath, and greenery. Her gown featured a heavily beaded bodice with scoop neckline and cap sleeves. A full ballgown skirt and cathedral length train fell in boxed pleats from the waist. The train and skirt were also adorned with intricate hand-sewn embroidery and beading of miniature pearls, sequins, and crystals. Her veil consisted of three layers of ivory tulle trimmed with beading and crystals attached to a headpiece of pearls, rhinestones, and crystals.

The groom, escorted to the altar by his father, was attired in a classic black tuxedo with ivory tie and vest. His boutonniere was made of a single ivory rose and greenery matching the bride's bouquet.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Teresa Lynn Browning of Oakland. Bridesmaids were Jesika Lindsay Bolden, sister of the groom, also of Oakland, and Stacy Raye Wolford, friend of the bride, from Winchester, Va. The attendants were attired in matching claret colored Alfred Angelo gowns. Their gowns featured a beaded bodice and straps with a scoop neckline and an organza floor-length skirt. Each attendant carried a bouquet of baby's breath and greenery.

Mariah Brielle Bolden, daughter of the bride and groom, was the flower girl. Attired in a sleeveless ivory satin dress with a scoop neckline and a full organza ankle-length skirt, she carried an ivory basket containing deep red rose petals.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Skyler William Bolden of Oakland. Groomsmen were Jarrett Taprek Bolden, brother of the groom, currently in Iraq, and James Robert Nelson, brother of the bride, of Kitzmiller. All were attired in black tuxedos with black ties and vests.

Scripture readings were recited by the groom's cousin, Shana Rhoten of Grantsville, and the bride's cousin, Sheri Conner of Ocean City. Mrs. Rhoten read Genesis 2:18-24 from the Old Testament, and Mrs. Connor read 1 Corinthians 12:31-13:8a from the New Testament. Thomas Ashby, a cousin of the bride from Centerburg, Ohio, recited the "Prayer of the Faithful."

Soloist Bea Shaw, accompanied by organist Neil Crebs, sang the "Responsorial Psalm," "Psalm 128," "The Celtic Alleluia," "When Love is Found," and "The Song of Ruth," which was performed during the lighting of the unity candle.

Cousins of the bride Connie Bray and Cheryl Nesselrodt, both of Kitzmiller, attended the programs and guest book. While the guests were leaving the church, Karisa and Holley Weissgerber of Deep Creek Lake, also cousins of the bride, gave each of the children pinwheels printed with the names of the bride and groom.

A sit-down dinner and dance reception followed the ceremony at Wisp Deep Creek Mountain Resort in McHenry. Before the meal was served the bride's cousin, Eric Sisler of Boonsboro, gave the blessing. The four-tiered ivory wedding cake decorated with red spray roses, baby's breath, and greenery was prepared by Glenda Maust of Bittinger.

The bride and groom danced their first dance to Martina McBride's "Born to Give My Love to You." The bride and her father danced to Red Sovine's "Daddy's Girl," and the groom and his mother danced to Rod Stewart's "Have I Told You Lately That I Love You." TURNING ENEMY JET INTO CHARITY DOLLARS – After attending a Korean War era reunion of the Eighth Fighter Bomber Wing in Colorado Springs recently, Deep Creek Lake area resident Bob Railey traveled to Denver to visit Jack Wilhite, a former Colorado ANG pilot who flew with Railey in the mid 1960s. Wilhite, left, and Railey are shown standing in front of Wilhite's vintage Mig 17, a Russian-produced fighter jet that saw considerable action in the Vietnam War. Wilhite now flies the jet to raise money for charity, and offered his buddy a ride during his visit. The flight "felt like home," reported Railey, a retired Washington, D.C, Air National Guard (ANG) veteran who flew over 100 combat missions during the Korean War. "We may have bent the wings some, but they can be straightened out."

Judy Centers Turn 5; Continue To Make Case For Early Education

by Robert Salonga
Capital News Service

ADELPHI – On a recent morning, 3-year-old Jennifer Medina could be seen in her classroom singing songs and learning skills aimed at readying her for kindergarten.

Her mother, Daisy Medina, 29, of College Park, was upstairs in a classroom of her own, learning skills aimed at readying her for the GED exam.

The scene, where parent and child attend school side by side, is common at the Judy Hoyer Family Learning Center in Adelphi, part of a statewide network that just recognized its fifth year since being signed into state law.

Each "Judy Center" is a one-stop shop for services including adult education, Head Start programs, and health support, intended to help low-income and disadvantaged families prepare for their children's entrance into school.

"It's very interesting, especially how they help you with your kids," Daisy Medina said, referring to parental counseling provided by the nearby University of Maryland.

There are now 24 centers operating, with one in all but three Maryland counties. Most are partners with nearby elementary schools, as is the case in Garrett County.

Daisy Medina said the Adelphi facility, which provided the blueprint for the rest of the state, has made Jennifer friendly and outgoing.

"She started singing because they used to sing different songs every day," she said. "Now I see a difference between her and my other kids. She loves books."

So while Jennifer is learning sounds and shapes, Daisy, who was a mother by the time she left high school in the 10th grade, is a month away from obtaining her GED. She hopes that by finishing high school she can better motivate Jennifer to follow through on her own schooling, something that happens too little among people at her income level.

"A lot of the time, the parents are working and don't even know how their kids are doing," she said.

The centers have been effective in closing the so-called achievement gap between low- and middle-income students, according to an outside evaluation by Tallahassee, Fla.-based consulting firm MGT of America, released last year. The report also found notable improvements in performance among children who entered with limited English proficiency.

Nancy Grasmick, state superintendent of public schools, said in an interview that the five-year mark for the centers means the state can better track how some of the first students perform in later grades.

"It will be more significant as we see children who matriculate through the system," she said.

She added that another outside evaluation will be conducted in 2007, which is when many of the centers' inaugural students will finish elementary school.

But in light of their successes and dedicated funding from the state – $7.6 million a year – the centers face formidable hurdles, especially in maintaining enough staff with the skills required for the job.

"Early childhood [education] is an area of shortage. We don't have a sufficient number of highly qualified teachers," Grasmick said.

She said she has collaborated with top higher education officials in the state to get a deeper commitment to early education from Maryland's universities and colleges.

"It needs to increase dramatically," she said. "Towson has been a big supplier, but many other institutions have not done much for this."

The Judy Centers were the brainchild of Judith Hoyer, who was supervisor of early childhood education for Prince George's County Public Schools when she died of cancer in 1997. Before that she taught elementary school and served several education posts in the county.

Hoyer studied early childhood education at Towson State University in the 1950s.

"She was convinced that if you are going to succeed, it had to start in pre-K," said husband and longtime Maryland Rep. Steny H. Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, in an interview. "You had to get them up to speed and competitive."

Grasmick, who studied with Judith Hoyer at Towson, saw upon graduation that few were interested in early education. But Hoyer continued to advocate it for the next three decades, and by 1989 she helped convert an empty convent in Adelphi into what would become the first Judy Center.

The continuation of Hoyer's work after her death led to legislation signed in 2000 that formally established the centers and grants for early education statewide.

That the state law and the centers bear her name would have clashed with her selfless attitude, the congressman said.

"She was very much about not taking credit," Congressman Hoyer said. "[Then-Gov. Parris] Glendening and I thought it was a good idea. It's warm and friendly, and nurturing in many ways."

SHS Teacher Shares Educational Experience In Germany With Staff

One of the features of this year's countywide staff development day this week was a presentation by Dave Bender, Garrett County's 2004-2005 Teacher of the Year. Bender spent 18 days in Germany as a Fulbright Scholar in the Fulbright Teacher Linkage Program this past June. Bender flew to Frankfort, Germany, the day after school ended at Southern High School as part of the German-American teacher exchange program.

The Fulbright Teacher Linkage Program, sponsored by the U.S. State Department, is intended to give highly qualified teachers from different countries the chance to have a short exchange with teachers from another country in hopes of enhancing and sharing the strengths of the educational, cultural, and intellectual capabilities of all participating countries. Bender was one of 15 American teachers selected out of 192 who applied from all over the United States.

Bender spent the first part of his trip to Germany in Claw, Baden-Wurtenburg, at the teacher training academy. While there Bender and 14 other Fulbright Teacher Linkage Scholars participated in seminars where they learned about the complicated structure of the German school system.

The week of teacher training included a chance to visit two vocational schools as well as Tubingen University. "Their vocational students don't get cheated. We saw top notch machine tooling, automechanics, wood production, cosmetology, hairdressing, and many other career track training facilities that were first class. They even had a bartending track for their 12th and 13th year students," said Bender. "The students, teachers, and administrators we talked to in these vocational schools were all bright and interested in education.

"We became good friends with one principal in particular who was very down to earth but still quite enthusiastic about education and the students in his school. It didn't hurt that he was also a big Pittsburgh Steeler fan. Vocational students are also likely to receive an internship with a real company. Many times these internships turn into real jobs with the companies."

BENDER TEACHES HISTORY ABROAD – Dave Bender, a teacher at Southern High School, spent 18 days in Germany as a Fulbright Scholar in the Fulbright Teacher Linkage Program this past June. During this week's staff development day, Bender spoke to staff members about his experience. Bender is pictured above with students from Heir Rustemeyer's history class. Below, Bender is pictured with his host and family. From the left are Lena Kessler, Gerrit Kessler, Bender, Klaus Kessler, and Veronika Kessler. See story.

At the end of the week of teacher training, the group of American teachers had learned much about the strengths and weaknesses of the German school system but also about the strengths and weaknesses their own American system.

"The Germans are just beginning to get involved in the accountability movement. They are about 10 years behind us," said Bender. "There were very curious to find out all the positives and pitfalls of standardized testing and the No Child Left Behind program. I met 14 of the most dedicated, intelligent, and fun-loving teachers I have ever known. I couldn't have asked for a more sincere, caring, and adventurous group of people to be with. They all were great."

After the week of teacher training, the 15 American teachers were scattered across all of Germany with Bender landing in a city of 350,000 people in Bielefeld. He spent another week living with social studies teacher/assistant principal Klaus Kessler of Gymnasium Heepen. Gymnasium Heepen is a bilingual school for university bound students. "I was extremely impressed with the students at this school. I worked with students from 5th grade up to 12th grade, and every one of them completely understood English and were very competent in speaking and writing in English."

Bender taught lessons on the Native American experience in the United States, President Bush's "War on Terror," and the Vietnam War. He also participated in lessons that were taught on the rise of national socialism (the Nazi movement) between World War I and World War II.

"It is very interesting to hear about World War II from the German point of view. That war affected every person in Germany, and students and families there are still dealing with its legacy." Bender said he hopes to develop an extension of Southern High School's World War II Oral History Project where the stories of German families during WWII are told.

Bender and his wife Lisa will host Heir Kessler when he visits the United States in April.

"I will do the best I can to show Klaus what the American educational experience and American culture is all about," he said. "I won't have enough time to take him everywhere I would like to take him, but I figure that Garrett County is representative of many of the best things that America has to offer."

Left Behind To Be Presented At Oak Park Church

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren will host a live simulcast of Left Behind on the Church Communication Network (CCN) on Saturday, Oct. 22, from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. This event is free.

Author Dr. Tim LaHaye and Biblical prophecy experts Dr. Ed Hindson and Dr. Gary Frazier will explore the subject of "the end times." Topics will include: Is the book of Revelation really a road map of coming events? What is the Biblical significance of current events? What is the role of the nation of Israel? and Can one really trust the words of the prophets?

Oak Park Church is located across from Southern High School. For more information, one may call the church at 301-334-2243.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty [illegible]an

I thought we could use all the rain we could get, but when I saw a full week of rain forecast, it might be a little too much and may take its toll on our fall foliage. Now we could use a few bright days. This weather is not conducive to getting in firewood. I saw a local farmer spreading his homegrown fertilizer (manure), but I imagine the fields are pretty wet right now. But that rain will help the already spread manure soak valuable nutrients into the ground.

After the rain Saturday night, today (Tuesday) it is a very foggy damp and cool day. However, as soon as I wrote the previous sentence the fog faded and a brilliant cobalt blue sky appeared. In fact, a perfect autumn day appeared on Monday. The ground is as bright as the tree above with its fallen leaves. I guess my maple tree has already shed one-fourth of its leaves before its little sister has even started to change colors. It is not only yellow leaves floating down in my front lawn, but also several hungry gold finches who are delighted that at last my thistle seed feeder is full.

Landon Southerly, accompanied by Jason Thomas and Remington Friend, headed north to New Jersey on Saturday for the football game between Rutgers and West Virginia University.

Since West Virginia played their game out of town, I was treated with a visit from my Claire. Her two younger sisters were even happier to see her than I. Not that I wasn't happy, but they were in heaven, as was our dog Boo. I cooked one of Claire's favorite dinners–chicken with dumplings–on Sunday evening before she had to go back, but that was not good enough for Meredith and Caitlin, as they made homemade mashed potatoes which is also a favorite. It took me all day Monday morning for me to clean up the kitchen with so many pots and pans. My girls banished me from the kitchen that evening because they said they wanted to clean the kitchen and they pretended that I would be in the way. The truth is, what I consider a clean kitchen is not to only pile most of the dirty dishes in the sink, but also to wash them and put away some of the leftovers. I spent almost the whole day finishing the job.

My family posed the question to me, "How will you manage when all your girls go away?" More or less the same way I manage while they are still here–actually, probably a little better. I will not have to worry about a huge pile of blue jeans on my living room floor or CDs scattered about. My cell phone bill will go down a lot. Not that I won't dread the day when Meredith goes off to college, because in spite of everything, I love them very much, as I do Boo, who is constantly getting in trouble. I only tolerate our three cats, especially after one dropped a headless chipmunk inside the house this morning. He showed no interest in eating his prey, like many of our deer hunters.

One last chance to enjoy a Bittinger Fire Department chicken barbecue will be a special dinner this Saturday, Oct. 15, between 2 and 5 p.m. It will be a benefit dinner for Richard W. Brenneman. Bill Buckel requested an advance ticket sale deadline, which was this Monday. I told him he should probably plan for maybe 10 dinners for readers of this column. We have at least three Richard Brennemans in Bittinger. I know this probably is a bad date for many, as the Autumn Glory activities are in full swing in Oakland and the parade is at the same time.

I was shocked to learn last week that I was wrong to recommend to my readers that they stop at Brenneman's Store in Bittinger because a sign on the door states, "last day open is October 1." I hope that means for just this season and not closed forever. It would be a shame, as it has been a Bittinger business since my early childhood, and I assume much longer. I know that when my dad was a young boy Clark Brenneman and his wife Sarah owned the store. Later, Lottie and her husband Bruce operated the store, and finally their son Lee and his wife Susan became the owners. It was a regular hangout for the locals when they enjoyed the first TV ever in Bittinger. We always enjoyed stopping there after church on Sunday morning to get my little brothers their favorite choice–Push-Ups. I recently heard that Lee and Susan were purchasing a home in Florida and the store will be up for sale. Another piece of my childhood is gone. The only thing you can be sure of is things will change.

The weather news from Colorado made my blood run cold when I heard of their having two feet of snow, which means only a short time before it is time for snow here, which means that I must try to get my Christmas shopping done early.

Pastor Jim Mitchell is in the Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland. Even a young person realizes that three church services on a Sunday morning can be too intense. In our case, performance means leading worship at three church services each Sunday. I doubt anyone knows better than I, as in my career as a college professor some days I had to face three different classes, each requiring different subject matter. So I feel for Pastor Mitchell when he decided that three communion services on the same Sunday morning was too much. So now communion will be celebrated on a different Sunday each month.

Even though a merger of the three churches has been discussed for years and years, I don't think it will happen, but as long as we have the three churches it will be harder and harder to secure a pastor. Emmanuel is large enough to accommodate all three churches, but there is a long and rich history, especially at St. John's, Meadow Mountain, which is also one of the most beautiful churches in Garrett County. However, I can imagine how congregations of Zion and St. John's would feel if they lost their home church, as I still do not feel 100 percent at home in our new church, but it is still Emmanuel. Another proposal is for a joint Christmas Eve service, which seems to be a very good idea.

The presence of a former pastor and his wife eases the pain of the loss of Pastor Pat. It is good to have a familiar face in front of the church. I believe the ideal solution for our parish is to have Norma Mitchell ordained. No one pastor would be able to serve all our needs. So we need to all work to find a solution to our problem, which will not be an easy one.

Lottie Brenneman is back in Sacred Heart Hospital. Don't know how long this stay will last, but hopefully she will return home soon. With Pastor Jim and Lottie in the same hospital, the families will be able to commute together.

Tuesday is an even more beautiful day than Monday. It is close to peak color in Bittinger. Brenneman's Grove is beyond being gorgeous. It has put its best clothing on for the homecoming of its mistress, Margaret Hershberger Wagner. We pray for her comfort and rest.

Northern High School class of 1970 had its 35th reunion at the Salisbury, Pa., fire hall on Saturday. Members of that class from Bittinger include Rodney Glotfelty, Cindy Beachy Stanton, Sam Stanton, and Denny Buckel. Among the late classmates is Philip Buckel.

This is real Indian summer weather, as it is as hot as most summer days, and a day like one when I took my last ride on "Little Joe." I certainly wish he were still around to do what we did on a day like this, which was ride all the way to the final ridge of Meadow Mountain overlooking Rt. 495 and the New Germany area. You couldn't find a more beautiful view in the whole world.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

ANTENNA TUNING
by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Why do I have to point my dish antenna for TV to the southwest with great precision, whereas the car radio antenna brings in stations just fine, no matter which way the car is pointing?

What you are experiencing here is one of the conditions associated with the sensitivity of an antenna. Briefly, the more information contained in a signal, the more directional the antenna has to be.

Let's start with the radio signal first: The little antenna on your automobile roof has a gain of about 3 db (db means "decibels," a unit of power). It boosts the power in the signal (feeding into your radio) by a small multiple, like about three or five. That antenna is also omnidirectional, meaning that it can see in any direction upward or outward all at once. There are several reasons it doesn't have to be a particularly strong antenna.

First of all, the radio transmitting tower is fairly close, seldom more than 100 miles away. Second, the broadcast signal is at a fairly long wavelength. For something in the middle of the FM frequency band, around 100 megaHertz (MHz), the wavelength is about 3 meters long, so the signal will not be blocked by things like trees. Third, the information content is not all that great. Since human hearing virtually never goes up to a frequency in excess of 20,000 Hz, there is really no point in transmitting any frequency much higher than that. Therefore, the bandwidth of a radio signal is no more than 50,000 Hz, which equals 0.05 Mhz. You'll notice on your FM radio that the stations are spaced no closer than 0.20 Mhz, which means there is plenty of room between station broadcast-frequencies, and hence there won't be any crosstalk or interference between adjacent radio stations.

All this adds up to a signal that is fairly powerful and doesn't use up much bandwidth. It doesn't really have a lot of information packed into it. Therefore, the antenna that receives such a signal doesn't need to have a high gain.

Now let's take a look at your satellite-dish antenna: the problems of signal detection that it faces are far greater. To begin with, the transmitting satellite commonly is in geo-synchronous orbit, over the equator and 22,500 miles out in space. (This is so that it stays in one place relative to the rotating earth below.) If it were broadcasting all around, most of the signal energy would be lost going into outer space; so it strives to broadcast toward earth. Second, the wavelength is much shorter than for ground-based TV stations. Because there are hundreds of channels being transmitted from the satellite, the carrier frequency is made much higher. Higher frequency implies shorter wavelength, and your satellite dish antenna has to be more precisely tuned in order to pick up that carrier signal. Third, the information content of a TV signal is much greater than that of a radio signal. Typically, the bandwidth of a TV station is at least 4 MHz, which is 80 times greater than the bandwidth of a radio station. HDTV requires even more bandwidth to pack in all the information.

The antenna to receive such a signal has to have a gain of about 30 or 40 db, meaning a factor of 1000 or 10,000 in power. Moreover, it can't waste its energy looking all over the sky; it must be highly directional, looking precisely at the satellite that is transmitting the signal. If such a directional antenna sitting in your back yard is pointed in the "wrong direction" by just a few degrees, the effective gain drops way off. Even worse, if you have to look through a clump of trees, the shorter wavelength of the carrier frequency will be scattered around by the trees. In either case, the signal strength reaching your antenna will be considerably less. And clearly, if you don't collect all the information in the signal in the first place, you must expect that less information will be displayed on your screen – in other words, a lousy picture.

Therefore, it's easy for your car antenna to bring in the radio stations, but it's a lot harder to pick up a TV signal from a satellite out in orbit.

The business of designing antennas is a very advanced branch of electrical engineering, and back-yard antennas are on the "easy" end of the game. For space probes to the other planets, the signals reaching earth are extremely weak, and so the ground-based antennas have to be very highly directional and very well-tuned. Moreover, they have to be constantly turning ever so slightly, to correct for the rotation of the earth during the time signals are being received.

A photo of Alexandra Miller, who is the daughter of Jeffery and Maxine Miller, Grantsville, has been selected for inclusion in the 2006 "From China With Love" calendar, produced by Families with Children from China (FCC), based in Indiana.

After viewing hundreds of photographs submitted for consideration, the calendar committee has published its latest calendar featuring children adopted from the People's Republic of China. Proceeds from the sales of these calendars, which are sold nationally and internationally in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, and Australia, benefit non-profit organizations based in the United States that have established authorized charitable incentives in Chinese Children's Welfare Institutes.

Calendars may be purchased from Adoptions From The Heart, Asia For Kids, Celebrate Adoption, China Sprout, Children of the World, and Culture for Kids.

In the 2006 calendar, Alexandra's photo appears on the page for the month of June, and can currently be viewed at Celebrate-Adoption.com. She has also appeared in the 2004 and 2003 calendars.

In August, Alexandra was crowned the first Western Maryland Truck Show Junior Queen, and was the recipient of the pageant interview award. This inaugural year of the pageant was held at Westmar High School in Lonaconing, and featured 17 girls ages 6 through 10 as they competed in various categories, including personal interview, promenade, and an onstage question. As the reigning junior queen, Alexandra attended the 7th annual Western Maryland Truck Show, which was held at the Allegany County Fairgrounds in August, and will participate in a variety of local parades throughout the coming year.

In June, Alexandra was also crowned a Miss Maryland Princess by the Miss Maryland Scholarship Organization. Earlier this year, she served as a junior attendant in the 58th Pennsylvania Maple Queen Pageant held in Meyersdale, Pa. In 2001, she participated in two Sunburst pageants held in Cumberland. In the first of these, she was named second runner-up, and in the latter, she won the crown for her age division. In both, she was named most photogenic in her division.

MLP Man Handed Six Months For Drug Possession

A Mtn. Lake Park man received a six-month jail sentence after he entered a guilty plea to cocaine possession during a recent session of Garrett County District Court. Judge Ralph Burnett presided at the hearing.

Charles Reuben Collins, 26, was handed a 26-month sentence, all but six months of which was suspended, and was fined $57 and placed on two years of supervised probation. His March arrest by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force followed a search of his apartment, where cocaine was located.

In other District Court hearings, a Friendsville man pleaded guilty to felony theft and was handed four months in jail by visiting judge Edward Malloy.

Andrew Scott Meyers, 21, received a six-month sentence, two months of which was suspended, and was fined $100 and placed on two years of unsupervised probation. State troopers arrested him in May after he stole an ATV from an unlocked Friendsville garage.

Meyers was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office on additional charges of felony and misdemeanor theft, and two counts of unauthorized use of a vehicle.

Alexander Nicholas Wilson, 18, Toledo, Ohio, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and received a three-month jail term. His June arrest by the state police followed the recovery of an abandoned stolen vehicle on Interstate 68. A short time later, Wilson was located walking along nearby Route 40 in the company of several other individuals. Under questioning Wilson admitted to stealing a vehicle earlier in the day in Ohio and ditching that car in Preston County, where he stole another one that he subsequently ditched along I-68 near Keyser's Ridge. A search uncovered a smoking device bearing burnt marijuana residue in his bag.

Additional charges of felony theft, and two counts of misdemeanor theft, were not prosecuted.

Adam Michael Warner, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to possession of Oxycodone and Judge Burnett handed down a 10-day jail term. His March arrest by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force followed a search of a Mtn. Lake Park residence where he was located with several pills in his possession. An additional charge of drug paraphernalia possession was not prosecuted.

Michael Lynn Sisler, 41, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to meet the requirements for registering as a convicted sex offender, and was handed a six-month suspended sentence, fined $200, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. The charge stemmed from a July arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Joshua Robert Brown, 22, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and received a 30-day suspended sentence, a $455 fine, one year of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. He also appeared in criminal court on charges of malicious destruction of property, disturbing the peace, and disorderly conduct, which were filed at the time of his May arrest by sheriff's deputies for kicking out the taillight of a parked car. A charge of contributing to a condition rendering a child in need of assistance filed in August by the Oakland Police Department was not prosecuted.

Michael Joseph Norris, 40, Mt. Braddock, Pa., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a six-month suspended sentence, fined $250, and placed on two years of supervised probation by Judge Malloy. Norris's March arrest by state troopers came during a traffic stop on I-68, when the odor of burnt marijuana led to a search that uncovered a bag of the drug in his pocket. The car's driver, Mark Alan Criswell, 38, Uniontown, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), a $175 fine, and one day of unsupervised probation.

Richard Lynn Elliott, 45, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and was fined $142, while additional charges of possession of cocaine and marijuana were not prosecuted. Elliott's May arrest by state troopers came after he fled from a traffic stop on foot. The vehicle was impounded, and a search found a soda can modified to serve as a smoking device. Elliott was apprehended an hour after fleeing while hiding at a nearby construction site.

Michael Allen Corby, 30, Swanton, was deemed "not guilty" when the victim of a second-degree assault charge refused to take the stand to enter testimony. Corby's July arrest on charges of second-degree assault, false imprisonment, and two counts of reckless endangerment came after he allegedly beat his pregnant wife.

Thomas Edward Gank, 26, Oakland, entered a "no contest" plea to a charge of failure to meet the requirements for registering as a convicted sex offender, and was fined $50 by Judge Burnett. The charge stemmed from an August arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Tremaine Antoine Holder, 23, Chesapeake, Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ, fined $200, and placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation by Judge Malloy. His March arrest by state troopers followed a search of his car during a traffic stop on I-68, where a bag of marijuana cigarette butts, a smoking device, and a handgun and live ammunition were all found in the passenger compartment of the vehicle. Charges of possession of drug paraphernalia, illegal transporting of a handgun, and misdemeanor theft were not prosecuted.

Marianne Elizabeth Phillips, 21, New Bedford, Pa., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was fined $150 and placed on one day of unsupervised probation. Her February arrest by state troopers during an I-68 traffic stop uncovered marijuana in the glovebox and console of her vehicle.

Rhoda Lee Boldman, 29, Loch Lynn, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was handed a PBJ, one day of unsupervised probation, and 30 hours of community service by Judge Burnett. Her May arrest by sheriff's deputies followed a domestic-related assault.

Larry Eugene Fike, 61, Friendsville, received a stet ruling on a second degree assault charge which stemmed from his July arrest by state troopers after he allegedly used a knife to threaten a neighbor.

Tonya Renee Hook, 32, Oakland, received a stet ruling for failing to comply with a peace order. Sheriff's deputies arrested her in July after she allegedly called the victim while the order was on file.

Trisha Ann McCurdy, 41, Mtn. Lake Park, was handed a stet ruling on a charge of failure to meet the requirements for registering as a convicted sex offender. The charge stemmed from an August arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Brandon Lee Ford, 24, and Chastiti Lee Hall, 20, both of Mtn. Lake Park, were each handed stet rulings on second-degree assault charges stemming from their respective arrests by sheriff's deputies after a reported domestic incident.

Timothy Allen Welch, 40, Mtn. Lake Park, was handed a stet ruling on a malicious destruction of property charge filed by sheriff's deputies in June after a domestic altercation.

John Eric Pittman, 43, Jumping Branch, W.Va., was handed a stet ruling on a second degree assault charge that stemmed from a June arrest by sheriff's deputies after a domestic altercation.

Michael M. McCrobie, 47, Cornville, Ariz., received a stet ruling on two counts of harassment and one count of telephone misuse that stemmed from his 1998 arrest by sheriff's deputies for making repeated phone calls to former family members.

Charles L. Wolfe, 23, Oakland was handed a stet ruling on two counts of second degree assault which stemmed from his July arrest by sheriff's deputies who investigated a domestic altercation.

Second-degree assault charges faced by Lawrence Edward Zamko, 31, and Brenda Sue Stevenson, 30, both of Westernport, were placed onto the stet docket. The pair had been arrested by Natural Resources Police

Number Of Maryland Food Stamp Recipients Twice Census Estimates

by Christopher Stollar
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – The actual number of Marylanders who received food stamps in 2001 was almost twice what the Census Bureau reported, an undercount that could have far-reaching implications for the poor, the nonprofits who defend them, and the state that helps support them.

A report co-authored by analysts from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Maryland Department of Human Resources, and even the Census Bureau itself, found that 157,857 recipients got food stamps in 2001 – almost double the 87,429 figure given by the federal government.

"That's not wrong by a little, that's wrong by a lot," said Richard Larson, study co-author and Maryland DHR policy and research director. "If it's like this for food stamps, what's it like for any piece of census data you read?"

Larson stressed the report was not created to criticize the bureau or get more funding, but merely detailed what the agency acknowledges in its own surveys – room for error.

"Surveys are based on people's responses to questions, not necessarily the truth," said Charles Nelson, an assistant division chief at the Census Bureau and not a report author. "There's nothing you can do if somebody doesn't want to tell you something."

The questions' wording also could have skewed the data, Nelson said. The traditional "Did you get food stamps?" may no longer work because most people now use food cards, not stamps.

The Census Bureau plans to test a modernized question early next year.

"It's always your aim to get as close as possible to matching the real world," Nelson said. "In this case [the analysts] gave us some hints as to why the numbers didn't match. It's valuable research – the kind of thing we should do more often."

The report's six authors – two of whom still work for the Census Bureau – compared the national survey with Maryland records and found that federal underreporting contributed most to the sharp contrast in numbers.

About 68 percent of the time, the federal agency misreported that no one in the survey household received food stamps when, in fact, Maryland issued benefits to someone in that household. Such underreporting occurred most often for recipients who had acquired the stamps in only one month during the survey period.

Other factors were discrepancies about what actually constitutes a household, an inability to account for households that moved in and out of Maryland, and differences between the total numbers covered by the national and state records.

"This has enormous implications for how we talk about data," Larson said. "It should cause [people] to pause and at least ask the questions, 'How valid is this number?' 'How was it derived?' When you talk to the Census or read the fine print, they'll tell you it's always an estimate, but all of that gets lost in a haze of academic and bureaucratic gobbledygook."

Such estimates could have consequences. The U.S. Agriculture Department provides bonuses to states that demonstrate the best or most improved access to their food stamp programs, as measured by the number of people receiving food stamps and the number in poverty.

The department awarded $18 million on Sept. 29 to 12 states, including Virginia, West Virginia, and the District.

Maryland has never received a bonus, and the report's authors said data discrepancies could lead to an uneven playing field among states when competing for awards.

"It's important to have our policies grounded in fact," Larson said. "Census data is used for everything – sometimes to distribute money. It may be a warped ruler people are using."

Others were a little more blunt.

"We know there are these poor people, and I think this is another example of how the Census tends to undercount them," said Valerie Coffin with Maryland ACORN, a community organization of low- and moderate-income families. "Therefore it's difficult to prove the need [for more funding]."

Present were the following members: Hunter Radford, Lenae Cole, Michael O'Connor, Daniel O'Connor, Amber Grimm, Jessica Shillinburg, Wyatt Snyder, Kristen Stemple, Brittany Stemple, and Samantha Ford. New members were Amber Arnold and Isaac Cole.

Jessica led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Hunter led the group in the 4-H pledge.

Under old business the group discussed projects. All livestock project books are due at the October meeting. The Buckwheat Festival displays were returned, and all members showed their projects and displays to the group.

REHAB AND FITNESS CENTER AT CORTLAND

The public is invited to attend the dedication of the Rehab and Fitness Center at Cortland this Sunday afternoon. "We want folks to see our brand new facility and be as excited about it as we are," said Cortland Acres nursing home administrator Don Black.

Physical therapy, occupational therapy and speech pathology services will be provided at the 3,700-square-foot building, located at Cortland one mile south of Thomas on Route 219.

"This will be a tremendous benefit to our residents and the people of Tucker and surrounding counties. Our therapeutic care is moving to a higher level of service in a one-story structure, state-of-the-art facility. The Rehab and Fitness Center is part of our on-going commitment to community wellness," Black said.

The facility has a convenient entrance for persons receiving outpatient orthopedic, post-surgical, pulmonary and other therapies.

A pool for aquatic therapy has been installed. Bicycles, treadmills and other equipment have been added for fitness and wellness programs.

After the dedication ceremony at 2 p.m., refreshments will be served and tours will be given.

The center will be dedicated in honor of Don Roth, who helped found Cortland Acres nearly 30 years ago and served on its board of directors until his death in 2004.

The Preston County native lived in the Horse Shoe Run area all his life. Five years ago, Roth retired as president of the Miners and Merchants Bank of Thomas. He was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church and was actively involved with numerous civic organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce, Farmers Wildlife Club, Aurora Community Project, and Hope, Love and Charity Foundation.

"Cortland Acres began as a nursing home but has become much more. We have progressively expanded our services to serve a broader community," said Cortland Acres board of directors chairman Pat Nichols Jr.

Cortland includes an independent residential development called Pineview.

For more information, persons may call Cortland at 463-4181.

PC Visioning Group To Hold Public Meetings

Preston Visioning community meetings have been set for Preston County during October. The meetings are the next step in the Preston Visioning Committee's mission to establish a plan for the county's future.

The meetings will be held from 6 until 8 p.m. at the following schools: Thursday, Oct. 13, Terra Alta East Preston; Monday, Oct. 17, Bruceton; Oct. 18, Tunnelton Denver Elementary; Oct. 19, Kingwood Elementary; and Tuesday, Oct. 25, Valley Elementary. Meetings have already been held at Rowlesburg and Aurora schools.

Recently the committee surveyed more than 1,000 residents of all ages to receive a sampling of what Prestonians like about their county and what they would like in it 10 to 20 years from now.

Kathy Casseday, executive director of the Preston County Chamber of Coimmerce, said that based on the number of surveys returned, there is no question that residents are anxious to let the committee know their opinions.

"Now the community meetings will provide an opportunity for the Visioning Committee to share survey results and give citizens another opportunity to share ideas and participate in the visioning process," she said. "I'm sure the committee will receive very valuable information from the community meetings."

Information gathered from the survey and seven meetings will be provided to the Visioning Committee, which will use the information to compile its plan. The proposed plan will then be presented to the public for comment.

The Preston Visioning project is spearheaded by the Preston County Chamber of Commerce, with assistance from the Community Visions Foundation in Morgantown. Matt Cybulski, of the foundation, is the project manager. For more information, one may call the chamber office at 304-329-0576.

FEELING REJECTED?

Would you be stunned if you offered full-price for a home, and then the sellers rejected your offer in favor of another, also at full-price? Then you'd also be surprised to learn that sellers are not obligated to accept any offer – even one higher than full price.

Not selling at the advertised price wouldn't work well for retailers, but when sellers set an "asking price," it's just that – they're "asking" for an offer to match that. Asking and accepting are two different things.

Protect yourself by only offering to purchase a home that is listed with a real estate professional. This gives you some guarantee that the sellers have been encouraged to price the home fairly and to reasonably consider all offers.

It follows that you should be wary of abnormally low prices that might signify a seller who is trying to create a bidding frenzy with no intention of accepting the initial price. While this practice is perfectly legal, you should avoid getting into contractual obligations with such a party.

The best you can do is to make your offer simple and solid with few or no contingencies. You don't know what the sellers consider a "perfect" offer, or why they will or won't accept yours. To avoid disappointment, it's a good idea to be prepared to make an offer on more than one home.

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Maryland Farm Insurance Guide Now Available

Insurance Commissioner Alfred W. Redmer Jr. and Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. announced last week the state's first-ever "Consumer's Guide to Farm Insurance in Maryland." It is intended to help Maryland farmers understand their coverage and options for property insurance, including liability and crop insurance resources. The guide provides definitions of terms and types of coverage, purchasing tips, contact information, and frequently asked questions about farm insurance.

"For the first time in its history, the Maryland Insurance Administration has prepared a consumer's guide that focuses entirely on insurance issues relating to agricultural operations," stated Commissioner Redmer. "Many thanks go to the Ehrlich administration, the Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Farm Bureau, and the farmers and legislators who assisted us with this effort."

The MIA recommends that all insurance consumers, including farmers, evaluate the types of insurance coverage that they want to purchase with a trusted advisor and then review each policy upon receipt to be sure it provides them with the types and amounts of coverage they intended to obtain.

"Times are changing for farmers in Maryland. More farm owners are expanding their operations beyond traditional crop harvesting to what is now known as 'agritourism. Hayrides, corn mazes, 'pick-your-own' products, and roadside stands are becoming common features as farmers look to generate more revenue from their operations," continued Commissioner Redmer. "These new ventures create a new set of insurance issues, and that is why this educational effort is so important. We are also working to encourage carriers to write more business in Maryland to increase competition, thus providing farmers with more choices when selecting coverage."

One need only travel from western Maryland to the lower Eastern Shore to recognize the importance that farming plays in the state. According to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, there are 12,100 farms in Maryland, spanning over 2 million acres. Farming is a $1.7 billion industry that benefits the economy.

The "Consumer's Guide to Farm Insurance in Maryland" is available at the MIA's web site, www.mdinsurance.state.md.us under Consumer Information or by calling MIA at 1-800-492-6116.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION PRELIMINARY DECISION TO GRANT CATEGORICAL EXCLUSION (CE #255)

Project Name/Number:	Memorial Drive Water and Sewer Extension. DW04-306-12L / WQ04-318-12L
Project Applicant:	Town of Oakland
Project Location:	Memorial Drive Service Area/ Garrett County
Project Cost/Loan/Grant:	$796,350/$619,350/$150,000

Project Description: The proposed project involves the design and construction of a water and sewer extension to the Memorial Drive area. This project is necessary because of the failing on-site septic systems and contaminated wells in the area of Memorial Drive.

The Town of Oakland has applied for financial assistance from the Maryland Department of the Environment's State Revolving Loan Fund Program for the proposed project as described above. In accordance with requirements for complying with the State Environmental Review Procedures (SERP) under COMAR 26.03.11 for such assistance, a review has been performed by the Department on the applicant's request for a Categorical Exclusion from a comprehensive environmental review under SERP. The Department has determined that the proposed project qualifies for a Categorical Exclusion pursuant to COMAR 26.03.11.04 because the project constitutes construction of water distribution and sewer system for existing communities. This determination is based upon a careful review of the supporting documentation provided by the applicant and other documents available to the Department. In concert with this preliminary determination, the Department has also found the project to be consistent with the Maryland Economic Growth, Resource Protection, and Planning Policy in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1992.27, and Maryland's Smart Growth and Neighborhood Conservation Policy, in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1998.04.

As a result of the above determination, the applicant will not need to prepare and/or finalize an Environmental Information Document, and the department is prepared to approve the applicant's request for financial assistance without further environmental review.

Comments supporting or disagreeing with the above preliminary decision may be submitted for consideration by writing to:

Mr. George Keller, Environmental Program Manager
Water Quality Infrastructure Program
Water Management Administration
Maryland Department of Environment
1900 Washington Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21230

Written comments should be submitted within 20 days from the date of this notice. After the close of this twenty-day open review period, and, upon evaluating any comments received, the Department will make a final decision.

Robert M. Summers, Director
Water Management Administration
Maryland Department of the Environment

LITTLE JESTER ROCKS OUT – The Autumn Glory Festival Royal Court was entertained at a variety of venues last week as the queen, king, prince, and princess reigned over the 38th annual celebration. King James Naylor seemed to be particularly amused by this tot in the foreground, who was feelin' the beat of Cooter's Garage Band, performing at the Official Maryland State Banjo Championship on Friday. Queen Holly Wampler is pictured to the left of Naylor, and Miss Maryland Rachel Ellsworth is seated two seats to the right. (Princess Corey Lewis and Prince Paul Logan are not pictured.) The dancing baby was not identified by staff photographer John McEwen, even though he did enjoy her spirited performance. The weekend of events was complemented by beautiful weather, and thousands of residents and guests enjoyed yet another celebration of autumn in Garrett County. More photos of the festival can be found in today's issue.

NMS Earns Title Of Blue Ribbon School In State

During the staff development day last week, staff members at Northern Middle School were told the school had been named one of six schools to be a Maryland Blue Ribbon School.

The State Department of Education selects six schools in the state based on two categories. In the first category, schools must be in the top 10% of all Maryland schools in their category (elementary, middle, or high) as measured by at least three years of data on state assessments in mathematics, reading, or related language arts areas.

The second category includes improving schools which must have demonstrated dramatic gains in mathematics and reading or related areas as measured by at least three years of data on state assessments.

These state Blue Ribbon Schools will then continue in the application process to enter the National Blue Ribbon School competition.

"This is a great honor for our faculty and students at Northern Middle School and for our entire school system," said Dr. Wendell Teets, school superintendent.

The other five Blue Ribbon Schools will be announced at a later date. Dr. Nancy Grasmick, state superintendent, will make a formal presentation at Northern Middle School in the near future.

GC President Steve Herman Stepping Down, But Not Out

by Jo Donaldson

Garrett College president Steve Herman officially announced his retirement at the college's board of trustees meeting Tuesday night. He will be stepping down as president of the college as of June 30, 2006.

"I've executed a contract for the remainder of the year," Herman said. "I will be teaching at the college as a full-time professor of philosophy, but only in the fall semester of each year."

The college was in considerable difficulty when Dr. Herman began at Garrett Community College in 1986. "Over the years, we've become a financially strong institution with a very good academic reputation. Now our reputation goes far beyond Garrett County's borders."

When Dr. Herman started, the college had 430 credit students; now it has 650. There also has been significant increase in the Continuing Education enrollments, with over 4,000 students now enrolled.

"We've renovated most of the campus and added new buildings," said Dr. Herman. They include the Garrett Information Enterprise Center, the Parris N. Glendening Advanced Technology Center, the residence hall, the gymnasium renovation, the Continuing Education and Training Center, and the Advanced Information Technology Center.

"Adjusting to information technology was the biggest change," stated Herman.

Construction of a new library facility is scheduled to start this spring, as is construction of the Garrett College Athletic and Community Recreation Center on Marsh Mountain.

"We now have 21 international students on campus, [and] they enrich our academic climate with their presence," the college president observed.

"Garrett College students do extraordinarily well upon graduation, as they transfer to other colleges or into work. We have a lot to be proud of."

"I am looking forward to my retirement," said Herman, who will be helping the trustees find his replace-

Gypsy Moth Egg Sightings And Drought Worry Forest Experts

by Dorcas Taylor
Capital News Service

A sudden resurgence of gypsy moth egg clusters in Garrett County, combined with this fall's drought, could mean trouble for the state's forests next spring.

Bob Tichenor, chief of forest pest management at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, said forest entomologists tell him the tan-colored groupings are "some of the largest egg masses we've ever seen."

Some areas of Garrett County are seeing more than 500 clusters per acre, with the masses measuring up to 1.5 inches and holding 1,200 eggs, Tichenor said. Those preliminary figures fall in the middle of a per-acre scale the department uses to prioritize spring spraying.

Entomologists began looking for the bugs in state forests in August as a part of the state's annual survey, said Sue duPont, the state's agriculture spokeswoman. The moths usually lay their eggs at the end of July.

The insect's reappearance does not bode well for trees this spring, insect and forestry experts said.

Trees already stressed because of the drought will be further strained when the moths hatch as caterpillars in April, said Michael Raupp, a professor of entomology at the University of Maryland. The caterpillars consume large quantities of the trees' leaves, signaling the plant to dip into its stockpiled nutrients.

"The tree says 'Oh my God, I've got to photosynthesize . . . I've got to tap out my savings,'" said Raupp. Once the tree uses up its reserves, he said, it becomes vulnerable to other insect predators.

Among those predators is the two-lined chestnut borer, which tops Raupp's list of concerns.

"This guy is just waiting for a tree to be in trouble," said Raupp. "They're going to attack the tree by the hundreds" when a vulnerable plant is discovered.

Many trees damaged by an ice storm a few years ago are in the same area as the increased moth populations, Tichenor said. Those trees are just starting to rebound.

During normal weather cycles, oaks and maples can withstand defoliation of up to 30 percent in the early spring, Raupp said. But leaf loss beyond that puts the plants in danger because they are unable to store necessary starches to replace leaves.

Although gypsy moths will eat up to 100 different kinds of plants, he said, black and red oaks are on the insect's "short list" of favorites. The chestnut oak tree, also found in Garrett County, is less vulnerable because of its hardy make-up.

So far, field officers have found the largest number of clusters north of the town of Oakland, Tichenor said, along the county's oak-canopied ridges.

There are places where the groupings are very close together, said Bob Webster, western Maryland's regional forester.

"The egg masses are about as big as my thumb," Webster said, "and the bigger they are, generally

Bypass Skeptics Slate Oakland Meeting At GCMH

Garrett Countians For Smart Growth, a recently formed group of local citizens who oppose the $41.2 million Oakland bypass project, will host a meeting beginning at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 27, in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Center, located next to the Garrett Medical Group's offices.

Earlier this month, the group drew 40 participants to a meeting where local surgeon Dr. Dona Alvarez told the assembly, "There are three important points to consider about this project: Citizens don't want a bypass; we don't have the

TIME TO STRUT YOUR SPOOKS – The annual Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club Halloween parade and social is set for Thursday, Oct. 27, beginning at 6:15 p.m., when parade participants gather on Center Street outside the Mary Browning Center for the parade's start at 6:30 p.m. Costume judging will take place on Second Street between Green and Alder streets, and parade prizes and treats will distributed at the Oakland fire hall beginning at 7 p.m. All parade participants will receive a bag of treats at the fire hall, where food and beverages will be served and a cake walk will take place. The Lions Club will also draw the winning ticket for its raffle of a 27-inch flat screen television. Chances on the TV are currently available from any Lion, or at the fire hall during the event, for $2 each or three for $5.

Portion Of MLP Proj. Expected To Be Finished Soon

The completion of the Pensinger Boulevard/Heritage Drive phase of the Mtn. Lake Park sewer rehabilitation project is expected during the last week of October.

"The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities and town of Mtn. Lake Park have both assigned personnel to work with the contractor in an effort to minimize water line disturbances, but they still may occur," said a department spokesperson. "Subsequent repairs often result in dirty water, which should not create any adverse public health concerns."

Customers should flush lines by running water until it clears, advised the spokesperson. Those with special healthcare needs may wish to take additional precautions.

"All repairs are either made by or supervised by DPU personnel to assure that they are completed to industry standards," said the spokesperson.

Customers with questions about the project are asked to call the Department at 301-334-6983.

MLP Resident Asks Commissioners To Establish Fluoridation Policy

Mountain Lake Park resident David Insley would like sanitary district customers to have a voice in the fluoridation of their water supply. He asked the Garrett County commissioners this week to establish a fluoride policy for county-owned water systems. Once a policy is drafted, residents could then give their opinions on the issue.

Insley feels that either all or none of the systems should have fluoride. "Have you considered putting it in all the systems or taking it out of those that have it?" he asked the commissioners.

Currently, only three of 11 sanitary districts are fluoridated by the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities: Mtn. Lake Park, Loch Lynn, and Deer Park. Insley, though, would prefer that his water not contain the binary compound.

His wife has a thyroid condition that is adversely affected by fluoride. Additionally, one of his daughters has dental fluorosis. Her teeth are mottled from too much fluoride, Insley said.

As a result, he has to purchase numerous bottles of drinking water. But, as Insley pointed out to the commissioners, his family still has to rely on public water for cooking, washing, and bathing. Their only alternative is to install a costly reverse osmosis water filtering system, he noted.

According to a 15-year-old study conducted by the Kansas State University Cooperative Extension Service, it costs $2,500 to purchase a whole-house system to filter 200 gallons of water a day. It would also cost at least $200 to install the system and $300 or more per year for filters.

"There was no due process," Insley said about the lack of opportunity for Mtn. Lake Park residents to express their opinions on fluoride.

A number of years ago, he noted, the now defunct Sanitary District Commission Inc. granted a request from former Mtn. Lake Park officials to fluoridate their district's water. Only one meeting was held on the issue.

"That's not how it should be for something that affects so many people," Insley said.

The Maryland General Assembly and governor granted the Garrett County commissioners authority over the sanitary districts in 2003, dissolving the commission.

While Insley knows that his water has fluoride and is well aware of the possible adverse side effects of the compound, he is concerned that many of his neighbors are not.

The Mtn. Lake Park resi-

Garrett Trustees Elect New Officers, Add New Member

GEORGE TICHNELL

The Garrett College board of trustees selected Ruth M. Seib as its chairperson and George C. Tichnell as its vice chairperson recently, and added Vianne Bell to its ranks as a new member. Appointed by the governor, the board has the power to operate the college, to adopt reasonable policies, to acquire and dispose of assets or property, to set reasonable tuition and fees, and to ensure proper financial management of the institution.

Seib, who lives in Oakland, was appointed to the board in 2000. She is general manager and co-owner of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty.

Seib has a bachelor of arts degree in visual arts from Eckerd College, a real estate associate broker's license, and a GRI (Graduate Realtors' Institute) designation. She was named Realtor of the Year by the Garrett County Board of Realtors in 1993. She is a director and past president of Garrett County Board of Realtors, and a director of the Maryland Association of Realtors and the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative.

Tichnell, who lives in Oakland, also was appointed in 2000. He received an associate of arts degree from Garrett College in 1976, and has completed various professional training certifications.

Currently serving as Mettiki's vice president for Western Maryland Region operations, Tichnell is currently responsible for managing the mining operations of Mettiki Coal, Garrett County Coal, and Mettiki Coal (WV). He has 22 years of leadership experience with Maryland's largest coal producer. His responsibilities include mine planning, scheduling, marketing, budgeting, and business development.

Bell will serve the remainder of a six-year term which began July 1, 2003. She graduated summa cum laude from the University of Maryland at College Park with a bachelor of science degree in accounting. She also was a member of Beta Alpha Phi, an accounting honors fraternity.

In 2002, Bell and her husband Michael became managers and operators of Good Timber Bed and Breakfast. Since 2001, she has been treasurer for the Coalition for Effective Local Democracy, and was a founding member of the board of directors for that organization.

From 1984 until 2001, Bell was vice president and then president of the certified public accounting firm Beaubien & Bell. From 1990 to 2001, she was a partner in the bookkeeping firm of All Accounted For, and from 1981 until 1984 she was an accountant with Aronson Greene Fisher & Company public accountants.

Materials Sought For 50th Anniv. GC Fair Book

A book celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Garrett County Fair is currently in progress, and submissions ranging from stories to photographs are being requested for possible inclusion.

"The Garrett County Fair has grown with the county and today encompasses the involvement of the community in a wide variety of contests and activities," said Debbie Friend of the fair board. "Yet the fundamental purposes upon which the Garrett County Fair Association formed continues to remain the same – promoting agriculture, holding exhibitions for display and competitions among agricultural production, and having traditional fair amusements.

"The 50th fair provides a special opportunity to carry out these purposes. Marking this milestone prompts us to review the past success of our fair and revitalizes our efforts to continue the strong tradition entrusted to us. With that in mind, we are soliciting help from the community to compile a special commemorative book, which will help us celebrate our 50 years."

Persons with memorabilia (i.e., ribbons, photographs, tickets, news article, interesting stories) are asked to submit them to Debbie Friend, 1477 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550; or e-mail docdeb@gcnet.net by Dec. 1. Those who wish to have their items retuned should include their name, address, and phone number.

A special 50th anniversary display will be set up during the fair week, Aug. 12 through 19, where persons may pre-enter their items for display.

Let's Prepare for the Worst...

From numerous sources we are hearing almost every day about the impending dramatic increases in the cost of home heating energy, particularly natural gas and fuel oil. Who would have thought a decade or so ago that electricity would be a more economical source of heat than the aforementioned fossil fuels?

While it remains to be seen if the energy cost increases are going to be as high as predicted, now is certainly the time – especially in Garrett County – for homeowners who use gas and oil to prepare as much as possible for the impending financial crunch. We have been most fortunate so far this fall to have had such unusually warm temperatures, but we all know how rapidly that can change here on the mountaintop.

It's probably a bit late for this season, and not to mention expensive, to add wall and/or ceiling insulation to one's house, replace all of the windows, or throw out the gas/fuel furnace and replace it with electric baseboard heat. But there are numerous other, and far less expensive, things that can be done to make a positive difference.

Turn thermostats back, both at night and during the day if no one is home during work/school hours. For the evening and/or morning hours, turn them up to only 65 degrees (68 maximum) and put on an extra layer of clothing. During particularly cold spells, spend more evenings with friends or relatives whose homes are more efficient. Do some caulking around now-drafty windows (a tube is quite inexpensive). Install or replace weather stripping around doorways, and shove rugs up against the bottom of exterior doors. If possible, close off areas of the house that are not often used. Burn wood and sparingly use kerosene heaters (carefully!), if possible.

One thing persons should not do when the zero temperatures arrive is panic and end up freezing to death. By law, utility companies may not shut off one's source of heat in the midst of frigid conditions. Do what you need to do to keep at least reasonably comfortable and postpone worrying about the bills until spring arrives. It's also wise to sign up for the budget plan with the utility companies so the cost is spread over the entire year.

For those who qualify, there is also energy assistance available from local agencies. We strongly encourage those persons to get in touch with them now and make application.

As implied above, perhaps energy costs will not balloon as much as is being predicted. The media generally absolutely adore gloom and doom. Regardless, it is always wise to prepare for the worst and hope for the best.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Did you know that 61% of the people in America smoke, or that smoking causes many diseases like emphysema and atherosclerosis? Emphysema is a disease that makes your air sacs in your lungs overstretch, making it hard to breathe. Atherosclerosis is when too much fat builds up in your arteries and you might need to have an operation. Smoking makes this worse.

Every time you smoke a cigarette, you take 7-14 minutes off your life. If you stop smoking, think about how much money you could save. So, exercise, eat a healthy diet, and put out that cigarette.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Gov. Ehrlich requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Governor Ehrlich:

Two-thirds of the land area in Garrett County drains westward to the Gulf of Mexico. My land is west of the Backbone and Meadow mountains, which mark the Eastern Continental Divide. Water from my property drains into: Dunkard Lick, the Youghiogheny, Monongahela, Ohio, and Mississippi rivers, and finally, into the Gulf of Mexico, not the Chesapeake Bay. If you can prove otherwise, then I will pay the "flush tax."

Under Senate Bill 320 (Bay Restoration Fund), which you signed, the citizens residing west of the Eastern Continental Divide have been unjustly and falsely accused of being contributers to the pollution of the Chesapeake Bay.

All I ask for is honesty in government and that the western two-thirds of Garrett County be exempted from the "flush tax" and all bay initiatives.

To the Editor:

Cancer is not a popular topic. No one wants to talk about it or think about it until its unwelcome presence has invaded your life somehow. It might come to a neighbor, a co-worker, or a friend. It could happen to a sister, mother, daughter, or aunt. It may show up at church, at work, or in your family. It may happen to you. It did happen to me.

Because October is National Breast Cancer Awareness month, I would like to encourage every woman 40 and over to have a mammogram. Early detection is one of the best defenses we have against this and all cancers. If you are 40 years old, or if you have a family history of cancer, please call and make an appointment for a mammogram today. Don't wait. Call your friends and relatives and remind them to make appointments. Better yet, plan to go together as an annual ritual because you care about each other.

If you love a woman who is 40 or who has a family history of cancer, please encourage her to make an appointment today. Don't let her wait. Mammograms are quick, easy, and relatively painless. And you don't have to have insurance to get one. There are programs in Garrett County that will financially help you get a mammogram, as well as some other cancer screenings.

Please contact the Garrett County Health Department, the American Cancer Society, or Cindy's Fund for more information about programs that will help save your life. They did mine.

Thank you,
Donna Orris
A grateful breast cancer survivor

To the Editor:

I must preface this letter by saying I am in full support of the construction of a performing arts center in Garrett County. I think that because of the significant economic boom near Deep Creek Lake, there will be an audience to support a large theatre complex, and it could be a terrific asset to the county, both financially and culturally.

That said, I have a couple concerns. First, the only comforting aspect of the design published in October 13 issue of The Republican is that this is the preliminary design. For an $18 million building, it resembles a garage. I am not familiar with this architectural firm, but if this is any indication of their other work, I would be instantly looking for another design team. In fact, I have no desire to look at the other examples of their work listed in said article. It is totally uninspired (and uninspiring); perhaps the ugliest theatre I have ever seen. I don't claim to have any weight behind such an opinion, other than that my gut reaction is disappointment.

I have no idea what the inside will look like. But the first thing to convince people to simply walk through the doors is its outward appearance. I can't imagine the difficulty in trying to convince investors to contribute money for the construction of what appears to be a cinder block warehouse.

Now for the positive... because it is preliminary, let's give it another go. Let's request another design. Let's seek other architects. Let's build a theatre that people in the county will be proud to visit and use. An $18 million commitment is on the line.

Sincerely,
Matthew Sincell

To the Editor:

I have the distinct pleasure of representing Garrett County teachers as the Teacher of the Year for 2005-2006. Not only have I been awarded wonderful prizes for my classroom, but I also have the opportunity to participate in some special events throughout the year. A local part of this honor involves attending the Autumn Glory Kick-Off Reception and riding in the Autumn Glory Parade. I am ashamed to say that, as a 17-year resident of Garrett County, I had never attended either event. But alas, I am now reformed. After the warm reception that I experienced at both county events, I can only say I am touched by the support of all. Autumn Glory festivities will now be a vital part of my life in Garrett County. You made me feel proud to be a professional educator. Most importantly, you made me proud to be a Garrett County resident.

I am honored and humbled to serve as the Garrett County Teacher of the Year, and only hope that I can represent the excellence in education that I observe each day in the professionals around me. Our teachers, support personnel, bus drivers, custodians, etc., are some of the best and they go above and beyond for the benefit of the fine students of Garrett County. There are many special things about our county, and our educational system is certainly one of them.

I would like to thank family, friends, faculty/staff, administration, the Board of Education, and the Chamber of Commerce for their support of the Teacher of the Year program. Most of all, I would like to thank the students, who have been a constant source of energy and joy in my career. You have taught me much over the years.

Sincerely,
Y. Michelle Harman

To the Editor:

I am a resident of Oakland. I, unlike DeCorsey Bolden, am in favor of the proposed Oakland bypass.

Mr. Bolden said that Oakland is a "busy town." It is. The traffic congestion is terrible. Mr. Bolden said that there are no problems after 10 p.m. Right. But, what about during the troubling times? Unless one works night shift, is attending some type of event/function, or is a "partyer/night owl," then he/she should be home at 10 p.m. I don't travel much at that time of night. I travel in the day time. Perhaps I should start though? Wal-Mart is open then. I can't afford to shop at the downtown stores anyway.

Mr. Bolden said that the bypass would separate Mtn. Lake Park and Oakland. I'm sorry, but isn't that the case now? Each are towns with a mayor, town council, and so on.

Then there was the lady who complained about speeding traffic. They do that now without a bypass.

Mr. Bolden complained about the costs of the bypass. I oppose the $18 million arts center proposal at Deep Creek Lake. We have enough stuff like that. We need more low-priced shopping facilities, like Target, Gabriel's, Good Will, and Ollie's. We need more family restaurants, like Ponderosa and so on. We need a place where the poor of Garrett County can go without alcohol and so on. We need a YMCA-like facility for people/children. Why not tear down old buildings or remodel them for businesses? What about the old Treasure Island building. It is an eyesore.

Bill Detrick
Oakland

P.S. Mr. Bolden was a volunteer fireman. When the congestion of traffic is bad, it's hard for the Oakland Fire Department and local rescue personnel to get from one end of town to the other.

speaking, the healthier they are."

Visible from the ground, the eggs are usually grouped along trees' bark and limbs. They can also be found in stacks of firewood, which worries Raupp because hunters and others could inadvertently pick up the infested wood and spread the insects to other areas.

The larvae disperse when they release a silky thread and get carried away by the wind to nearby trees, but that is usually as far as they get, Raupp said. Female moths do not fly.

Forests likely will be sprayed with insecticides next spring to kill the insects, a method used often to combat the voracious eaters, said duPont. In 2003, the state sprayed 14,000 acres of land and in 2002, more than 39,000 acres were sprayed in 14 counties and Baltimore City.

Maryland's moth infestation peaked in 1990, when the department sprayed 187,723 acres and the moths defoliated another 133,000 unsprayed acres. Tichenor said the department had to prioritize areas. That same year was Garrett County's worst, with 36,705 of its trees defoliated by the moths.

Tichenor wouldn't compare what happened 15 years ago with what could happen next spring, but said potentially large areas are at risk of defoliation.

Mother Nature provides another line of attack against the bugs, he explained. A fungus, known as Entomophaga maimaiga, kills the insects and reduced the number of moths in Maryland in the mid-90s.

The disease makes its way into the gypsy moth population through young caterpillars, Tichenor said, when spores along the forest floor infect them. When those caterpillars die, they produce another disease that kills older caterpillars unaffected by the spores. The disease needs moist conditions to thrive.

But even if the spring weather is cool and wet, Tichenor said, it takes time for the caterpillars to spread the disease to older adults which already have eaten tree leaves. Therefore, spraying begins while the caterpillars, which emerge in late April and early May, are still young.

There are no estimates yet on how much land could be sprayed next year, duPont said. Forest officials will make the decision in November.

Gypsy moths have been a constant presence in the state since they appeared more than two decades ago, devastating trees in state parks and residential neighborhoods. State officials accept the insects' existence, but plan to put up a solid defense.

"Our role is to kill enough caterpillars that they aren't defoliating the trees," Tichenor said. "We're just spraying enough caterpillars so that trees can stay healthy."

Surveying will continue until all of the masses are spotted, duPont said. The hope is to finish by Thanksgiving, but work could extend into the winter.

dent said Public Utilities lists the names of the sanitary districts and outlines policies and fees on its web site, but there is no information about what systems have fluoride or how much of it is dispensed.

"I think it's a violation of informed consent," Insley said, likening fluoridation to medication. Informed consent is a legal doctrine requiring doctors to provide a patient with all relevant information about a proposed treatment or procedure. Four items must be provided: the nature of the procedure, the risks, the benefits, and the availability of alternative treatments and their risks and benefits.

He said one of his neighbors had been giving her child fluoride tablets, unaware that her water already contained the substance.

Gregg said doctors, dentists, and pharmacists usually look at a patient's address to see if he or she lives in a fluoridated district before writing or filling a prescription.

To further emphasize his point about the need to reexamine fluoridating county water, Insley reviewed some of his research on the topic. He noted that dentists recommend children under 6 years not use fluoride toothpaste. The compound may also cause problems for senior citizens with depressed thyroids. In addition, Dr. Arvid Carlsson, a Nobel prize winner in medicine, opposes fluoridation, and several European countries have stopped putting fluoride in their waters systems.

"I'm open to looking into it," Commissioner Fred Holliday said about setting a policy. He added that input was also needed from the county health officer and the Mtn. Lake Park mayor and town council.

"We'll revisit the issue and discuss it," Gregg said, adding that the county attorney should also review the issue, as Mtn. Lake Park officials were the ones who initially requested fluoridation.

Insley said he would talk to the council, but reiterated that the commissioners now set the policy for his sanitary district, not Mtn. Lake Park.

"I'm just asking for some due process," he stressed.

Since being granted authority over the sanitary districts, the county commissioners have established several policies for water and sewer customers, including impact and connection fees and tap transfers.

Create A Tornado? No Problem For Garrett County Whiz Kid

by Mari Perry
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK – In the vast interior of Cole Field House at the University of Maryland, petite 14-year-old Joanna C. Guy, dressed in rolled-up jeans and K-Swiss sneakers, worked with a team of other kids to create a tornado.

And to clean up a biohazard site.

And to replicate a tsunami and build wave barriers to protect a simulated beach.

And to land a blimp in pea-soup fog.

All the tasks were part of a national science competition for middle schoolers called the Young Scientist Challenge, sponsored by Silver Spring-based Discovery Channel. Joanna and the four other kids on her team were among 40 finalists who had emerged from among 75,000 entries nationwide.

Joanna, a freshman at Garrett County's Southern High School, made it to the finals with a unique social science project about educational expectations that she devised when she was an eighth-grader at Southern Middle School.

Other finalists' projects ranged from a Florida girl who lowered egg cholesterol by controlling chickens' diet to an Arizona boy who collected solar energy to heat air and water for his home.

Brought together for the finals, 19 girls and 21 boys worked in teams of five to tackle challenges based on the theme "Forces of Nature." The teams had 90 minutes to complete each challenge. The top young scientist was to be announced Wednesday, based on performance in these challenges.

The theme for the seventh annual competition was inspired by the tsunami that hit Southeast Asia last year.

"Sadly, it had a lot more relevance after the hurricane season," said Donald A. Baer, the Discovery Communications executive in charge of the national challenge.

Each student also performed an experiment to a camera and was judged on his or her ability to communicate the science behind the experiment.

"We're trying to find the best communicator," said Steve L. Jacobs, the competition's head judge. "We're looking for who touches your heart and captures your imagination."

The lone Maryland student, Joanna, from Oakland, is "definitely in contention" for the top prize, Jacobs said.

The inspiration for Joanna's project, which won in a regional science fair in Frostburg last fall, was the federal No Child Left Behind Act and the resulting anxiety in classrooms from the focus on testing.

Joanna said she wanted to answer the question: "Would students perform differently on a test if they think it's difficult or easy?" The answer was yes.

Joanna created three vocabulary tests using eighth grade words. For eighth-graders at Southern Middle School in Oakland, she labeled the tests as vocabulary for sixth-, eighth- and 10th-graders.

Eighth-graders at Northern Middle School in Accident took the same three tests, but they weren't labeled by grade level.

After her parents helped her grade the 18,000 questions by hand, Joanna found that students performed better when they thought they were taking a sixth grade test, and expected to do better.

Because she couldn't afford electronic grading and spent a week grading the tests, Joanna said, "It made me realize how important funding is for science."

Joanna said the results of her project translate beyond student testing.

"If you go into anything with confidence, you do better than if you have none," she said.

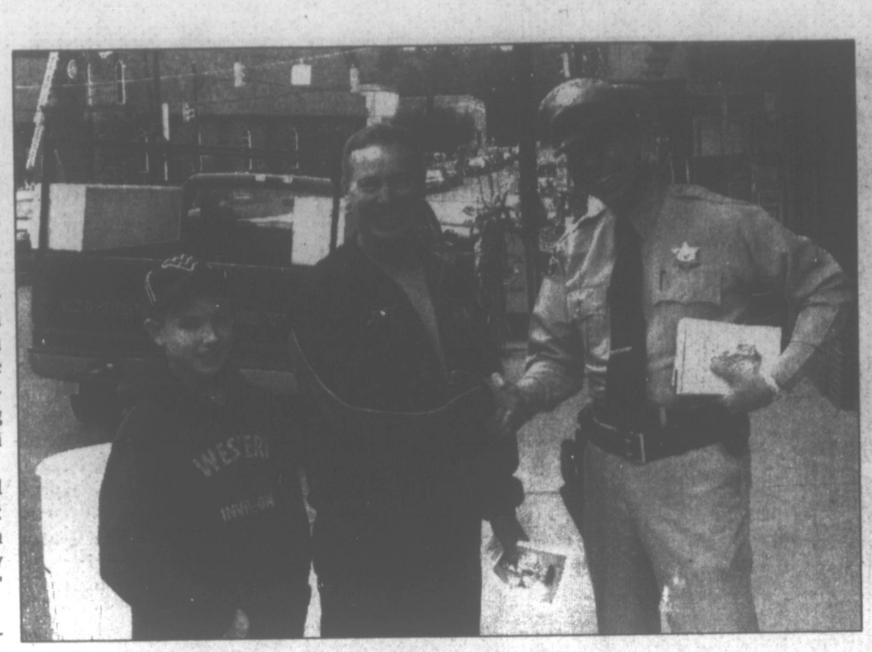
The top young scientist will receive a $20,000 college scholarship, and all finalists receive $500, said Michelle Russo, a Discovery Channel spokeswoman.

Other prizes include a week at science camp, a telescope, a week at a national park, and digital photography equipment, Russo said.

Although a goal of the challenge is to reward the best middle school scientists, Baer said the competition is also designed to motivate younger children and provide role models.

"We want to inspire young Americans to stay interested in science," Baer said.

He said a program about the competition is scheduled to be broadcast around Christmas in the hopes that children will be home watching TV.



DAVE BROWNING MEETS DAVID BROWNING – Garrett County resident Dave Browning, center, and his son Austin got a chance to meet David Browning of Bristol, Va., in downtown Oakland last Friday. David Browning impersonates Barney Fife from the Andy Griffith Show and was part of this year's Autumn Glory festivities. He has performed as "The Mayberry Deputy" in more than 5,000 events and has been an opening act for the "real" Barney Fife, Don Knotts. The Brownings briefly discussed their family histories, and Austin and Dave gave David a copy of Meshach Browning's autobiography, Forty-Four Years of the Life of a Hunter. Pictured below is "Deputy Fife" directing units in the Firemen's Parade last Thursday evening. He also "patrolled" the parade route, handing out numerous tickets to spectators for such violations as impersonating a human being and impersonating an Autumn Glory princess. Following the parade, he performed his routine for the Oktoberfest crowd at the Oakland fire hall. Photos by John McEwen.

Flu, Pneumonia Immunization Scheduled Released By GCHD

The Garrett County Health Department is offering flu and pneumonia immunization clinics this month and next at walk-in clinics at Senior Center meal sites throughout the county, the Garrett County Health Department in Oakland, and the Grantsville Community Outreach Center (see accompanying box for scheduling details).

"The Health Department now has an influenza vaccine supply available to immunize individuals wishing protection against this virus," said Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty. "People need to take advantage of the flu clinics scheduled in their communities, and we encourage the vaccination of all individuals, especially those at at increased risk for complications related to the virus."

The increased risk groups are as follows:

•people older than 65;

•persons age 6 months to 64 years with certain chronic medical conditions such as heart or lung disease, asthma, kidney disease, metabolic disorders including diabetes, anemia and other blood disorders, certain neuromuscular disorders that can cause breathing problems, weakened immune systems due to HIV/AIDS, long-term treatment with drugs such as steroids or cancer treatment or radiation;

•healthy children aged 6 - 23 months of age;

•persons who have direct contact with at-risk individuals, such as health care providers, nursing home staff, household members of those in the high-risk groups, and women who will be pregnant during the influenza season.

In addition to the injectable influenza vaccine, the Garrett County Health Department has a supply of FluMist®, the live, attenuated (weakened) nasal spray influenza vaccine. It is recommended for healthy persons from the age 5 through 49 years, who are not pregnant. It is approved for most healthcare workers and household contacts of most people at high risk for influenza complications. FluMist® will be available only at the Health Department sites in Oakland and Grantsville.

The cost of either type of influenza vaccine is $20. Pneumococcal vaccination will be $43 and should only be given twice in a lifetime.

If a person has Medicare Part B, the Garrett County Health Department will bill Medicare for this service. This is the only insurance approved as a payor. The Garrett County Health Department will not be responsible for billing private insurance, or Medical Assistance, and payment will be due at the time of service.

Persons who have questions about either vaccine should contact their physician or the Health Department at 301-334-7777 or 301-895-3111 (from Grantsville). More information about the flu vaccine clinics can be found by visiting www.garretthealth.org or by calling the Health Department's "Flu Hotline" at 301-334-7697.

Adorable Adoptables

LOTS OF CANINES ARE AT THE SHELTER – These two 6-month-old black Labs are brother and sister and are described as docile and loving. Their owner was moving, and they are what is left of an unwanted litter. Pictured at right is a friendly female beagle that was picked up in Oakland near BFS. Below is a collie mix. He was found wearing a collar in Westernport and is anxiously awaiting his owner. Also looking for a home is a very lovable orange longhaired cat. He has been declawed and will need to be kept inside. "Come in and meet him and the other nice cats and kittens that we have," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Last week there were nearly 12 dogs at the shelter. All but two were strays, yet none were reclaimed by their owners. Only one, the female black Lab, was adopted. Please do not let your dogs run loose unless they will stay on your property. Dogs have been stolen, shot, or brought to the shelter as 'strays.' Please, put IDs on your dogs." Area Businesses Invest In Students By Boosting Project Lead The Way

Several area business leaders as well as the Garrett County Department of Economic Development were recognized yesterday for their donations to a new Garrett County school system program called Project Lead the Way (PLTW). This standards-driven program combines rigorous academics and upgraded technical courses that are focused on future careers. It serves as a model for career and technology education programs that prepare students for post-secondary workplace and education success.

The program continually requires students to attain higher skills in math, science, and technology in each of its courses. To establish these requirements, PLTW incorporates national standards in those specific courses.

"By integrating PLTW experiences with the other classroom curriculums, students will be better prepared for success after high school graduation," a spokesperson said. "Providing these types of opportunities, the school system will effectively change the educational outcomes for our students, the college-bound rate for our high school graduates, the skill level of our workforce, and the economic vitality of our region."

Several area businesses contributed as much as $2,000 each toward the purchase of 30 high-performance computer workstations in computer labs at both Garrett County high schools.

In total, local businesses contributed $13,000, matched by a $15,000 Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) grant, to equip the labs at each school.

Educators and students of the Garrett County school system offered thanks to the Garrett County Department of Economic Development for its role in pursuing the ARC grant and soliciting matching pledges from local businesses.

Participating businesses include Metiki Coal, Garrett Container Systems, First United Bank, William A. Saltysiak, Esq., Beitzel Corporation, Pioneer Conveyor LLC, Rodeheaver & Associates, Thrasher Engineering, Financial Computer Support Inc., Sycamore Associates, Simon Pearce, Wisp Resort and Hotel, Allegheny Power, Greater Maryland Tool, and Eiswert, Janes & Kepple, P.A.

GC's World View International Club Brings Global Focus To Garrett Coll.

by Mykolas Gudelis

With Garrett College having the highest international student enrollment in its history this year, its World View International Club is growing and planning to become more active in the community.

Fourteen international students started their first college year on September 7 at Garrett College. For the first time, the college has students from all three Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. The two Lithuanian students are the first students from their country to attend Garrett College, as is the Latvian student.

All together there are approximately 20 international students on campus. The diversity within the international group is great. Students come from countries all around the world, such as Estonia, South Africa, Lithuania, Canada, Togo, India, Latvia, Great Britain, Bosnia-Herzegovina, and Croatia.

"We want to be active not only within the college but also outside it," said World View International Club president Kristina Kask. "We want to bring our activities outside the college walls and get the local community involved. I believe international students and local community members both have interesting perspectives about the world we are all living in today, including culture, history, and politics. We all could share our experience. I believe there is a lot we can learn from each other."

The international students and their new American friends quickly came together under the international student club called the World View International Club. Club members recently held elections to elect the club's officials. Kask (Estonia), a second year student, was elected the president, and Bongani Dlamini (South Africa), vice president. Other officers are Krista Joosep (Estonia) as treasurer, Kerttu Siim (Estonia) as secretary, Zumra Balihodzic (Bosnia-Herzegovina) as events coordinator, and Mykolas Gudelis (Lithuania) as public relations coordinator.

Club members unanimously voted for Rebecca Dornburg (USA) to be the World View International Club representative to the Student Government Association. As part of the effort to become involved in the campus community, seven members of the World View International Club also were elected by the Garrett College student body to official positions in student government, including Josef Kariuki (Kenya) as SGA president, Kask as vice president, Joosep as secretary, Lasma Kanele (Latvia) as historian, Ivan Funcic (Croatia) as sophomore representative, and Balihodzic as freshman representative.

International students are already preparing for International Education Month in November. A program titled "Focus on International Women: Aspirations and Conditions" will take place from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 10, in the Garrett College auditorium. This presentation will be co-sponsored by the Garrett County chapters of Business and Professional Women (BPW) and the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

AAUW President Marilyn Moors will facilitate a panel discussion during the program, during which panel members will talk about women's experiences of life in their home countries and the USA. A reception will follow in the Garrett College Art Gallery.

Students are also planning for an international film festival at the college featuring movies made in their home countries. At this point films from Bosnia-Herzegovina, Lithuania, Latvia, and South Africa will be shown, along with movies from other countries.

The World View International Club is planning to stay active throughout the college year. There are different trips, sports games, international dinners, fundraising campaigns, presentations, and other activities planned. The annual International Dinner, the club's largest activity, will take place during the spring semester, on April 22, 2006.

For more information about the World View International Club and its many activities, or about international student admissions and services at Garrett College, persons may call Global Education coordinator Judy A. Carbone at 301-387-3046.

The board has begun a national search for a new college president. Herman indicated that he expects a significant number of highly qualified people to apply, and hopes the new president will be at the college before July 1, 2006.

Dr. Herman said he considers his time at Garrett College the privilege of his lifetime, but looks forward to more teaching, travel, research, and writing, plus continued affiliation with the college. He explained that he had wanted to work at a rural community college and had ideas about what a good college should look like. "I wanted the opportunity to try some of my ideas out, and found that opportunity at Garrett College."

Teaching was always his first love, and Herman taught classes at the college during most of his term as president and looks forward to doing that again.

"I love this institution," he remarked. "It has been part of my life for 20 years. I have enormous affection for its students, faculty, and staff. I also know that I could not have done my job without the dedication of the members of the board of trustees, who have served with devotion and who have supported me over the years.

""My wife, Dr. Gail Herman, and I, plan to make Garrett County our home," Herman concluded. "The future is bright for the college. I will watch with pride."

Adventures of a Continental Drifter

by Elliott Hester

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

St. Martin's Press, c. 2005, $23.95, 301 pages

You know what it's like: Your friends come home from a long vacation after being somewhere interesting, and they drag out piles and stacks and albums full of photographs and postcards of places you've never been and people you'll never see. You try to muster some sort of excitement, but it's not easy to do when your idea of a vacation is painting the house.

Ah, but you've never met Elliott Hester. You won't have to pretend to be interested when you read his new book Adventures of a Continental Drifter. You'll be too busy laughing to pretend.

Elliott Hester was an airline steward once upon a time, but in the wake of September 11, 2001, when Americans were canceling flying plans and airlines were cutting jobs, Hester saw the writing on the hangar wall. Maybe it was time to head out and explore those places that he had only wished he could see when he had been working for an airline. Maybe it was time to get away.

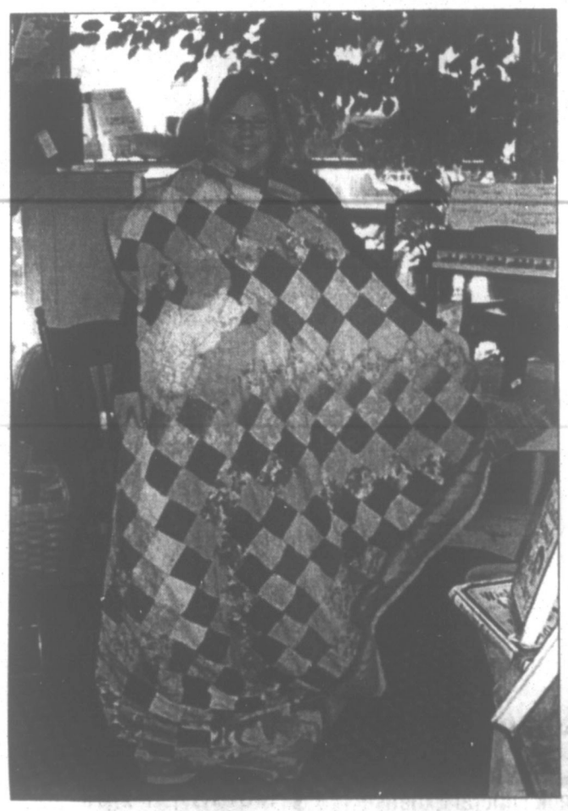
With a few articles of clothing, journals, and other minor personal items stuffed in a duffel bag, Hester started his journey in Argentina, where the first thing he says he noticed were the stares. Black people in Argentina are so much a minority that they're almost invisible, Hester says, and since he is African American, he was a curiosity. The stares weren't unfriendly; in fact, Hester says that he rarely hears racist comments on his travels.

From Argentina, Hester traveled by cargo ship around French Polynesia, where he met a man who ate only "fish, fish, fish" and hated it. He then flew to Australia, where he spent time in a desolate underground town that proudly touts opal mining as its claim to fame. He flew to Brunei, Thailand, Singapore, and Indonesia, then to India, where he got a vicious bout of "Delhi Belly."

In northeast Africa, Hester learned that the South Side of Chicago, although it may have been rough, was a comparatively privileged place to grow up. He then flew to eastern Africa, to western Europe, and back home to Miami, only to dream of the next continental journey.

When most people say they're going on vacation overseas, they mean Paris or London or Tokyo. Whoever thinks of checking out an almost-abandoned theme park in the tiny country of Brunei or hopping on a camel in Egypt? Elliott Hester did both, and it's a good thing, too, because Adventures of a Continental Drifter is one of the funniest adventure books I've read in awhile. Hester's stories prove that travel is still safe (although he has several close calls), but it requires common sense (which he says he occasionally lacks) and plenty of intestinal fortitude – literally.

If you've ever longed to travel, but haven't, then pick up this book and dream of your own adventure. Adventures of a Continental Drifter is a whole lot cheaper than an around-the-world ticket and a whole lot more fun than an armful of someone else's travel albums.



AG QUILT RAFFLE WINNER ANNOUNCED – Lizzie Zambernardi, Oakland, was the raffle winner of the Garrett County Humane Society's fall patchwork quilt. The quilt was displayed at the Mtn. Md. Lawmakers Hear Favorable Forecast On Revenue, Spending

by Katrina Altersitz
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Lawmakers heard a favorable forecast Tuesday – not a cloud on the horizon for Maryland revenue. They are looking toward a "record-setting year" in state aid to local government, continually increasing aid to education, and a $1.4 billion surplus predicted through the end of this fiscal year.

"This is a lot better year than we've had for the past few years," said Warren G. Deschenaux, director of the Office of Policy Analysis, which presented its predictions to assist the Spending Affordability Committee in setting a spending limit for the governor's budget next month.

"Revenues are up. Spending is up," he said, referring to full funding for programs that have not had that in recent years. But, he warned the legislators of the possibility of declining housing markets, increasing interest rates, and rising fuel costs.

"Easy come; easy go," Deschenaux said.

Opening a meeting of four different legislative committees, Deschenaux pointed to his first of many graphs, a "dramatic squiggly line" representing the "roller coaster of the economy." In this roller coaster, he said they were all riding in the back, unable to see when they were at the very top, unable to prepare fully for a fall.

Theresa M. Tuszynski, who performed the fiscal analysis for the upcoming year, said her predictions built in a gradual increase in mortgage rates and a decline in the housing market.

At the moment, higher revenues are being fed by unexpected increases in the personal income tax and in sales tax – including real estate tax – collections. Property tax revenue also increased due to a rise in property values and assessments despite a lowering of the tax itself by 13 counties.

Officials said that the baseline prediction for the next fiscal year's budget, which begins in June, is $13.7 billion, an increase over the current budget by $1.3 billion.

In a separate meeting earlier, Deputy Attorney General Maureen M. Dove threw what could be a curve ball to many of the same legislators. Because of declining tobacco sales nationally, the federal government is considering lowering the amount of money it demands from tobacco companies as part of its historic settlement with the industry. This money goes to the states.

Dove said Maryland could lose as much as $26.1 million. Secretary of Budget and Management Cecilia Januskiewicz said the possible loss of tobacco money "could really create a problem for our budget."

Still, the tone of Tuesday's revenue forecast seemed quite sunny.

"We are over $1 billion higher than predicted," Deschenaux said. "We are riding upward" on the "revenue roller coaster."

Salem School Increases Area Fundraising

The Salem School near Grantsville has recently increased efforts to boost public awareness of its $2.2 million capital campaign for school construction, starting with participating in area events such as the annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade.

"We're almost to our goal," said Louise Richards, executive director. "Our float this week and again next weekend at the FSU Homecoming Parade in Frostburg will let the public know that we're still looking for help to finish strong. We want our kids to be in their new classrooms after Christmas."

The capital campaign has reportedly raised 80 percent of the funds needed to build a new school, and the Maryland Salem Children's Trust is asking the public to help to raise the balance of the funds needed to complete construction of a 10,000-square foot school building.

Salem's entry involved a schoolhouse float, complete with an antique school bell, little red schoolhouse "shed" from Esh's Sheds in Bedford, Pa., and a trailer courtesy of the new Tractor Supply store in LaVale. The float was sponsored by All Superior Roofing in LaVale.

The public campaign began with a natural foods booth at the Springs Folk Festival. Volunteers included Debbie Debruin, board member, the Faith Presbyterian Church Youth Group from LaVale, and a household of students from Salem with their teaching parent.

"The kids had a great time helping a great cause," said Brandon Newell, teaching parent for Salem and youth group leader at Faith Presbyterian. "Investing in Salem means giving a kid another chance."

For more information, persons may call Karen South at 301-689-8176, extension 206.

Health Officers' Retreat, Md. Rural Summit Slated At Wisp

by Jo Donaldson

An annual retreat for rural health officers will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 25-26, at the Wisp in McHenry. In addition, the rural health officers will be staying for the Maryland Rural Summit the following two days, Oct. 27-28.

HEALTH OFFICERS' RETREAT

We will have 15 health officers from around the state coming to the retreat," said Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty. "The health officers meet each year for strategic planning, and this is the first time they have ever met in Garrett County.

"I am looking forward to the opportunity to show them Garrett County hospitality. We scheduled an optional tour of the Health Department. We want to give them an overview of programs we have in Garrett County that are specific to our part of the stated.

"Basically this is a strategic get-together in a more relaxed setting to do specific training about health concerns in the state and what our role is," Glotfelty continued. "We will be talking about issues of mutual concern and may look at potential legislation."

Holding the retreat near the summit means people do not have to make two trips, plus they can enjoy Garrett County longer.

"The summit is a combination of rural health and economics," explained the local health officer, who heads up the Garrett County Health Department. "It is really significant that the summit is in Garrett County this year. It usually is farther east."

A lot of time health needs in rural parts of the state are different from the metropolitan areas, such as distance, access to care, and problems with recruitment of health care providers.

"It is wonderful to have the health officers in a rural area and give them a better appreciation for our health issues and unique needs, as well as well as the different strategies we employ to deal with those needs," stated Glotfelty. "Some are quite effective, such as collaborations."

RURAL SUMMIT

Hundreds of other area officials will join the health officers in western Maryland Oct. 27-28 for the eighth annual Maryland Rural Summit.

"Rural Workforce and Entrepreneurship Development: Investment in Our Future" is the theme of the summit that is being held at Wisp Resort Hotel and Conference Center.

Glotfelty will host the annual Rural Awards luncheon, with Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley as the featured speaker. The summit officially opens at 10:30 a.m. with a welcome by Cumberland Memorial Hospital board member Robert M. Hutcheson and Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross.

Workshops will continue throughout the morning. Under the rural health track, "Results Achieved through the Healthcare Workforce Development Initiative" will be presented by Robert W. Seufkamp, executive director of the Governor's Workforce Investment Board, and moderator Grace Zaczek, director of the Office of Primary Care and Rural Health.

"Educational Strategies Addressing Health Workforce Challenges" will be moderated by Thomas McLaughlin, with speakers Angie Pickwick, instructional dean of Health Services Institute of Montgomery College; Carol Eustis, School of Professions of the Community College of Baltimore County – Essex; and Ronni Haertig, director of statewide initiatives at the Maryland Association of Community Colleges.

"Recruitment and Retention: How Area Health Education Centers are Responding to Health Workforce Challenges" will be presented by Meseret Bezuenh, deputy director for strategic initiatives, University of Maryland.

Other speakers will be Kim Williams, executive director of the Baltimore Area Health Education Center, and Western Maryland Area Health Education Center director Susan Stewart and Health Careers coordinator Cyndi Slacum.

Other workshops will be offered under the rural development track.

For more information about the Maryland Rural Summit, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386, or via e-mail at charlie@garrettchamber.com

The event is hosted by the chamber, the Rural Maryland Council, the Maryland Rural Health Association, and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Office of Primary Care and Rural Health, in partnership with the Tri-County Council for Southern Maryland, Tri-County councils of the Lower Eastern Shore of Maryland and Western Maryland, and the Upper Shore and Mid-Shore regional councils.

Different Treatments for Migraines

Migraine headaches are a painful disorder affecting nearly 30 million Americans. Migraine sufferers often attribute their headaches to stress or sinus pressure. Individuals may receive a warning sign like nausea, vomiting, visible flashing light or colors, or sensitivity to noise, light, or smells just prior to onset.

In an effort to control the severity and numbers of headaches, your physician may begin preventive therapy with medication. Beta-blockers like propranolol and nadolol are sometimes used, but these drugs also slow heart rate. Persons with diabetes should use caution as beta-blockers might hide the effects of extremely low blood sugar. Anticonvulsants such as topiramate or valproic acid are also used increasingly. Calcium-channel blockers and tricyclic antidepressants are used less commonly, but still benefit some patients. All of these medications can have side effects like low blood pressure and dizziness. Avoiding triggers and managing stress can also help prevent these headaches. Monitor your environment, your emotions, your diet (including) medication, and your sleep patterns to get a better grasp of what could be causing your migraine. Talk to your local pharmacist if you have questions about any of the preventive medications above.

DeWitt Powers Rams To 30-22 Win Over Vikings

The Rams of Southern High School never trailed in Friday night's football clash with host Petersburg, but they did not secure their third victory of the season until there were just 17 seconds left on the clock. That's when running back Bret DeWitt capped a Ram drive with a 24-yard touchdown run, and then carried the ball for the two-point conversion to give Southern a 30-22 win.

It was a personal record-setting night for the 6-1, 164-pound senior, who rushed for 222 yards on 25 carries and scored 22 of the Rams' 30 points, with three touchdowns and a pair of two-point runs.

DeWitt's first TD came in the first quarter on a three-yard carry. His conversion run gave the Rams an 8-0 advantage.

The Vikings (1-6) cut Southern's lead to two points in the second stanza when quarterback Payden Ludwick hit Casey Knox with a five-yard touchdown pass. The run for the conversion was no good.

A 32-yard touchdown run by DeWitt early in the third quarter, followed by a successful conversion run by quarterback Andrew VanBogelen, gave the Rams a 16-6 lead.

Petersburg's Ludwick went to the air again later in the third period, connecting with Matt Burns on an 80-yard pass play for a touchdown. The run for the conversion was good, cutting Southern's lead to two points again, 16-14.

Senior fullback Nick Gregg stretched the Rams' lead early in the fourth quarter with a one-yard touchdown carry. The conversion run was stopped short, leaving Southern with a 22-14 lead.

The home team knotted the score at 22-22 when Ludwick scored on a one-yard carry, and then threw successfully to Kyle Porter for the two-point bonus.

The Rams responded with a winning drive, which featured a 22-yard carry by DeWitt, immediately followed by his 24-yard touchdown run and his second successful two-point conversion carry.

Spearheading Southern's defensive effort was nose guard Gage Welch. Leading the Vikings defensively was Casey Vance with 17 tackles, one interception, and a fumble recovery.

The Rams had a number of other scoring opportunities, particularly in the first half, that were halted by turnovers. They fumbled the ball four times, losing it twice, and VanBogelen threw one interception.

Southern finished with 337 yards rushing.

Ram coach Fred Gregg was pleased with his team's effort, particularly after they found the handle on the ball.

"We had other opportunities to score, and our offensive line played as a unit as well as we have all year," he said, "but our untimely turnovers made us our own worst enemy. We spent just about the entire first half in our own half of the field."

Gregg said that the most positive part of the game for his team was the Rams' final drive late in the fourth quarter, not only because it resulted in the winning touchdown, but also because of the confidence it gave his players.

"I think our kids matured athletically in that drive," he said. "They played with a sense of urgency, but they didn't panic. They managed the clock well and scored with almost no time left on the clock to prevent Petersburg from getting another chance.

"Actually we were very pleased with how we played in most of the second half," he continued. "Our kids responded well to our advice, played more physically, and took much better care of the ball."

The Rams, who evened their record at 3-3, also managed to stay healthy through the contest and should be at full strength for this week.

And being at full strength will be crucial, as the Rams will host a talented Frankfort squad. The Falcons are 4-4 and are coming off a 35-13 win over Berkeley Springs.

Frankfort's offensive unit has for a number of years operated almost entirely from the wing-T, but this year is also incorporating more of a spread offense, much like that of West Virginia University – running and passing often from the shotgun and using the option.

"They do a wide variety of things offensively," Gregg said, "and that's because they have so much faith in a very good quarterback."

That quarterback is senior Jason Blackburn (6-0, 175), who throws the ball well and can run it himself effectively, but likes to get it into the hands of any one of three other big, strong offensive weapons in senior fullback Jason Yoder (5-10, 205), senior halfback Travis Moreland (6-0, 205), and senior wing/slot Jonathan Kerns (5-11, 178).

"These guys are all good, and it's going to take a major effort on the part of our defense to try to contain them," said Gregg.

The Falcons' 6-2 defensive unit is anchored on the line by a pair of big guards in senior Bobby Ashenfelter at 5-11, 290, and junior Cody Popluhar at 6-2, 275. The team's top linebacker is Yoder, while Moreland and Kerns spearhead the Frankfort secondary.

"We will try to run straight at them, but against a 6-2 defense we're going to have to find a way to get out on the perimeter," Gregg said.

"Frankfort has had one of the best programs in the area for many years," Gregg said. "This team has very good size and good speed, so we will need to play fundamentally sound football on every play in order to be successful against them," Gregg concluded.

Friday's kickoff at the SHS athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

Huskies Battered By Beall In 42-8 Demolition At FSU

Accustomed to handing out the punishment, the Northern High School varsity football squad was on the receiving end of a 42-8 thumping from a powerhouse Beall squad, perhaps the top team in the area, according to NHS coach Phil Carr. The Huskies record fell to 4-2 with the loss, leaving them one game behind 5-1 Beall and two in back of unbeaten Allegany (6-0).

"Beall is very good, I think they're even better than Allegany, even though Alco beat the Mounties earlier in the season," Carr said after the high-stakes WMIL game, which was played under the lights of Frostburg State University's Bobcats Stadium. "We had a great opportunity to secure a playoff spot, which makes the loss all the more disappointing."

The Mountaineers set the tone for the night with a physical, ball-controlling drive that began right after the opening kickoff. Beall chewed up 79 yards and seven minutes on its 13-play scoring march, which included the kind of play that would prove to be the Huskies' downfall. On fourth-and-two from the NHS 21-yard line, Mountie quarterback Logan Thomas picked up enough to get the first down and keep the drive alive.

"We had opportunities to stop them throughout the night, and just didn't do it," remarked Carr. "Beall picked up three big first downs in fourth and short yardage situations."

The scoring drive culminated when halfback Jimmie Kline took a pitchout and rumbled seven yards into the end zone. A successful point-after kick made the score 7-0.

The Huskies appeared to be game to tie things up on their subsequent possession as NHS marched to the Mounties' 29. The drive stalled there, however, and Northern turned the ball over on downs.

Beall took control from there to embark on its second scoring sally. Northern had two opportunities to stop the Mounties in their tracks, but failed both times. On third and eight, Beall's Thomas fired off a 21-yard pass completion good for the first down. Later, on fourth down, Thomas kept the ball and gained six yards, more than enough to move the chains. Finally, halfback Josh Harper rumbled 13 yards to cap the nine-play, 71 yard march at the 9:09 mark of the second quarter.

Running the Mounties' wishbone offense to perfection, quarterback Kline turned the next Beall drive into a score when he turned the corner on a keeper and ran 38 yards for a TD. Kline ran for the two points and the 21-0 lead. It took Beall just four plays to cover the 67 yards to the end zone.

Having the wishbone's tables turned on the Huskies was a bitter pill to swallow, Carr admitted. "We had a good week of preparation, but we were disappointed in our execution, especially on defense," the NHS skipper said. "Our defenders have to know their responsibilities – who has the quarterback, who has the pitchman, etc. We just didn't execute."

Disaster struck on the ensuing kickoff when the Huskies fumbled the ball away at their own 33. Harper subsequently turned the miscue into a touchdown by taking the ball to the right and motoring six yards for the Mountaineers' third TD of the second quarter, and a successful PAT kick gave the hosts a 28-0 lead with 4:21 remaining in the first half. "The game was getting away from us at that point," Carr stated.

Husky senior Casey Kamp stepped up just prior to the half to give NHS fans something to cheer about. Playing at safety, the stalwart defender picked off a Thomas pass attempt and reeled off a sparkling 37-yard return to put the ball in the red zone at the 18 yard line with just 13 seconds on the clock. Four seconds later he found halfback Tyler Warn for a touchdown, and fullback Corey Carr then carried in the two-point conversion to make the score 28-8.

The score remained there until midway through the third quarter, when the Huskies fumbled the ball away deep in their own territory. A six-yard run by Winebrenner put more Beall

Huskies Survive Scare By Rams, Then Cage Wildcats

Although they were sorely tested by the upset-minded Southern Rams last Thursday night in Oakland, the Northern High School boys' soccer team survived overtime to record a 4-3 victory, then handed visiting Westmar a 2-0 defeat last night to keep the Huskies' record perfect.

The pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League victories for Coach Tom Ables and his squad upped the Huskies' overall record to 12-0 and their WMIL mark to 8-0.

The Huskies are just two wins away from a perfect regular season, as they will play Beall this Saturday at Mt. Savage in a make-up match, and travel to Fort Hill next Tuesday.

While Northern was a heavy favorite coming into Oakland to face county rival Southern last Thursday, it was a typical Northern-Southern clash, in which the records of both teams do not necessarily have much bearing on the level of competition.

The Rams, who came into the contest with a 2-7 record, put the first point on the board, as Ethan Chorpenning scored off an assist by Bruce Deal at the 21:32 mark of the first half.

The Rams enjoyed that lead for about 10 minutes, with Elijah Lais getting an unassisted goal for the Huskies with 11:27 remaining in the half.

A goal by Zack Beitzel on a penalty kick with 4:20 left in the half gave the Huskies a 2-1 edge at intermission.

It appeared early in the second half that the favored team would take control of the match for good, as Beitzel scored his second goal of the evening off a feed by Ryan Bowser at the 34:35 mark, giving the Huskies a 3-1 advantage.

But the Rams came storming back to record a pair of unanswered goals, both unassisted and both scored by Sean McCreery. The first was midway through the period and the second came with just two minutes to play in regulation, which knotted the score at 3-3 and sent the match into sudden-death overtime.

With 6:24 to play in the first overtime period, Northern's Chris Speicher took a corner kick from Lais and sent the ball past the Ram keeper to give the Huskies their 11th straight win.

The win gave Northern a sweep of the three-match series played this season against the Rams; however, Southern lost by just a 1-0 margin in one of the two previous encounters.

The Huskies finished with a 21-12 lead in shots and a 10-6 advantage in corner kicks. Mike Edwards was credited with 17 saves in goal for Southern, while Eric Wood turned away nine of the Rams' attempts.

The Northern junior varsity was also victorious over the Southern jayvees in the preliminary match, 5-1.

The Huskies dominated the statistics last night against winless Westmar (0-10, 0-9 WMIL), but could muster only a pair of goals, one in each half.

IT WAS A CLASSIC CLASH between Northern and Southern high schools on the athletic field last Thursday night, where the undefeated Huskies of Northern were the heavy favorite when they came to Oakland to take on the Rams of Southern, who had enjoyed victory only twice this season. After Northern took a 3-1 lead, the Rams rallied for two goals to tie the score (see scoreboard above) and send the contest into overtime. A goal by Chris Speicher off a corner kick by Elijah Lais in the extra period gave the Huskies the sudden-death, 4-3 win. Battling each other for possession in the photo above are Southern's Matt Morgan (#19) and Northern's Lais (#1). Others pictured are Southern's Brent Carnell (#12) and Sean McCreery (#24), and Northern's Ryan Bowser (#12). McCreery scored the two goals in the second half for the Rams to force the overtime. The win upped the #1-ranked Huskies' perfect record to 11-0. They also topped Westmar last night to make it 12-0. Below is an action shot taken from that match just one second after a corner kick by the Huskies. Identifiable, from left, are Huskies Zack Lipscomb (#20), Ryan Bowser (#12), Chris Speicher (#11), Zack Beitzel (#8), and Taylor Jones (#9). The top photo is courtesy of Del Carpenter. The bottom photo was taken by John McEwen.

After about 21 minutes of scoreless defense, Zack Beitzel put the Huskies on top for good with a goal off a pass by Chris Speicher.

At almost the same point in the second half (18:23 to play), Speicher made it 2-0 with an unassisted goal.

The Huskies out-gunned the Wildcats by a lopsided 27-5 margin, and held a 9-1 advantage in corner kicks. Husky keeper Wood recorded three saves to earn the shutout.

Rams Fall To Mountaineers After Nearly Upsetting NHS

It was two more Western Maryland Interscholastic League defeats on the soccer pitch this past week for the Southern High School boys' team, but one of those losses was, to say the least, a moral victory for the Rams and their fans.

Undefeated Northern came to Oakland last Thursday as a heavy favorite, but the Rams played evenly with the Huskies throughout the evening and forced the match to overtime before being edged 4-3 in sudden death. (See other story for details.)

The intensity of the match with their county rivals may have taken something out of the Rams, as they were whipped Tuesday evening by Beall, 5-2, in a match played at Westmar High School in Lonaconing.

The Mountaineers took a 5-0 lead before the Rams rallied for a pair of goals late in the second half.

A pair of penalty kicks by Matt Fiorita gave Beall a 2-0 halftime lead, as he was successful on those attempts at the 34:33 and 27:14 marks.

Fiorita completed a hat trick at the 22:11 mark of the second half when he scored his third goal of the night, this time off an assist by Brian Russ, and he made it a four-goal effort about four minutes later by scoring off a feed by Matt Parsons.

A successful penalty kick by Nick Logue with 15:09 to play in the match gave the Mountaineers their commanding 5-0 advantage.

The Rams finally got on the board with 13:32 to play when Ethan Chorpenning scored off an assist by Sean McCreery.

Chorpenning was then awarded a penalty kick just over a minute later and doubled the Rams' score.

Mike Edwards had 10 saves in the goal for the Rams, while Josh Bittner and Josh Bennett had two and one, respectively, for Beall.

The victory upped the Mounties' overall record to 8-4 and their WMIL mark to 6-2.

The Southern junior varsity was shut out in the first match, 3-0.

The Rams (2-9, 1-7 WMIL) are scheduled to host Westmar next Tuesday. There will be no junior varsity match. The varsity clash will kick off at 7 p.m.

HUSKIES BLANK RAMS — Putting a damper on Southern's Senior Night Tuesday were the visiting Northern Huskies, who recorded a 3-0 shutout in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash. Brittany Stein scored a pair of goals in the first half, and Erin Brenneman added an insurance goal in the second half while the Husky defense kept the ball out of their own net all evening. In the photo above, Southern's Amanda VanBogelen (#8) and Northern's Stein (#3) both take aim on the ball. At right are Jillian Kelly of Southern (#4) and Northern's Brenneman (#15). Identifiable in the action shot below, from left, are: Brittany Herring of Northern, left; Southern's Sara Beckman (#7); Northern's Victoria Moser (#16), who had an assist in the match; Northern's Amy Shaffer (#20); and Southern's Corey Lewis (#10). Northern Girls Drop A Pair, But Then Defeat Southern Going 1-2 this past week in Western Maryland Interscholastic League matches was the Northern High girls' soccer team, as the Huskies were topped by visiting Westmar last Thursday, 3-1, were shut out by undefeated Allegany in Cumberland on Saturday, 4-0, and then recorded a 3-0 victory over county rival Southern Tuesday night in Oakland.

The results left the NHS girls with an overall record of 3-7-1 and a WMIL mark of 2-6.

All of the scoring in the match against Westmar last Thursday was recorded in the first half of action, with the Wildcats striking first. Just 4½ minutes into the contest, Westmar's Megan Clark scored off an assist by Molly Cheshire.

The Huskies came right back to knot the score just over three minutes later, with Brittany Stein sending the ball into the net off a feed by Sara Voelkel.

Westmar took the lead for good at the 23:01 mark of the half when Katie Sloan was successful on a penalty kick.

Clark scored again just over 1½ minutes later, again off an assist by Cheshire.

The remaining 58½ minutes of the match went scoreless.

Northern keeper Kasie Fratz recorded a pair of saves, while Rae Michelle Fazenbaker had five saves for the Wildcats, who improved their overall record to 7-5 and their WMIL mark to 5-3.

The NHS junior varsity squad recorded a 1-0 victory in the preliminary match, with Amber Kling scoring for the Huskies off a feed by Kara Savage.

Four different members of Allegany's team each scored a goal in the Huskies' loss to the Campers on Saturday at Greenway Avenue Stadium.

Becky Mathews recorded an unassisted goal at the 27:00 mark of the first half, and teammate Jackie Boor made it 2-0 with a goal at the 9:00 mark off a feed by Megan Langan.

The score would remain 2-0 until six minutes into the second half when Langan was awarded a penalty kick for a trip in the box.

With about three minutes to play, Alco's Christina Russo scored the final goal of the night, off an assist by Krysta Louk.

The Campers finished with a 6-0 lead in corner kicks.

Fratz was credited with eight saves in goal for Northern, while Allegany keeper Lindsey Twigg turned away three of the Huskies' attempts.

The win upped the Campers' unbeaten mark to 10-0-2, with a 7-0-1 record in WMIL matches.

The Northern jayvees were edged in the first match, 1-0.

Saturday's win at Southern by the Huskies avenged an earlier loss to the Rams at the Cove.

Brittany Stein struck for a pair of unassisted goals within a two-minute span, beginning about 10 minutes into the first half, to give the Huskies what would be a 2-0 halftime advantage.

Northern added an insurance goal in the second half, as Erin Brenneman scored off a pass from Victoria Moser.

The other statistics were fairly even, with the Huskies finishing with a 16-14 edge in shots on goal and each team being awarded three corner kicks.

Fratz had seven stops in logging her first shutout of the season, while Southern's Jessica Petrella was credited with eight saves.

"Our defensive intensity was the key to this victory," stated Northern coach John Milbourne.

"This young team is making great strides," he continued. "We are beginning to take some attacking chances and feeling more comfortable with team defending tactics."

The Northern and Southern junior varsities played to a scoreless tie in the preliminary contest.

The Huskies are slated to host Beall this evening and return to Greenway Avenue Stadium next Wednesday to meet Fort Hill. Match times for both evenings are 6 p.m. (jayvee) and 7:30 (varsity).

The Southern girls will meet Fort Hill this evening, also at Greenway Avenue.

HUSKIES BOUNCE BACK FOR WIN – The Northern High School volleyball squad stormed back from an opening game loss to Bishop Walsh Monday to take the next three games and the overall match. Pictured during the action is NHS senior Jennifer Beitzel (#11), as she bumps the ball into setting position surrounded by classmates Jessica Fratz (#12), Carly Chase (#6), Angie Umbel (#5), and Kara Bowser (#24). Northern won the junior varsity match 2-1, as sophomore Nicole Opel netted 14 attacks and a kill. Ram Netters Roll Over Alco; Fall To Falcons In Tight Battle

The Southern High School volleyball machine mashed Allegany 3-1 on Monday, but ground to a halt last night in a 3-0 loss to an experienced Frankfort squad that has over twice as many matches under its belt this year than the Rams. While chalked up as a sweep in the books, the Falcons' sweep was hard earned over a tenacious SHS squad.

The Rams won the opening game against the Campers, 25-14, before dropping the second one 25-18. SHS went on a tear to take the final pair with ease, 25-14 and 25-7.

Junior Sarah Stephens paced the Rams by posting a dozen kills, 10 points, and 10 digs, while classmate Natalie Rohrbaugh dished out 19 assists, 16 points, and three kills. Senior Randi Bennett added 12 kills and 11 digs, and fellow senior Chelsea Wassell contributed six digs, five kills, and five blocks.

Allegany's Justice Hoban had 70 sets, nine serves, three aces, and a kill.

The Southern jayvees improved to 11-0 with a two-game sweep. Sierra Wassell had eight points and three kills and Alex Barnard pitched in eight points and three assists for the Rams.

A match total of just 13 points separated host Frankfort and the Rams over their three games last night in Short Gap, where the Falcons boosted their record to 21-4-5.

Southern was led by Rohrbaugh's eight points, 12 assists, and two blocks, while Stephens tallied 15 digs, eight kills, and two blocks, and Chelsea Wassell recorded a dozen digs, four kills, and three blocks.

Janessa Shambaugh put up 17 point and four aces to pace Frankfort.

SHS's jayvees used a gritty performance to continue their unbeaten streak. The younger Rams lost the first contest, 25-22, before rallying to take the next two, 25-15, 25-19. Individual statistics were not available.

Southern (10-2) is slated to host Westmar on Monday, then the Rams visit Northern for the regular season finale on Wednesday. Both matches open with JV action at 6 p.m., with varsity play to follow.

GC Falls To Knights, Plays In Hawks' Tourney; Last Home Match Tomorrow

The Garrett College volleyball team pounded the courts this week in a busy slate, as the Lakers dropped a Thursday, Oct. 13, matchup with the College of Southern Maryland before going 1-4 in the two-day Hagerstown Tournament on Friday and Saturday.

Southern Maryland's Knights pulled off a 3-0 sweep of the Lakers by game scores of 30-20, 30-19, and 30-20.

Sophomore Lindsey Butler paced Garrett with a perfect 12-for-12 tally from the service line as she amassed eight points and an ace, six kills, and five digs. Freshman Jayme Miller recorded seven digs, sophomore Yolanda Anthony contributed six assists, five points, and four kills, and freshman Dani Glotfelty dished out nine assists.

Friday's opening round of the Hagerstown Tournament ended with the Lakers going 1-3 in a busy day of pool play.

The host Hawks swept the first match from Garrett, 30-16, 30-11, but the Lakers rebounded to take a 2-1 win over Pitt Community College 30-27, 26-30, 15-10. Southern Maryland followed by downing the Lakers again, 30-19, 30-23, before Wayne County (Mich.) defeated GC by 30-24, 30-22 tallies.

The win over Pitt redeemed a season-opening loss to that squad in August. Nationally ranked Hagerstown went on to win the tourney and improve its record to 41-2.

Butler totaled 23 digs, seven kills, and three points for Friday's pool play, while Anthony turned in 22 digs, 10 kills, and 18 assists. Freshman Kayla Nazelrod had eight digs, eight aces, and four kills, and Glotfelty netted 28 digs and 12 assists.

The Lakers played tough the following day before being eliminated by Allegany College of Maryland. Garrett took the first game 30-27 before dropping the second by an identical score. The Trojans took the tie-breaker by a 15-10 margin.

"Allegany came out aggressively after the Trojans lost the first game and played better fundamental volleyball than we did," Laker coach Ann Wellham commented. "We took our two previous wins this year over them for granted."

Glotfelty was 10-for-11 from the service line, and amassed 11 digs. Newby had nine kills, Anthony handed out 19 assists while recording 10 digs and two blocks, and Nazelrod tallied three aces.

Garrett's Lakers (10-16, 5-4 JUCO) host Allegany in their final homecourt match of the season tomorrow night at 6 p.m. The contest will be marked with Sophomore Night festivities. GC then takes to the road for away matches at Baltimore City CC Saturday and Butler on Monday to close out the regular season.

Cruising to a Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship on their own course at Broadford Park last Thursday were the members of the Southern High School girls' cross country team, who finished with 20 team points and topped four other WMIL squads.

The Southern boys' team also had a strong showing, placing second only to Beall.

Sarah Cosner, a senior, placed third individually with a time of 22 minutes, 57 seconds to lead the SHS girls, while freshman Jennifer Cosner was fifth in 23:38, Melinda Smith crossed the line in sixth place with a time of 23:42, and Courtney DiSimone placed ninth with a time of 24:01.

Southern's Leah Warnick placed 11th, Rachel Skipper was 13th, and Demora Smith and Kelly Taylor finished 16th and 17th, respectively.

Finishing second behind the Rams was Fort Hill with 40 points, while Allegany, Beall, and Westmar all had incomplete scores.

Allegany standout Lauren McFawn coasted to first place in the girls' race, finishing more than a minute ahead of her teammate Savannah MacGregor. Their times were 20:27 and 22:50.

Westmar's Caitlin Clark placed fourth with a time of 23:21.

The Beall boys won the team title with a score of 26, followed by Southern with 55, Allegany with 64, Fort Hill with 86, and Westmar with an incomplete score.

The Runnin' Rams were led by Derek Upperman and Mike McConnell, who placed sixth and seventh, respectively, with times of 18:34 and 18:35.

Ben Warnick was the 14th finisher in 20:20, while Tim Preston placed 18th, Joe Bevers was 20th, Andrew Sauber was 24th, and Patrick Sisler and Cory Reckart were 33rd and 34th.

points on the board, and a PAT kick put the hosts up 35-8.

The Mounties' final touchdown came with just 1:32 left in the contest, when Harper reeled off a 23-yard scoring run that capped a six-play 53-yard drive.

"That was a big win for us over a good Northern team and we had some players really step up," said Beall coach Roy DeVore, a former member of both the Northern and Southern High coaching staffs. "Everybody had to play up to potential for us to win like that and they did. The key was our inside blocking and we were able to control the ball."

The Mountaineers dominated the scoreboard and the box score, rolling up 454 yards of total offense (388 yards on the ground), to NHS's 149 yards of total offense. Thomas had 157 yards of rushing on just 12 carries. Beall also netted 19 first downs to Northern's 10.

"They were bigger and quicker than us," said Carr. "Their defensive line was beating us to the punch time and time again, and shut down our offense when we had some opportunities."

On defense the Huskies were led by linebacker Corey Carr's 16 tackles, and defensive end Brock Glotfelty had nine tackles. Kamp had a big day at safety, adding two fumble recoveries to his second-quarter interception. "After a rough start, we played much better defense in the second half," Coach Carr remarked.

Northern was dealt a blow during the contest when halfback Andy Ganoe, who has been playing a big role this season for a reserve player, suffered a serious knee injury that involved extensive ligament damage. Carr reported that the sophomore, one of the top members of the NHS wrestling squad, will likely require total reconstructive surgery with a minimum of six months' recuperation before he can resume any sports activities.

"With Andy out, and starting halfback Mitch Fost still out from an earlier injury, our backfield is down to no reserve halfbacks and just one reserve fullback," said Carr.

The depleted backfield situation will place even more responsibility on quarterback Kamp, as the team's offensive leader takes the Huskies into hostile territory at Pendleton High tomorrow night. Although the hosts have a just two wins in eight games so far, Carr said they are better than their record indicates.

"Pendleton has a fine quarterback in senior Tom Ruddle (6-3, 195), who is a great athlete with a great arm," NHS's coach commented. "He can throw and run, and on third down will go to a shotgun offense that spreads his receivers out. In other situations they usually come out in wing T formation, much like we've seen before with Allegany and Turkeyfoot."

Other offensive weapons at Ruddle's disposal are speedy sophomore halfback Brandon Raines (5-8, 165) and junior fullback Blake Selmon (5-10, 175). Pendleton's offensive line is bigger than the Huskies, but Carr thinks his squads' speed can counteract that beef.

On defense Pendleton normally lines up in a 5-3, and will stack the line in a 6-2 in passing situations. The team plays an aggressive style, much like Northern, with a great deal of blitzing. Leading the pack is senior middle linebacker Aaron Eye (6-0, 180), and senior nose guard/guard Justin Allen (5-9, 200).

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. on the Pendleton High field, located in Franklin, W.Va. To reach the school, fans should allocate at least two hours travel time. From Petersburg, take Rt. 219 south to Franklin, turn left at the first light, and follow that street directly to the school. Franklin is approximately 30 miles south of Petersburg.

Vikings Upend Maddawgs For Playoff Victory

The Oakland Vikings downed the Northern Maddawgs in the opening round of the Pee Wee Football League playoffs Saturday by a 25-19 margin at Northern High.

The Maddawgs brought a 7-1 record into the game, but the high flying Vikes, who came in at 5-3, broke a halftime tie by outscoring the hosts 12-6 in the second half to take their sixth straight win after losing their first three outings.

Oakland got on the board first in the opening stanza as Landon Todd carried the ball in from three yards out.

Northern knotted the score at 6-all when Patrick Sines scored on a one-yard run in the second quarter. The Vikes struck next when quarterback Kurt Gangler hit Tyler Alt for a 12-yard scoring pass, and Zack Knotts carried in the conversion. Before the halftime gun, the Maddawgs' Robert Hill ran 20 yards for a touchdown, and Sines scored on the conversion run to tie the score at 13-13 heading into the intermission.

Oakland went up by six in the third quarter when Todd rumbled 25 yards for a touchdown.

The Vikings went up 25-13 in the fourth stanza as D.J. Ritchie carried the ball in from three yards out. Northern got the final points of the contest with a 45-yard scoring pass from Sines to Cody Rodeheaver.

The Vikes took a knee at the end of the game to run out the clock.

"It was a well-played game by both teams," a Viking spokesperson commented. "Each team displayed sportsmanship."

Oakland will take on Keyser in a semifinal match-up slated for 2 p.m. on Sunday at Cumberland's Greenway Avenue Stadium, adjacent to Fort Hill High School.

The Vikings are a member of the Oakland Youth Football Association, which also includes the Oakland Renegades and the Division I and Division II Oakland Rams.

Homecoming Events Slated At Northern

Northern High School's 2005 Homecoming festivities are scheduled from Monday through Saturday, Oct. 24-29.

"This year's Homecoming has a jungle theme," NHS cheer squad coordinator Lisa Carr said. "The Husky cheerleaders are working with the guidance counselors and peer counselors to carry out the theme 'It's a Jungle Out There – Stay Away from Drugs and Alcohol,' along with the Homecoming week activities."

The celebrations kick off Monday with Spirit Week activities that continue each day.

The school-wide pep rally is slated for Friday afternoon, in preparation for the school's Homecoming game against Westmar, set to get under way at 7 p.m. that night. The Homecoming Queen and her court will be recognized during the halftime festivities, which will also be highlighted by a major performance by the NHS marching band.

All Northern alumni cheerleaders are encouraged to join the current cheer squad on the sidelines during the second half of the game to cheer the Huskies on. NHS alumni cheerleaders are asked to contact Carr at 301-387-8478.

The week will culminate in a "Welcome to the Jungle" Homecoming dance, slated from 8 to 11 p.m. in the NHS cafeteria. Pictures will be taken throughout the dance activities.

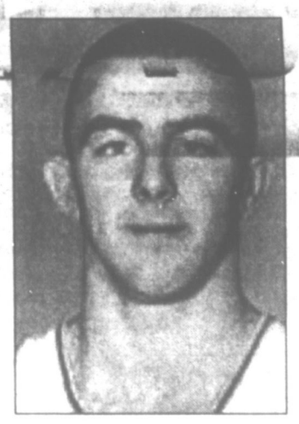
Prestonian Bucky Bolyard Named To WVU Sports Hall Of Fame



The late Marvin "Bucky" Bolyard, a native of nearby Preston County, was inducted into the West Virginia University Sports Hall of Fame recently during a campus ceremony at the Caperton Center. Bucky's brother Larry Bolyard was on hand to accept the honor on behalf of his brother, who died on Sept. 29, 2001, when he suffered a heart attack while playing golf.

Reared in Aurora, Bucky Bolyard was a two-sport star at West Virginia University from 1957 to 1959, despite being blinded in his left eye after an accident during his youth. He was an All-State athlete in high school, where he was nicknamed the "Aurora Borealis," and at WVU Bolyard lettered all four years in baseball and basketball.

As a pitcher and infielder for the baseball Mountaineers, Bolyard led the squad in ERA for three seasons, posting a 0.75 ERA his senior year. He led WVU in batting as a junior with a .413 average, 26 hits, and four home runs. He is the only player in WVU baseball history to play all nine positions on the diamond.

In basketball, the star guard shared the court with All-American Jerry West. The backcourt pair combined to lead the Mountaineers to a record 44 consecutive victories in the Southern Conference. Bolyard started 30 of 34 games as a senior, helping WVU advance to the NCAA championship game in 1958-59, where the Mountaineers lost by one point to the University of California in the national championship. That year WVU had a 29-5 record, the most successful season in school history. He scored a career high 26 points in a game at Northwestern.

After graduating from WVU in 1959, Bolyard played professional basketball for two years in the American Basketball Association for the Pittsburgh Wrens. He led the league in three-pointers of 30 feet in the 1961-62 season. Following his pro stint, he took up a coaching career by beginning as an assistant basketball coach at the Virginia Military Institute. He went on to a lengthy career teaching and coaching in the California (Pa.) school district. A natural athlete with sports, golf became his favorite activity of later life.

Bolyard's family and friends were present at the induction ceremony of the Hall of Fame class of 2005, which includes other WVU sport greats such as Mike Compton (football), Connie Ellerbe (track/field), Roger "Shorty" Hicks (basketball), Charley Hockenberry (baseball/basketball/football), and Jim McCormick (basketball).

To conclude Bolyard's induction, master of ceremonies Tony Cardi read a letter in his honor from teammate Jerry West.

A founding member of the Ougabus Society, Bolyard is buried at his hometown cemetery in Aurora.

traffic to necessitate a bypass; and we have to wonder if this bypass is part of a larger project to one day split the county in half with a north-south interstate highway.

"We have 500 petition signatures at this point (Oct. 6) opposing a bypass, and that's with minimal effort on our part," Alvarez said. "This shows that there is a groundswell of interested people who would like to see this project stopped.

"Maryland State Highway Administration studies have assigned a Level of Service (LOS) rating of an 'A' to Rt. 219 during both the morning and evening peak traffic periods throughout the entire study area," the doctor stated. "This is the highest rating that can be assigned to a roadway." The LOS rating measures the operational traffic flow for a roadway, taking into account speed, travel time, comfort, convenience, and safety.

"The SHA data shows that Rt. 219 traffic has increased only 10 percent in the last 10 years, and that's including the period since Wal-Mart came in," continued Alvarez. "There are also very few traffic accidents, and where those occur is mainly at locations where traffic has to decelerate to enter the town speed limit zone or accelerate when leaving town – mainly at the intersection with the Wal-Mart parking lot access road. The addition of a traffic light, which has already been installed and is waiting to be made operational, should help alleviate that."

A flyer distributed at the meeting listed several citizen concerns raised during earlier discussions, including safety of schoolchildren who must walk near the bypass; rerouting of schoobuses; high noise and pollution levels near the hospital; the loss of farms and properties; and added maintenance costs to taxpayers.

"This proposal goes completely against the state's own Smart Growth and Rural Legacy initiatives, and flies in the face of an award the SHA received from the White House for its own publication, When Main Street is a State Highway – Blending Function, Beauty and Identity – A Handbook for Communities and Designers," said the doctor, holding up the handbook designed to guide community representatives and SHA staff through a step-by-step, comprehensive process that will allow them to identify and achieve community goals. In 2002, this publication was recognized by the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials with the President's Transportation Award for Planning.

Quoting the words of an unidentified SHA staffer cited in the agency publication, Alvarez said, "'We took our plans to a town meeting and showed people what we could do for them. Imagine our surprise when people didn't like when we presented all of our designs and work for nothing! We forgot to ask them what they wanted.'"

Alvarez concluded by saying, "Twenty years ago it was predicted that Oakland's traffic would be a mess in the future if a bypass wasn't built, and there are those who are making the same predictions today. The 'A' rating proves we would have been wrong to build it then, just as we would be wrong to build it today," said Alvarez. "We can manage our own traffic, as other communities have done, without putting in a bypass that will split our community in two."

Reading the words of a St. Mary's County resident quoted in the award-winning SHA handbook, Alvarez concluded "As When Main Street is a State Highway states, 'SHA lives with a project for five or six years; we live with it for a hundred. That's why we care so much about it.'"

A SPECIAL GUEST AT THE AGF KICK-OFF EVENT was Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, who addressed the crowd of approximately 350 guests to laud the economic growth efforts in the county and to accept a number of special awards. He is pictured above at right as Charlie Ross, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, presents him with an honorary Golden Ambassador designation. Seated behind them is this year's Autumn Glory Royal Court, which presided at the kick-off and then at a number of events throughout the festival. Shown from left are Princess Corey Lewis, King James Naylor, Queen Holly Wampler, and Prince Paul Logan.

The presentation is part of the hospital's Speakers Bureau program. Groups interested in reserving a speaker for this or another topic may call Kearstin Hinebaugh in the public relations office at 301-533-4041.

Accident Man Charged With Drunk Driving

An Accident man was arrested on drunk driving charges after police made a traffic stop on Garrett Highway near Bumble Bee Road early Saturday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Robert Ryan, 40, was charged with driving while impaired, driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, driving an uninsured vehicle, driving an unregistered vehicle, and failure to drive right of center. He was released on his own recognizance.

In other police news, Ernest Upole was injured after his 2005 Suzuki motorcycle struck a vehicle, operated by Paul Browning, that was making a left turn onto Oakland Drive from Rt. 135 Thursday evening, police said.

Upole was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a private vehicle.

ONE OF THE BEST PARTS OF AUTUMN GLORY is the celebration of Garrett County's youth population, represented so well by the four teenagers pictured above. The four members of the Autumn Glory Festival Royal Court are chosen based on their academic successes as well as their friendly and courteous dispositions. The court members this year, shown above as they greet the parade crowd on Saturday, are Prince Paul Logan (Northern High School) and Princess Corey Lewis (Southern High) in the front seat, and King James Naylor (SHS) and Queen Holly Wampler (NHS) in the top second seat. Study Reports Gap Continues Between Tuition Hikes, Aid

by Katie Wilmeth
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – Low-income college students continue to suffer most from tuition increases averaging 5 percent in Maryland and financial aid that fails to keep pace with higher education prices, according to a report released Tuesday by the College Board.

Nationally, financial aid per student inched up 3 percent in the 2004-2005 year, not enough to keep pace with the rising cost of tuition, the report said.

"We have deserving students who are kept out of college or have difficulty completing their degree because of lack of money," said College Board president Gaston Caperton.

In Maryland, four-year public schools saw tuition rise an average of $310, or 5 percent, for this school year to a total average tuition of $6,790. Private four-year institution tuition rose an average of 6 percent, or $1,160, to $21,590. Two-year community colleges cost an average of $120, or 4 percent, more for a total of $2,990.

Nationally, tuition increases hovered between about 5.5 and 7 percent.

While tuition growth slowed this year compared to that of the previous two years, when double-digit increases at colleges were common, College Board policy analyst Sandy Baum was quick to caution that even a small increase can affect cash-strapped students with poor access to financial resources.

"[Financial aid is] not increasing fast enough to keep up with stagnating family incomes and rising college prices," she said.

The report shows that nearly $129 billion was spent on student aid – which includes federal loans, tax breaks, and federal and state grants – in the 2004-2005 school year, the latest year figures were available, a $10 billion increase over the previous year.

But students are increasingly turning to non-governmental lenders, borrowing $14 billion collectively last year alone, as access to financial aid remained challenging.

For example, while the number of Pell grants – debt-free federal assistance that low-income students often depend on – increased by 3 percent, the dollar value declined for the second consecutive year. Nationally this year, 5.3 million students received Pell grants averaging $2,469, while last year 5.1 million students received an average of $2,473.

A disproportionate number of scholarships in Maryland went to students based on merit, rather than need, resulting in low-income students racking up 25 percent more debt than average students, said William Kirwan, chancellor of the University System of Maryland, which oversees the state's 13 public universities.

To reverse that trend, the University System announced last year that all schools must reconfigure their institutional aid so that low-income students will graduate with 25 percent less debt than their average-income counterparts.

"[It's] a very significant challenge our nation faces in providing access to a higher education for all qualified students," he said. "We have reached an indefensible position in our country."

At Prince George's Community College, where full-time tuition is about $3,300 per year, even small cost increases can discourage students from enrolling, said Ronald Williams, the college's president.

"We've got lots of poor students who are struggling to get in," said Williams, who has had students decide not to enroll in a class because they were $20 short. "The choices they make are difficult for people to understand who grew up in the middle class."

Williams said about 30 percent of students do not return the second semester, often citing financial reasons.

Alexis Grant is a part of that statistic. The 19-year-old enrolled in Prince George's Community College last year, but left when she couldn't afford the tuition. After a summer of working full time, Grant is still not sure when she'll be able to return.

"I want to go to school. I should be able to go to school," she said. "You (college) said you were going to help me. But then when I do go for help you leave me stranded."

To combat drop-out rates, the college works with nearby high schools to help students navigate the maze of financial aid, said Williams.

Grant concedes there is help available, but often school help can't replace parental guidance. With so many students clamoring for assistance from school guidance counselors, she couldn't get the attention she needed.

"Everybody doesn't fully understand and you get confused . . . and that put me behind right there," she said. "So I just had to try to figure out on my own, which I still don't understand to this day."

What's Happening At The Drane House

by Becky Aiken & Sherry Georg

Pictured above is Susan Keller, also known as Pricilla Drane. Susan is the vice director of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society. She is a familiar sight at the Drane House and Museum Garden, and can usually be seen working in the garden or even dipping candles. Susan, like most colonial woman, knits. But she knits for the enjoyment and not out of necessity, as did her colonial counterparts.

During the colonial period, knitting was a domestic activity practiced by nearly every housewife for practical reasons. Girls were taught at a young age to knit. Stockings and warm clothing were a necessity for surviving the long, cold winters. During the winter the hands of the colonists were never idle. They would sit by the fire and knit, sew, crack nuts, and make brooms.

Today, knitting is primarily a hobby. In our fast-moving world few people have the time to sit by the fire and make a broom. But this weekend you can do all three. This Saturday, Oct. 22, the Drane House will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Susan Keller will be leading a knitting class. The cost of the class is $8, to cover supplies. You will be provided with your very own pair of knitting needles, yarn, and the pattern to make a simple scarf. Class size is limited, and participants will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

If you have been to the garden, you couldn't have missed seeing our fine crop of broom corn. Brooms were made from the close relative of the sugar cane plant and sent to colonial America. The settlers planted the seeds that were on the imported brooms and used the corn to make brooms in America.

Bill Aiken will help you clean your house with it, make a broom of your very own. You may not want to but they make beautiful decorations. Florists today often use broom corn in their arrangements.

This Saturday is also harvest day in the Museum Garden. Volunteers will be hard at work harvesting the heirloom vegetables and collecting seed for next year. If you would like to get your hands dirty, feel free to come and join in the fun.

The Drane House and Museum Garden are located in the town of Accident along Cemetery Road, just behind Zion Lutheran Church. Look for the colonial flag high above the site to help guide you.

"Connecting With the Past Through Arts and Crafts" is funded in part by a grant through the Maryland and Garrett County arts councils. If you would like more information about the class or any of our projects, contact us, Becky Aiken at 301-746-8427, or Sherry Georg at 301-746-8766.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It was good on Sunday to have Pastor Mitchell home from the hospital and again in the pulpit. He was able to make it through the three services with the help of his able wife Norma.

Lottie Brenneman also returned from the hospital in Cumberland on Friday after spending about a week there for treatment.

Our friend and neighbor, Margaret Hershberger Wagner, is confined to her home, but home from the hospital.

Word has been received that one of our former pastors, Rev. Louise Knotts, has suffered a stroke and is now receiving therapy at Health South Nittany Valley Rehab Hospital, Room 203, 550 W. College Avenue, Pleasant Gap, PA 16823.

Betty Sacra from Winchester was a guest of Ruth DiPaolo, and they spent the week attending various Autumn Glory activities. They especially enjoyed the kick-off dinner at the Wisp and the banjo contest and Cooter's Garage Band performance at Southern High School. Monday and Tuesday they went on a two-day bus trip.

Kevin Bass returned home this week after spending several weeks with his parents in Anderson, S.C. His dad is recovering from heart surgery. Bill and Barbara Bass will be returning to Cumberland in a few weeks to take up residence there.

Cindy and Sam Stanton and Sally and Lenny Poholsky visited Lea Stanton Pochet and husband Michael in Dayton, Ohio, for several days.

Many of our college students were home over the weekend, including Blakely and Robbie Glotfelty and Matthew Bass from University of Maryland, Landon Southerly from St. Mary's, and Claire Sussman from West Virginia University. A former roommate of Robbie's was also a guest at the Glotfeltys.

Sheila Southerly reported this morning that she saw a flock of ducks getting their fill of corn stubble this morning on Peat Moss Road and said there was a large white duck traveling with them.

Since I spent most of Tuesday at the doctor's, I didn't get my normal column in to The Republican, but my mother did get a little local news to report. I fell in my kitchen last week and injured my arm. I called the doctor in Grantsville, but all she did was to send me some pain medicine. This Tuesday I finally went out to the new medical clinic in McHenry. They X-rayed my arm to find that it was broken and I had to consult Dr. Tuel. So I am a little more disabled now with the arm in a sling. I did enjoy spending the weekend with my daughters.

Again it is a beautiful, sunny, warm day in Bittinger. The last several nights the moon has been in its full glory. But it looks like there is another hurricane on its way to Florida. Hopefully the worst of the hurricane season is over. Hopefully some of our residences who are spending the winter in Florida will miss the worst of the storm.

SMOUSE SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED – The Smouse Scholarship annual award of $1,000 was recently given to Ben Beitzel, who is pictured above with Jack Smouse. Smouse developed the award especially for young staff members of the Goodwill Mennonite Home. He gives the scholarship, he said, because he believes in education and advancement, and wants to encourage workers to continue at Goodwill. He has had loved ones at the home since 1960. Ben is the son of Wayne and Janie Beitzel, Springs, Pa., and is currently employed at Goodwill as a geriatric nursing assistant. He is a sophomore at Eastern Mennonite University in Harrisonburg, Va.

The Truth about Fad Diets

Most of us are guilty of having tried at least one fad diet in our lifetime. And some of us might even be able to report that we experienced dramatic, but short-lived, weight-change results. Have you ever tried a fad diet to shed a few pounds in a matter of days, in a drastic attempt to squeeze into an outfit for a certain event? If so, you're probably familiar with the disappointment that comes after you step onto the scale a day or so following the big event and see that the pounds you lost have somehow found you again.

With most fad diets, the quick pounds that are lost are water weight, not true fat mass. Research has proven that pounds that are lost too rapidly are often quickly regained, causing a fast weight regain following a fad diet. A diet that promotes slow and steady weight loss averaging ½ to 2 pounds per week (not more than one percent of total body weight) is ideal and has been proven to be much more permanent.

Even with the almost certain potential to regain weight, consumers continue to increasingly spend billions of dollars every year on fad diet books and related products. Our society is desperate for quick weight loss.

You have probably heard the following weight-loss advice: Eat less and exercise more. Despite the temptation of virtually hundreds of fad diets promising the quick weight-loss, the tried and true way to keep weight off while reaping the long-term health benefits and avoiding potential health risks is through a gradual and balanced combination of positive lifestyle changes in eating habits and physical activity.

If you are currently dieting, look at these criteria to see how your diet measures up:

- Promises a quick fix.
- Claims sound too good to be true.
- Encourages food elimination, contains "forbidden foods," and/or overemphasizes specific foods.
- Uses special products or supplements not tested by the FDA.
- Relies on testimonials and anecdotes rather than scientific evidence.
- Dramatic statements contradict views of reputable scientific organizations.
- Ignores differences among individuals or groups.
- Neglects discussion of active living or lifestyles changes.
- Recommendations based on single studies without peer review.

It's time to change your plan of action if you can identify one or more of the preceding "fad-diet identifiers."

LOOKS ARE MORE THAN SKIN DEEP for many women undergoing treatment for cancer, as maintaining a neat appearance can help give them confidence in the face of the disease and its treatments. A "Look Good...Feel Better" workshop, set for 5:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 24, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, will impart beauty techniques and information on how to deal with the sociological side effects of cancer treatments. See story.

"Look Good, Feel Better" Workshop Slated At Hospital

A "Look Good...Feel Better" workshop, designed for women undergoing treatment for cancer, is slated from 5:30 to 7 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 24, in the boardroom of Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH). The free program is sponsored by the hospital and the American Cancer Society.

Conducted by volunteer cosmetologists, the Look Good, Feel Better program operates with the concept that if persons with cancer can be helped to look good, their improved self-esteem will help them to approach their disease and treatment with greater confidence.

"Look Good, Feel Better is dedicated to teaching women and teen-age cancer patients beauty techniques to help restore their appearance and self-image, as well as how to deal with the sociological side effects they experience during treatment," GCMH Wellness coordinator Lisa Schad explained.

Participants learn techniques in skin care, makeup, hair and nails in a hands-on class using actual products. Cosmetics for the classes are provided free of charge courtesy of the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetics, Toiletry, and Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetics Association. Demonstrations in the use of wigs, hats, turbans, and scarf-tying techniques are also presented.

Participants receive a take-home instructional booklet and a complimentary kit of cosmetics containing a variety of cosmetic products.

Any woman who has recently completed or is currently undergoing treatment may attend. To register (required) or obtain further information, persons may contact the GCMH Wellness Department at 301-533-4295.

Drivers blow gaskets on tires

Mishaps at Lowe's roil Cup standings

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

Lowe's Motor Speedway promoter H.A. "Humpy" Wheeler has spent his 30-year career taking risks.

Most of the time, he steps to the brink of being outrageous and comes back with a winner.

His innovative mind is the big reason NASCAR's all-star race is a huge hit. His pre-race stunt shows are legendary. His Legends series has revolutionized short-track racing as much as his introduction of night racing to superspeedways changed NASCAR's elite divisions.

But, for reasons yet to be determined, his grinding of the racing surface at Lowe's missed the mark.

The "levigation" process eliminated the bumps on the track that had become an issue in earlier events, but it essentially made the track too fast.

Top lap speeds reached the mid-190-miles-per-hour mark, and the pressures put on the tires resulted in a rash of blowouts in Saturday's UAW-GM Quality 500.

Things got so bad that NASCAR considered an early end to the event. Pre-race favorite Jimmie Johnson won, but he had to overcome a back-row start because of an engine change before qualifying, tire issues and a dead battery during the race to take his fourth consecutive points win and his fifth in the past six races at Lowe's.

"We thought we were down and out a few times, but we never gave up," Johnson said.

Johnson's win, combined with Tony Stewart's misfortunes, put the two of them in a tie for the points lead in the Chase for the Nextel Cup with just five races left to run.

Stewart blamed his mid-race crash — and the loss of his 75-point lead — on NASCAR's decision in the middle of the race to begin mandating minimum tire pressures in an attempt to stop the blowouts.

He said that took away one of the key tools his team uses to tune his car.

"That totally dictated how your car handled," he said. "I'm totally frustrated by it."

Stewart said his title hopes have taken a bigger hit than the one his Chevy took on the track. "It's probably going to dictate how the Chase turns out," he said.

The tire-related problems that affected at least 17 drivers in the race not only left Wheeler answering questions, but they also brought NASCAR President Mike Helton into the track's press room for a rare after-midnight explanation.

His message was clear — NASCAR was disappointed with the way the race turned out, and changes to the track will be forthcoming.

"I think everybody that was a part of the evening certainly would like to figure out how to not have another evening like this one," Helton said. "It was extremely undesirable."

He defended Wheeler's efforts to make the track more raceable and Goodyear's attempt to find a tire compound that would withstand the punishment the high speeds were dishing out.

He said everyone involved realized after a series-record 22 caution periods in the Coca-Cola 600 at Lowe's in May that something had to be done.

"The track attempted to correct that and Goodyear attempted to create a tire that would match up to the fix that the track tried," he said. "Everyone tried to fix it."

But he said NASCAR officials had no warning that right-front tires would be blowing one after another. Then, once the problems began unfolding, they considered several fixes, among them ending the race prematurely.

But they settled on the tire-pressure regulations so the race could be completed.

Crew chief Alan Gustafson, who watched his driver Kyle Busch blow a tire and crash into the wall while leading the race at Lap 161, said all the blame shouldn't be placed on the track or on Goodyear. He said NASCAR's rules are the biggest culprit.

"These cars run around here too fast," he said. "You have 3,400-pound cars, and NASCAR wants to cut the spoiler and get the downforce away. Well, that's too much."

Gustafson said tire problems aren't unique to Lowe's.

"You could list 10 race tracks this year," he said. "You see it all the time. It's not the tires, it's the cars."

Helton acknowledged that the series has had problems with other tracks, like Indianapolis Motor Speedway, that underwent track grinding.

Still, he said NASCAR does not plan to exert more control over its tracks or dictate how the racing surfaces are prepared.

"There's a lot of experience at the race tracks that we run races at, and there's a huge amount of experience at [Lowe's]," Helton said. "Sometimes things just don't work out right. It just didn't work this time."

Wheeler sat silently, a dejected look on his face, as he listened to Helton's comments. But his promoter's spirit was strong as ever.

"You have to keep trying things so people will buy a ticket to a race," he said. "The track was so bumpy we had to do something."

And he vowed to repave the track before the NASCAR circuit returns to Lowe's next May.

"Everything will be back to normal then," he said.

Newman's Busch streak climbs to five

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

Ryan Newman ran his Busch Series winning streak to a record-tying five with a runaway victory in Friday's crash-plagued Dollar General 300 at Lowe's Motor Speedway.

His two-car length victory over Elliott Sadler tied him with fellow Nextel Cup driver Dale Earnhardt Jr., who won five consecutive Busch races during a stretch from 2002 at Richmond to 2004 at Daytona.

Newman, a full-time Cup driver and a part-timer in Busch, started his winning streak at Watkins Glen on Aug. 13. Since then, running selected races, he's won at Michigan, Bristol and Dover. Sam Ard holds the circuit's consecutive-win record of four, set in 1983. Newman said his Penske Racing team should get much of the credit for his record-setting streak.

"I'm happy to be running as good as we are," he said.

Sadler made a run at Newman late in the race but came up short. "I was just a little too tight to compete with Ryan at the end," he said.

Paul Menard, Carl Edwards and Jason Leffler completed the top five in a race that was slowed a track record 14 times for crashes, many of which were attributed to right-rear tires that blew under the pressure of the high speeds that came as a result of the grinding of the track.

NASCAR

HOW THEY FARED

A look at how Chase competitors performed Saturday

1.) Tony Stewart: Finished 25th: Crashed while leading on Lap 216 when his car suffered a cut right-rear tire. "We had the best car all night," said Stewart, who led 61 laps. "We should have been 100 points ahead leaving here."

2.) Jimmie Johnson: Finished first: Won his fourth consecutive race at Charlotte despite experiencing battery and alternator problems. Avoided potential disaster on Lap 247 when his crew changed a flat right-rear tire under caution.

3.) Greg Biffle: Finished third: Led four laps and placed himself in contention for the victory during the event's final stages. "It was a good night for us overall," Biffle said. "We can't complain."

4.) Ryan Newman: Finished seventh: Newman was forced to pit under green while running third on Lap 24 to replace a cut tire. "It was really disappointing — the tire situation and the race track," said Newman, who led 42 laps.

5.) Mark Martin: Finished fifth: Failed to lead a lap, but ran in the top 10 much of the evening. "I guess fifth is a great finish, but it's a little disappointing with the car that we had," Martin said.

6.) Carl Edwards: Finished 10th: Took evasive action on Lap 279 when he drove through the grass to avoid the spinning cars of Jamie McMurray and Michael Waltrip. "This was just a survival race," Edwards said.

7.) Rusty Wallace: Finished 24th: Salvaged a lead-lap finish despite spinning on Lap 330. "I got up to 13th and was getting ready to pass [Brian Vickers]," Wallace said. "I just got too loose, lost it and that was it."

8.) Jeremy Mayfield: Finished 11th: Capitalized on Stewart's misfortune following another lackluster performance. "We were just slow," Mayfield said. "We just had a little luck going with us there toward the end."

9.) Matt Kenseth: Finished 26th: Climbed to fourth by Lap 60, but three laps later he suffered the first of a series of blown right-front tires on his Ford. Lost eight laps while his team made repairs to his No. 17 on Lap 75.

10.) Kurt Busch: Finished second: Last year's series champ inherited the lead from Kasey Kahne on Lap 306. "I was just rolling through most of the night worried about which tire was going to blow out, the right-front or the right-rear," Busch said.

GREENLAND AND ICELAND
by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Why do Greenland and Iceland have those names? Shouldn't it be exactly reversed?

It sure seems that way, given that Greenland is completely covered with ice, while Iceland has a fairly moderate climate for a place that far north. The origin of the names goes back a long way.

Iceland is easy to understand; it's just a matter of pronunciation. We customarily pronounce the word "island" as "eye-land," but it could be pronounced "izz-land" or "iss-land, etc." The people who live there pronounce it "ice-land," even though it is spelled "island." Upon translation into English, we spell it to match their pronunciation: Iceland. In that country, e-mail addresses all end in .is , which indicates their preferred choice of spelling.

Even though Iceland almost touches the Arctic Circle, and its capital, Reykjavik, is at the same latitude as Fairbanks, Alaska, the climate there is moderate because of the gulf stream, which carries warm water to all of northern Europe. Also, there is a lot of geothermal heat in Iceland, because it is a volcanic island. The winters are not that bad, and fishing boats go out all year-round. In the interior mountains, snow falls and glaciers form, but when spring comes some melting occurs, and the water run-off provides hydroelectric power. Iceland has a very strong economy because of their abundance of cheap electricity.

Greenland got its name about 1,000 years ago, when explorers from Denmark colonized it. You ask, why would anybody want to set up a colony on Greenland? Well, 1,000 years ago, it wasn't so cold. This fact calls our attention to the entire discussion about global warming, and the fact that the Earth undergoes climate changes over long periods of time. During what we now call the "medieval warm period," some parts of Greenland were warm enough to allow farming, and so a colony could exist there. Greenland was almost surely a stopover point for Vikings headed westward to explore North America.

As the centuries passed, the "medieval warm period" gradually cooled and turned into the "little ice age" which lasted until about 1850. The Danish colonizers gave up farming and left, probably by around the 15th century. Since 1850, the global warming that has taken place naturally is nowhere near enough to return temperatures to their level of 1,000 years ago. If you fly over Greenland today, even in the summertime, you'll see nothing but white everywhere inward from the coast, and hundreds of icebergs slowly floating out of every fjord.

One important fact about the very thick glacier that covers nearly all of Greenland is that it provides a window to learn about temperatures in the distant past, because it hasn't been disturbed for thousands of years. Scientists can go to the glacier, drill down and take out an ice core. The thousands of consecutive layers found in such a core provide an excellent record of temperatures in past years, going way, way back. This is what is termed a "proxy measurement," and it is one of the very few ways to determine ancient temperatures. That information is very relevant for our modern discussion about whether mankind is causing global warming.

Schools Raise $1.3 Million For Katrina Victims

Maryland public school students have emptied piggy banks, baked cakes, and organized a variety of other fundraising activities to help the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

The result was the largest charitable fundraising campaign in Maryland public school history. Students raised more than $1.32 million as part of "Maryland Kids Care: Collecting Pennies (and More) for the Victims of Hurricane Katrina." More than 680 schools across the state participated in the program.

State Superintendent Nancy Grasmick announced the tally this week before an audience at Bollman Bridge Elementary School in Jessup. Students at the school were representative of students throughout Maryland. They gave what they could and encouraged others to do so as well.

"One of the most remarkable things about this campaign was the broad-based response of Maryland public school children," said Grasmick. "Students from urban areas, suburban, and rural districts all gave what they could to help those affected by the hurricanes. The resulting donations will help families throughout Louisiana and Mississippi recover from this tragedy."

MSDE announced the Maryland Kids Care campaign on Sept. 1 as a voluntary statewide effort to encourage public school students to get involved in helping victims and their families. The campaign ran through Sept. 30.

Although the campaign did not start with a stated goal, Maryland Kids Care would have surpassed even MSDE's most optimistic target.

"This total represents 132 million pennies – that's 330 tons of pennies," Grasmick told the audience. "It would take 20 tractor trailers to transport that many pennies in weight alone. If all 20 of those tractor trailers were lined up, the line would be the length of four football fields. That is incredible!"

Schools and school systems gave their donations to the American Red Cross and other similar organizations involved in the relief effort. MSDE tracked the donations, compiling information from hundreds of schools.

The Maryland Kids Care campaign is just one of several hurricane relief efforts, big and small, put together over the past few weeks. For example:

•The Maryland Association of Student Councils put together nearly 1,000 supply kits for victims of Hurricane Katrina. Separate kits were put together for elementary students, middle and high school students, teachers, and families.

Schools in Maryland not only raised funds for Katrina relief efforts, but also opened their doors to students displaced by the hurricane. More than 830 students from the Gulf Coast enrolled in Maryland public schools in the weeks following the hurricane and many are currently attending class in the state.

TV PIPELINE

The '24' clock will tick again in January

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: When is the new season of "24" going to start? –Gary Scarlett, Euless, Texas.

A: As it did last year, Fox is waiting until after the start of the new year to launch the show's fifth round ... but it will be worth the wait. Kiefer Sutherland will be back in the two-night season premiere Jan. 15-16; the show will be two hours long each of those nights. Jean Smart ("Designing Women") and Sean Astin ("The Lord of the Rings") will be among the cast additions, with Carlos Bernard (alias the show's Tony), Mary Lynn Rajskub (Chloe) and Kim Raver (Audrey) set to return. Anyone who needs to catch up on season four of "24" will get the chance beginning Dec. 6 when the DVD set hits stores.

Kiefer Sutherland

Q: My bride and I enjoy James Stewart's movies. Who was the actress who played opposite him in "The Shop Around the Corner"? –Eric Lynn, Clearwater, Fla.

A: Margaret Sullavan was Stewart's leading lady in the 1940 classic about co-workers who don't realize they're also pen pals. The picture, which is in the Turner Classic Movies library, inspired the 1998 Tom Hanks-Meg Ryan comedy "You've Got Mail."

Q: Can you tell us who won "The Cut"? The finale was pre-empted for a benefit for the hurricane victims, and we've seen no reference to who the winner was. –George W. West, Long Beach, Calif.

A: Actually, CBS did reschedule and air the last episode, but we can see from our mail that the change happened too late for many viewers to know about it. The winner of "The Cut" was Chris Cortez, who was selected from among the three finalists by fashion icon Tommy Hilfiger to design his own collection.

Q: Our family was really into "Wildfire" on ABC Family. Is it coming back? The last episode never mentioned if it would be on anymore. –La Vonne Rossa, Madison, Wis.

A: Actually, following the "To Be Continued" that ended the episode – just as a big horse race was beginning – mention was made that new "Wildfire" stories will be shown in 2006. As of this writing, ABC Family had not specified what the start date for those would be.

Q: Is Tracee Ellis Ross, of the show "Girlfriends," related to Diana Ross? –DeeAnn Johnson, Long Island, N.Y.

Md. Forests Assn. To Mark Century Of Conservation

The annual meeting of the Maryland Forests Association is set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4-5, at the Rocky Gap Resort in Allegany County. With the theme "Celebra-ting Our Past – Creating Our Future," the event will focus on the cooperative efforts of foresters, landowners and the logging industry as it highlights some of the major resource management personalities, events, and achievements of the past 100 years.

"There have been many changes to the forest resources in the past 100 years," said MFA executive director Karin Miller. "With the advent of conservation measures put in place in the early 1900s, new ways to manage and sustain the resource came into being."

A Friday awards banquet will feature a keynote address by President Teddy Roosevelt (presented by Keith McGough), and Saturday's educational sessions will include such historical personalities as Maryland's first state forester, Fred W. Besley (presented by Offutt Johnson), and coal baron Robert Garrett (presented by Al Feldstein).

Former state foresters will be on hand to help trace the legacy of forest conservation efforts from its roots to the present. Other presentations will cover evolutions within the forest industry, and challenges faced by landowners over the last century.

Closing session speakers will look at emerging trends in forestry and industry, and societal needs and demands.

The educational sessions will close with a panel discussion, with audience participation encouraged, of topics including "What do you see as the greatest concerns and issues facing forestry?" and "What is your desire for Maryland's forest landscape in the coming decades?"

Among the presenters at the conference will be Green Ridge forest manager Francis Zumbrun, former state forester James E. Mallow, current Maryland state forester Steven W. Koehn, Dr. Joseph McNeel of West Virginia University, forest landowner Kirk P. Rodgers, Pinchot Institute for Conservation's president V. Alaric Sample, NewPage vice president for Luke Mill Operations Richard J. Watro, and Lynda Eisenberg of the Maryland Department of Planning.

Continuing education credits for professional foresters and master loggers are available. Ample networking opportunities, numerous educational exhibits and the annual Silent Auction are also planned. The event is open to nonmembers.

The registration deadline is Friday, Oct. 28. For more detailed information about the conference, or to register, persons may visit the event web site at http://mdforests.org/mfa/AM2005.htm, or contact Miller at 301-895-5369 or via e-mail at mdforests@herein town. net.

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO HELP...

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the ninth year, The Republican newspaper and the Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington is the head coordinator, assisted by several other club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue in her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful. Dora Hanlin has again volunteered to help handle the applications, as she has from the beginning of the program. Her help is invaluable.

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Donations should be postmarked by December 3, 2005. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

This Mineral May Help Diabetics

Chromium is a mineral that humans require in trace or small amounts. Its mechanisms of action in the body and the exact amounts needed for optimal health are not well defined. Chromium is known to enhance the action of insulin, a hormone critical to the metabolism and storage of carbohydrate, fat, and protein in the body. Although chromium is found in many foods, such foods typically contain less than 2 micrograms per serving. Meat and whole-grain products, as well as some fruits, vegetables, and spices contain chromium.

Research on the effect of chromium supplementation on diabetic patients has been inconclusive due to small study sizes and use of different chromium formulations. However, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently issued a statement recognizing chromium as a safe nutritional supplement. The FDA also stated that one small study suggests that it may reduce the risk of insulin resistance, and therefore possibly reduce the risk of developing Type 2 diabetes. The recommended daily allowance for chromium is 25 mcg per day for females age 19-50, and 35 mcg per day for males aged 19-50.

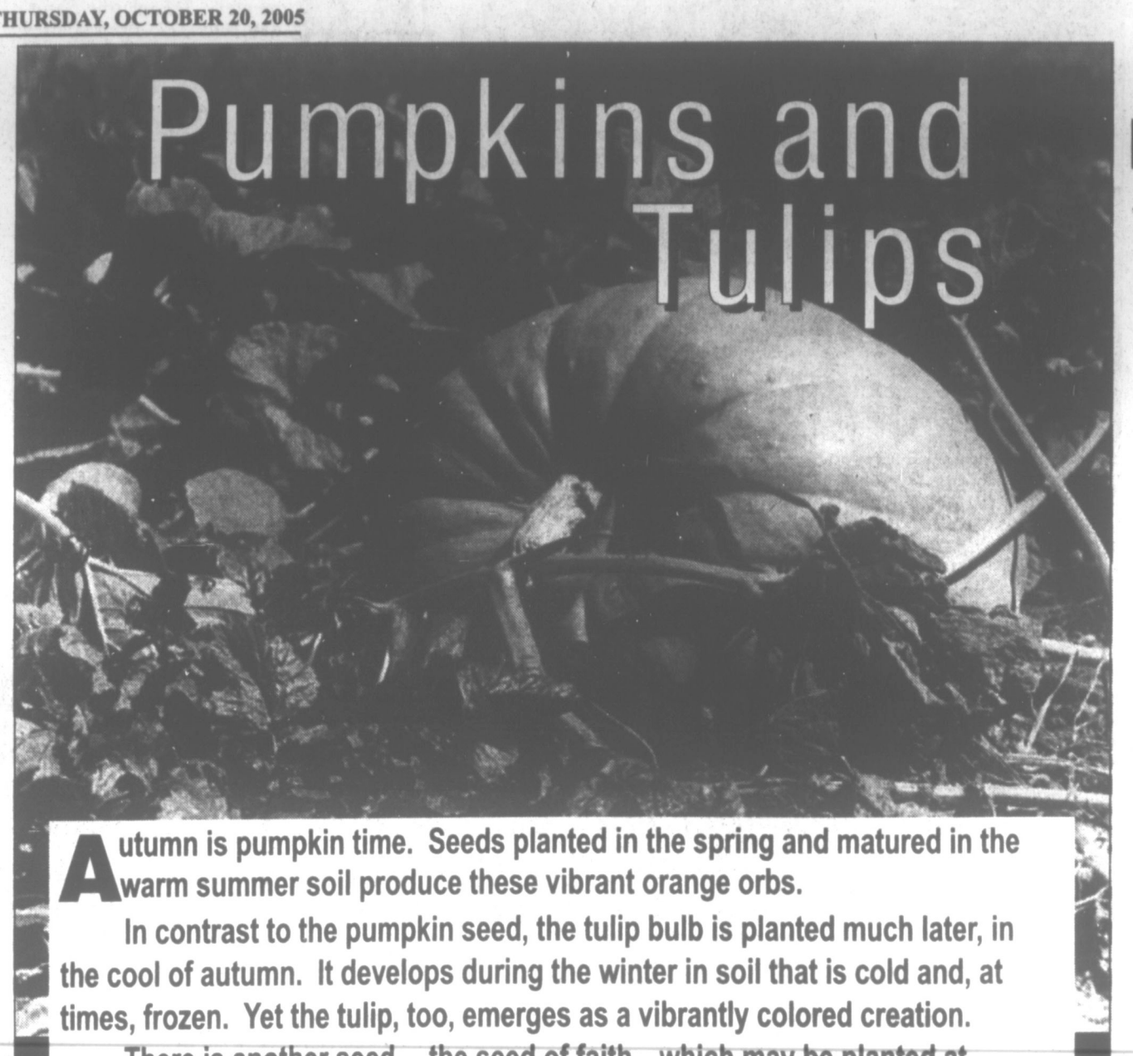
Pumpkins and Tulips



Autumn is pumpkin time. Seeds planted in the spring and matured in the warm summer soil produce these vibrant orange orbs.

In contrast to the pumpkin seed, the tulip bulb is planted much later, in the cool of autumn. It develops during the winter in soil that is cold and, at times, frozen. Yet the tulip, too, emerges as a vibrantly colored creation.

There is another seed... the seed of faith...which may be planted at different times, depending on the condition of the soul. Whether planted early, in the springtime of youth, or later, in the autumn of life, one truth is constant—God has promised love and mercy to all His children, regardless of when they accept Him as their Father. "And everyone [who has followed God]...will receive a hundred times as much and will inherit eternal life. But many who are first will be last, and many who are last will be first." (Matthew 19:29-30)

Visit your house of worship this week; plant your seed of faith in the care of the Creator. He tends pumpkins...and tulips.

Are You a Good Lover?

Most of us are often severely limited in our ability to love our fellow human beings, partly because of a natural instinct for self preservation, and partly because we have learned that if we don't look out for our own interests, no one else will. And, while a modicum of self-interest is perhaps a good thing, most of us probably have too much self-interest for our own good, and our constant concern about our own health and well-being can prevent us from being appropriately concerned about others. What really strikes us about such exemplary models of loving kindness as Mother Teresa, the Dalai Lama, or Mahatma Gandhi is their lack of concern for their own self-interest. All of these people were great lovers because they disregarded their own interests in favor of the interests of others. And of course, it is easy to love those who love us back and genuinely treat us well. The real challenge is to love those who don't treat us well, and especially those who actively dislike us. Jesus and Buddha were fundamentally in agreement on this, with Buddha saying "O let us live in joy, in love amongst those who hate, let us live in love." And, Jesus put it this way: "Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you." (Matthew 5:44)

So faith, hope, love abide, these three:
but the greatest of these is love.
R.S.V. 1 Corinthians 13:13

Crabby Tabby

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have an 8-year-old female tabby. "Kate" is not the friendliest girl around. She loves me but only tolerates everyone else, and truly hates my grandchildren. The problem is that three days ago we adopted a 5-week-old male kitten. "Jack" is very loving to my granddaughter, and they have become very attached. Kate, however, has been very upset and hisses at everyone except me. I do not have any interaction with Jack, the kitten, for fear that my cat will become even more upset. How can I get Kate to calm down and accept Jack? Will she ever get to the point where she will at least be a little more at ease with him here? — Flustered Grandma in Gary, Ind.

DEAR FLUSTERED: Older cats can be very set in their ways, and Kate's behavior toward little Jack is not surprising. After all, she doesn't like intrusions that upset her control of the world. And here's an energetic bundle of joy whose mission seems to be to keep Kate off balance at every turn!

Kate and Jack may never get along, but they do need to reach a truce of some sort, and you're the chief negotiator. All their interaction at this point must be supervised by you; if you can't be around, place them in separate rooms (with food, water and litter box). Schedule a "family time" each day, where you hold one cat on your lap (preferably Jack at this point) while the other is in the room, and introduce them to one another. Kate will hiss and unsheathe her claws; back away slowly with Jack until she stops.

Interactions will be like this for several days or weeks, but Kate must eventually accept that Jack is staying put. She may never like it, but she will learn to share the space, however grudgingly.

Md. Republicans Seeking To Limit Eminent Domain

by Elizabeth Coe
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Republican legislators in Maryland said Tuesday they will propose an amendment to the state's constitution that would ban the seizure of private property by government if it is to be turned over to private developers.

"Private property is private property," said Sen. Allan H. Kittleman, R-Carroll and Howard. "When you own something it shouldn't be taken by the government."

This normally obscure issue of eminent domain came to national attention with the controversial Kelo decision by the U.S. Supreme Court in June, which established that government could force the sale of private property for economic development.

"This is encouraging the displacement of low-income residents," Kittleman said. "It's a reverse Robin Hood effect taking from the poor and giving to the rich."

The proposed amendment, announced at a news conference Tuesday, is being called the Property Protection Act of 2006 and would limit the state to seizing property only for a public use such as for schools, parks, or roads, legislators said.

For the amendment to pass, it must receive three-fifths majorities of both the House of Delegates and Senate, and then must be approved by the state's voters in a referendum.

A spokesman for the Ehrlich administration said that the governor, a Republican, called the proposal a "very positive first step," but said Ehrlich would reserve judgment until he has seen the final draft of the amendment. Both Republicans and Democrats have emerged as supporters of the proposed amendment, or similar legislation, and have said economic development should not be considered a public use.

Sen. Jennie M. Forehand, D-Montgomery, said she and several of her Democratic colleagues have been working toward legislation placing restrictions on eminent domain.

"There are different ways to solve this problem," she said. "But something needs to be done to solve it. It would be wonderful to find something we can agree on."

Andrew Langer, spokesman for the National Federation of Independent Businesses, Maryland's largest small business advocacy group, said this issue is especially important to small businesses and small property owners who can most easily be hurt when developers and government come together.

"The founders didn't envision that the power of eminent domain would be used this way," he said.

Eminent domain should be used only when a legitimate public use can be demonstrated and when just compensation to the property owner can be paid, he said.

"A loose definition of public use leads to an abuse of power when it comes to eminent domain," he said. "The power to physically take property away from citizens should be constrained."

Although the exact language of the proposed amendment has not yet been drafted, Langer said he thinks most members of small businesses in Maryland will come out in favor of doing something on this issue.

Delegate Anthony J. O'Donnell, R-Calvert and St. Mary's, said this type of legislation makes sense because there are other ways the government could work toward economic development, such as by using free market incentives.

"Eminent domain should be an issue of last resort," he said. "Everybody feels that the Kelo decision was very wrong."

Sen. J. Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset, Worcester, and Wicomico, said the issue of eminent domain is a "bedrock principle" for Republicans, but will be supported by legislators on both sides of the aisle. He predicted that the House and Senate will work together during the next session to draft an amendment that both houses can accept.

EVELYN HARVEY CELEBRATES A CENTURY Evelyn Lantz Spiker Lewis Harvey celebrated her 100th birthday on Sept. 28 at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, where she has resided since January 2002. The mother of four children herself, Evelyn has spent most of her life farming and taking care of others, according to a family member. "I think [living a long life] was just meant to be, and I worked hard all my life," commented Evelyn, who received over 100 cards for her birthday. Garrett College Hosts Annual College Expo

Students began arriving early at the Mountain Top College Expo at Garrett College last week, an event which featured representatives from nearly 40 colleges, universities, technical schools, and military academies.

Dr. Nancy Priselac, dean of student and enrollment development at Garrett College, welcomed the almost 300 students and their parents in attendance, reminding them of the financial aid workshop and the opportunity for seniors to register for up to three different $500 scholarships. She thanked Mettiki Coal, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, New Car Dealers Association, and Mountain Top College Expo for sponsoring the scholarships.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce scholarship was won by Corey Yoder. Katie Conroy was awarded the $500 scholarship for a Southern High School student, and Chris Thomas received the scholarship as a Northern High School student.

Gift certificates for Garrett College courses were won by parent Shaun McKewen and out-of-state student Colin Rodgers.

"There was a very enthusiastic crowd at the event this year," said Phil Lauver, supervisor of pupil services for the Garrett County Board of Education.

More than 85 students attended from Southern High School and over 60 from Northern, plus others from Garrett College, Frostburg State University, and Preston High School.

"This is an opportunity to be able to meet students in this area," said Rick Ward of the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, who has participated in Transfer Days in the past.

Welding instructor Leroy Glison and electrical instructors Patrick Carl and Bruce Hedrick from the Fayette Institute of Commerce and Technology, Uniontown, Pa., also participated in the Expo for the first time this year. The instructors said their students often are displaced workers, people who have been laid off, and young people looking for a good career.

"The world of high-tech can't run without electricity," said Carl. "The future is bright for young people talented in these areas."

Wanda Donahue of West Virginia Wesleyan has participated in the event for at least 10 years. Southern High School counselor Beverly Sincell is among Wesleyan's alumni. Donahue also has been active in Transfer Days, and usually has several students each year transfer to Wesleyan from Garrett College.

Swanton resident Carl Rebele represents his alma mater, Penn State, each year at the Expo. He often recruits one to three students each year to go into the Pennsylvania system. Scholarship assistance and financial aid are available, he said.

The Expo is sponsored annually by the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett College.

ON-GROUND FARM STORAGE APPROVED FOR CROP YEARS 2005 AND 2006

In response to Hurricane Katrina and its effect on grain storage, the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) has approved the use of outside farm storage for corn, oats, wheat, barley, etc., offered as collateral for a 9-month non-recourse loan for crop years 2005 and 2006. Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP) commodities stored on-ground will also be considered as approved on-farm storage.

For on-ground storage of commodities to be considered eligible, the commodities stored shall be: (1) stored on-ground on the producer's farm; (2) protected from animals; (3) safely and securely located so that water drainage will not seriously affect the quality and quantity of the commodity pledged as collateral for loans and LDPs.

Eligible harvested commodities may be stored in bags, if: (1) the Preston County FSA Committee determines that CCC is not at risk of loss, and (2) the storage bags used provide for safe storage. Commodities stored in bags cannot be moved or commingled with any other commodity without prior approval of the Preston County FSA Office.

Producers are responsible for ensuring the quality and quantity of the commodity pledged as collateral is maintained during the entire loan period. The CCC shall not assume any loss in quality or quantity for any reason or incur any cost associated with delivery of the commodity to CCC, if applicable. Producers may repay all commodities under loan stored on-ground, as approved at either principal and charges, plus interest, or the CCC-determined value, under marketing loan program provisions.

To inquire about on-ground farm storage for Marketing Assistance Loans and Loan Deficiency Payments, either visit the Preston County Farm Service Ageney, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923.

State Parks, Private Campgrounds Generate $231 Million In 2004

Visits to Maryland's state parks and private campgrounds generated more than $231 million in total economic impact in 2004, according to a study recently completed by the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development. The study, conducted by the Maryland Office of Tourism Development in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Maryland Park Service and the Maryland Association of Campgrounds, surveyed expenditures by visitors during a recent 12-month period, measuring the total impact of those visits on statewide and local economies.

The study also showed that, of the $231.9 million in total economic impact, spending by visitors to state parks totaled $168.8 million, while private campgrounds visitors spent $63 million. Spending by campground visitors supported 3,140 jobs in Maryland, with 2,276 of those jobs being directly related to visitor spending at campgrounds. More than $13.5 million in total tax revenue for the state and local governments was generated.

"This news is further evidence that Maryland means business when it comes to promoting our state," said Governor Robert L. Ehrlich, Jr. "Numbers like these prove that Maryland's state parks have been recognized and appreciated by tourists, both local and interstate. The economic impact these campgrounds generate benefits not only the state, but also provides significant revenue and jobs to local economies as well. I am proud that our outstanding campgrounds are growing with the rest of the state's flourishing tourism industry and can compete with those in neighboring states."

Figures released in the economic impact study represent both direct and secondary impacts. The study collected data on park fees, accommodations, travel expenses, food and beverage, and retail purchases to determine the total economic impact. State park campground visitors spent a total of $301 per trip, and private campground visitors spent an average of $698. A copy of the study can be found by visiting http://dnr.maryland.gov/download/ei_study.pdf

"This landmark study demonstrates the unique partnership we enjoy between the private and public sectors of our industry in Maryland. Not only does the report provide conclusive data on the enormous economic impact the camping industry has on our state and its residents, it also provides us with valuable information on our customers – what they want, where they come from, and how much they spend with us. It gives our park operators the opportunity to make future planning decisions based on our customers' needs," said Deb Carter, executive director of Maryland Association of Campgrounds.

Based on the camper survey, the majority of campers to Maryland campgrounds came from within the state (58.2 percent), followed by Pennsylvania with 16.1 percent, Virginia with 5.8 percent, and New Jersey with 4.2 percent. The average camping party was 5.1 persons, with state park campers spending 3.1 nights, while private campground users spent 12.8 nights.

"Maryland's diverse landscape affords outdoor enthusiasts the opportunity to camp in the mountains, across the piedmont, or along the shore without ever crossing the state line," said DNR Secretary C. Ronald Franks. "This study, which confirms that visitors from neighboring states are joining Marylanders in using our facilities, is true testament to the scope and beauty of our resources, the quality of our state parks, and the dedication of the people who manage them."

The tourism industry is continuing to show significant growth in Maryland, reaching a record $9.3 billion in economic impact in calendar year 2003. Tourism also generates an estimated $2 billion in federal, state, and local taxes, and employs more than 112,000 people, mainly in the areas of food service, public transportation, and lodging. In 2004, Maryland welcomed more than 21 million visitors.

COUNTING YOUR CHICKENS!

It's a common predicament: you need to sell your home and at the same time buy and move into another, possibly in another location. Since it's not likely that you'll close on both homes in the same day, how do you proceed? Buy first or sell first? It's a classic "chicken or the egg" scenario.

If you sell first, you're pressured to move, perhaps into temporary quarters. But if you face something like job relocation, there may be little choice. If you buy first, you might be paying two mortgages for some time. But if you can't afford two payments, you'll probably have to sell first to qualify for a loan. What a headache!

There's a beast called a "contingency contract," wherein you make an offer on a home that is "contingent" upon selling your current home. Experience has shown, however, that sellers will not be enthused by such an offer. Why should they take their home off the market while waiting for the possible sale of your home?

The best bet is to go ahead and list your home for sale as soon as possible, and start looking at other homes. When your home is under contract, get your loan pre-approval and choose from the houses you've already selected as your top three. Then make your offer and make your plans to start moving!

If you'd like to buy or sell a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE.

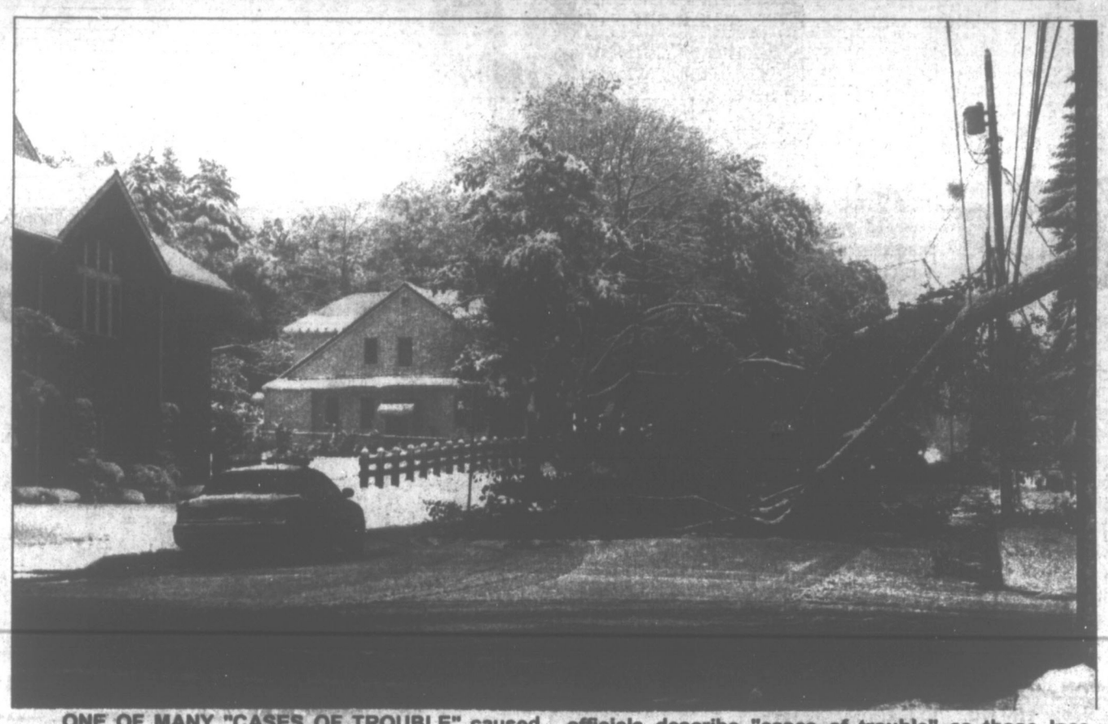
Bypass Opponents To Meet Tonight At GCMH Center

A meeting to discuss citizen concerns with the proposed Oakland bypass project is slated for 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Oct. 27, at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Conference Center (located next to the Garrett Medical Group).

Hosted by Garrett Countians for Smart Growth, the meeting agenda includes a review of State Highway Administration research that the group feels proves its point that a bypass is not necessary; a discussion of suggestions for alleviating traffic concerns and enforcing speed limits in the town; and a preparation of the agenda the group will present to the Garrett County commissioners during a Thursday, Nov. 10, meeting at the courthouse.

For further information on the meeting or Garrett Countians for Smart Growth, persons may consult the group's web site at www.oaklandbypass.com, or call 301-334-1034.



ONE OF MANY "CASES OF TROUBLE" caused by this week's stunning snow storm happened along Oak Street in Oakland, where about half of a large oak fell across power lines and into the street, blocking traffic and cutting out electricity. The storm brought more than 11 inches of wet snow to the entire mountaintop, which then caused trees to break and fall on power lines, roads, and buildings. Allegheny Power officials describe "cases of trouble" as those locations where repairs are required, and as of this morning there remained about 300 such cases. See story. The weather in the coming days should be much kinder, though, with partly cloudy days and temps to be in the upper 40s, and that is certainly more like it. Photo by John McEwen.

Garrett Battered By Early Snow Storm; Thousands Without Power

Leafed trees weighted with snow crash on wires, roads

A sudden and heavier-than-expected snow storm descended upon Garrett County this week, causing massive power outages, blocked roads, and school closings. Allegheny Power has been working nearly around the clock since Monday trying to restore electrical power to thousands of customers.

"This ranks as the second worse storm we have ever experienced, trailing behind Hurricane Isabel in 2003," said Allan Staggers, manager of communications at Allegheny Power. "At the height of the storm, there were 22,000 Garrett County customers without power."

Considering that the population of the county is around 30,000, nearly everyone in the area was affected in some way by the storm. As of about 9:30 this morning, Staggers reported that 5,800 customers were still without power. The crews are repairing lines constantly, however, and more have been restored since that time.

As of this morning, Staggers said there remained about 300 "cases of trouble," which are sites that require repairs of some sort, such as a broken utility pole or line, trees across wires, or other related situations.

Snow began falling on Monday afternoon, mixed with rain. The temperature dropped and the snow increased. It continued to fall all night and throughout Tuesday. The snow, heavy and icy, piled on top of the leaves still on the trees, which was the main culprit of the problems that followed.

Trees, overly dry because of the rain shortage this summer, and most still nearly fully leafed, began to split and snap. Numerous large trees broke in half, right down the trunks in some cases, and others lost major limbs, some several feet in diameter. The limbs and trees fell across power lines throughout the county, as well as across roadways and onto homes.

Staggers reported that Allegheny Power has called in help from several areas. Allegheny Power crews have come from Martinsburg, W.Va., and Frederick County. Baltimore Gas & Electric has sent eight crews to the county, and a dozen crews of electric contractors have also been employed to help repair the multiple line breaks.

"Normally, we have 12 linemen working in the local area," Staggers said. "Right now we have 65."

School was canceled Tuesday because of the heavy snowfall and the trees blocking several roads. The electrical power outages began in the night Monday, and grew more widespread on Tuesday. School was canceled on Wednesday and today because of the power outages, according to Jim Thomas, director of facilities for the Garrett County Board of Education.

"We assessed the situation yesterday about 3:30 or 4, hoping that we could open today," Thomas said. "But we still did not have electricity at Yough Glades (it did come on late yesterday), Accident, Kitzmiller, or Crellin schools. At the same time, Southern High and Southern Middle schools had electricity, but because of the outages, there was some equipment damage, which caused heating problems. There was no heat in those schools as of yesterday. We are working overtime to get those things repaired."

Thomas added that in discussing the situation yesterday, officials also considered that many families were out of power, which

The annual Our Story Conference of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is set for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Nov. 3-4, at Garrett College.

"We have the big three speaking at the Our Story Conference," said Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "We have the number one speaker in education, William English (Brit) Kirwan, chancellor of the University System of Maryland; Aris Melissaratos, secretary of Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development; and top economist Anirban Basu," said Ross. "We will be taking an in-depth look at the education, politics and economics of business in 'Mountain Maryland.'"

Also, speaking at the conference will be Jim Blasingame, host of The Small Business Advocate Show, management guru Andrew Sherman, Steve Becker of McDermott, Will & Emery, and Beverly Williams, among others. The conference also will feature two days of workshops, seminars, and panel discussions.

"This conference offers an opportunity for our business leaders to learn from some of the best and be better prepared for the changing economic climate of this area," said Ross. "We are proud to present these top authorities in their field."

A widely respected academic leader, Kirwan served as president of Ohio State University for four years, and as president of the University of Maryland College Park for nine years. Prior to his presidency, he was a member of the University of Maryland faculty for 34 years.

Kirwan received his bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of Kentucky, and his master's and doctoral degrees in mathematics from Rutgers. Overheated Flue Blamed For Destruction Of House, Contents

An overheated flue has been ruled the cause of blaze that destroyed a one-story, single-family dwelling south of Oakland Tuesday evening.

Approximately two dozen volunteer firefighters from six local departments were summoned to the residence of Bryan Shaffer at 2509 Shady Dell Road at 10:08 p.m. The fire had been discovered and reported by a neighbor.

The house was owned by Ty Miller, and was being rented by the Shaffer family.

Upon the arrival of the first units, flames and heavy smoke were billowing from the wood-frame structure. The blaze was brought under control in about 20 minutes, but not before destroying the house and nearly all of the contents.

The loss was estimated by Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver to be $140,000 – $110,000 to the structure and $30,000 to the contents.

Responding to the scene were units and personnel from the Oakland, Gorman, Deer Park, Aurora, and Mt. Grove volunteer departments, along with the air cascade unit, which is housed at the Deep Creek VFC. Also responding was the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. No injuries were reported.

Rodeheaver ruled that the cause of the fire was an overheated flue on a wood stove in the living room, and was accidental.

Smoke alarms were present in the house, and activated properly, according to Rodeheaver's report.

The Shaffer family, which includes a 3-year-old and a 4-month-old, is being assisted by the American Red Cross and the Warm the Children program.

Oakland firefighters were summoned back to the scene early Wednesday after the blaze rekindled.

Black Bear Hunt Continues; 33 Bagged So Far

Maryland's 2005 black bear hunt continued today as the numbers close in on the state's projected harvest limit. Thirty-three bears had been taken as of this morning, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources at Mt. Nebo, and the agency will make the decision to close the hunt when the tally reaches a number between 40 and 55.

A total of 15 bears were taken on opening day Monday, with the first kill being recorded by 8-year-old Sierra Stiles of the Kitzmiller area. At approximately 7:30 a.m. the Kitzmiller Elementary School third grader used two shots from a .243 rifle to take down a 212-pound male from a distance of 75 yards. She was hunting on her great uncle's Kitzmiller area farm under the supervision of her father Donald and her uncle Robert Harvey.

"It was the first bear I've ever seen, except maybe baby bears in the zoo," Stiles said. Prior to the hunt, she scored a 98 on her hunter's safety exam.

Agency On Aging Slates Salute To Family Caregivers Celebration

A "Caring Every Day" salute to family caregivers is set for 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 4, at the Will O' the Wisp on Deep Creek Lake. Sponsored by the Garrett County Community Area Agency on Aging, the event will feature informative workshops on stress relief, yoga, and Medicare issues, plus a luncheon and musical entertainment.

The salute is part the Agency on Aging's observance of National Family Caregiver Month in November. The annual recognition seeks to draw attention to the many challenges facing family caregivers, advocate for stronger public policy to address family caregiving issues, and raise awareness about community programs that support family caregivers.

"National Family Caregivers month is a great time to show your support for caregivers who do much to help others, yet receive little recognition and support themselves," said Leona Beckman, the Area Agency on Aging's local coordinator and case manager for the Senior Care and National Family Caregiver Association (NFCA) support programs.

There are more than 50 million family caregivers across the country, according to the NFCA. More than half that number provide an average of 20 hours of care a week or more. Those services are valued at more than $257 billion a year. Family caregivers provide more than 80 percent of all home care services. Two-thirds of all seniors needing care receive it solely from family members.

"We have many family caregivers in Garrett County, and our celebration is designed to help them learn how to believe in themselves, protect their health, and reach out for help when they need it," Beckman said. "We want to encourage caregivers to take these three steps every day to make their lives easier, improve care, and raise awareness among others about the continued love and commitment these caregivers exemplify for the rest of us."

"We encourage people to think of a family caregiver they know, and celebrate this special month by reaching out and offering a helping hand – bring them dinner, offer transportation, do something considerate to help."

The Area Agency on Aging works in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department and the Alzheimer's Association to provide respite opportunities and education programs throughout the year.

For information about the Salute to Family Caregivers event and related programs, persons may contact the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 143.

SNOWY SOCCER – Monday's sudden and severe snow storm made Mountaintop Soccer Association playoff games more interesting than usual, to say the least. The soccer board members said they talked at length about whether or not to cancel the Under-12 and Under-15 playoff matches, but the rest of the week didn't look promising, either. So as the days are growing shorter and playing time is running out, the decision was made to go ahead. Little did the board know that the flurries would turn into an all-out squall that would last throughout the games. The players and refs took to the field in the blizzard and played through, cold and wet, but punchy and laughing by the end. Playoffs are to continue this evening and tomorrow, with the final matches, barring more blizzards, to be held Saturday. Pictured are players on Eric Malcolm's Watchdog Security Rangers and Dr. Sotiere Savopoulos's Cornerstone Family Medicine Spirit. The Rangers defeated Spirit 5-2. Photo by John McEwen.

A PRE-HALLOWEEN SNOW WITCH was made by Justine and Jessica Harvey of Bumble Bee Road. They created the snow witch on Oct. 25, Jessica's 16th birthday. "It's not often that you can make a snowman before Halloween," said Jessica. Children all over the county and surrounding areas have been busy wiping the snow off their jack-o-lanterns and building their own snow creations. Photo by Jessica Harvey.

Single-Vehicle Crash Injures Accident Man

A single-vehicle mishap in the Cove area last Thursday night, Oct. 20, injured an Accident man, according to Maryland State Police troopers, who said that charges are pending upon the completion of their investigation.

Harold Moreland, 52, was driving on Cove Road one mile west of Garrett Highway at 11:29 p.m. when he failed to negotiate a turn and lost control of his 2002 Chevrolet Cavalier, which struck an embankment and overturned.

Moreland was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Accident Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the crash scene.

Oakland Collision Injures Two; MLP Man Charged

A Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with causing an accident in Oakland Friday night that injured the two occupants of the other vehicle. Oakland Police officers investigated the 6:44 p.m. mishap.

Brandon Wade Carr, 18, was driving south on Third Street when his 1998 Ford F-150 rear-ended a 2004 Ford Expedition that was stopped as it was waiting to turn into the parking lot of Markwood's Citgo. The driver of the second vehicle, Michael A. Hazey II, 53, and his passenger, Melinda J. Hazey, both of Bridgeport, W.Va., were subsequently transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Carr, who told police that he did not see the Hazey's SUV, was charged with failure to give full time and attention to his driving.

Gerald Beachy Receives Lions Club Award

Gerald Beachy recently received a Melvin Jones Fellow Award from the Grantsville Lions Club for his dedication to the group. The award was presented at the 44th Charter Night at the North Glade Inn at Deep Creek Lake.

A member of the Grantsville Lions Club since 1979, Beachy has served as club president, secretary, and newsletter editor. He has also served as Lions District 22-W Zone I chairman, region chairman, and drug awareness chairman. He has been chairman of the annual Grantsville Days celebration, coordinated by the Grantsville Lions, for the past 18 years.

The award was presented by Lions District 22-W governor Buck Fisher and post district governor Rodney Welch. It is the highest honor bestowed on Lions Club members.

Beachy joins other Grantsville Lions Melvin Jones, who was the original founder of the club 88 years ago; fellow recipients Bill Bender and Bob Watkins, both charter members; and James Carey and Dr. Ronald Gillum.

Other guests attending the charter night were Debbie Fisher, wife of Buck Fisher; past district governor Thomas Jefts; district 22-W leadership chair Barbara McKenney and her husband Ron; Region I chairman Terry Hostetler; Deep Creek Lions president Bea Crosco and her husband Wilmer; and Zone I chairman Robert Leece.

The Grantsville Lions Club was chartered in 1961, and was sponsored by the Lonaconing Lions Club. Their club projects include purchasing eyeglasses for the needy, raising funds for vision research, awarding four scholarships at Northern High School, installing the town of Grantsville Christmas decorations, maintenance of the Grantsville Town Park, and coordinating the annual Grantsville Days celebration.

The Grantsville Lions' major fundraisers include Grantsville Days, annual cash drawings, summer chicken barbecues, and sales of a lottery calendar. All proceeds from the fundraisers are used for Lions projects.

The club meets on the first and third Thursday of each month at Penn Alps Restaurant, and is presently holding a membership drive and looking for new members. Anyone interested in joining is asked to contact a Grantsville Lions Club member.

Single-Vehicle Crash Injures Accident Man

A single-vehicle mishap in the Cove area last Thursday night, Oct. 20, injured an Accident man, according to Maryland State Police troopers, who said that charges are pending upon the completion of their investigation.

Harold Moreland, 52, was driving on Cove Road one mile west of Garrett Highway at 11:29 p.m. when he failed to negotiate a turn and lost control of his 2002 Chevrolet Cavalier, which struck an embankment and overturned.

Moreland was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Accident Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the crash scene.

Oakland Collision Injures Two; MLP Man Charged

A Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with causing an accident in Oakland Friday night that injured the two occupants of the other vehicle. Oakland Police officers investigated the 6:44 p.m. mishap.

Brandon Wade Carr, 18, was driving south on Third Street when his 1998 Ford F-150 rear-ended a 2004 Ford Expedition that was stopped as it was waiting to turn into the parking lot of Markwood's Citgo. The driver of the second vehicle, Michael A. Hazey II, 53, and his passenger, Melinda J. Hazey, both of Bridgeport, W.Va., were subsequently transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Carr, who told police that he did not see the Hazey's SUV, was charged with failure to give full time and attention to his driving.

We Are Reminded...

It is human nature to take things for granted. We just can't help it. It is only when those "things" are yanked away from us that we realize how much we take them for granted. It usually takes something out of the ordinary to put us in such a position – like, maybe a major storm.

We were once again reminded this week of how helpless we really are when it comes to the behavior of Mother Nature. Yes, we have fantastic technology to predict what she is going to do, and therefore we can be far better prepared for the consequences than were our ancestors, but we can still do absolutely nothing to control what she will do. She remains in charge, despite the incredible technological advances we have made in so many areas.

We also tend to take electricity for granted, never under normal circumstances thinking about how wonderful it is, and how thankful we should be, that we are able to simply flip a switch and immediately have light in a darkened room; to be able to sit in our homes and, via television and radio, know all about the aforementioned weather forecasts; to be able to supply heat to our homes via the simple twist of a thermostat dial.

More typically we complain about the "high cost" of electricity. While some of those monthly bills can be burdensome, when one considers everything that electricity does for us, the relative cost is truly minimal.

We here at The Republican office were vividly reminded of that fact when on Tuesday morning we, along with thousands of others, were suddenly without electric power. We were literally dead in the water without it. Our computers and printers were rendered useless. Our presses were silent. Our lights would not come on. Because our telephone system depends upon electricity to operate, we could not even call out or receive calls. Helpless. Dead in the water. We finally just all went home (but were still thankful that the storm did not hit on paper day!).

During such stressful times, we are also pleasantly reminded of how alive is the human spirit of cooperation and assistance, as neighbors are so willing to help neighbors in times of trouble. On behalf of the public at large, we extend utmost appreciation to all of those who have gone above and beyond the call this week, especially the many emergency service volunteers who have had so many calls for help, and all of the utility crews who are working such long, difficult hours in hazardous conditions to restore the many services which we, most of the time, so take for granted.

To the Editor:

Oakland very often now, but about 40 years ago my family and I spent a lot of time there. We camped at Swallow Falls and went into Oakland to shop. We still have fond memories of those days. We still visit Oakland several times each year.

On Wednesday the 19th we passed through there and noticed the changes since our last visit. I found a copy of your paper in one of the stores and bought it, even though it was last week's paper (issue #33), just to read about the changes. To me most of these have taken away from the charm of the town. I found the new businesses do not have the personal contact that had once been a drawing card.

In reading the article about the Oakland bypass, I felt very sad for the town and its residents. The bypass will do only harm to the town. Traffic will be more confused, business will lose money, people who live in nice sound homes will be forced to move and likely into some of the poorly constructed buildings that are built today, crime will increase, and taxes will go up. But if the so-called elected officials have decided to build the bypass, it will certainly be built. No one will ever know the real cost in dollars; they will know only what is told to the public. No one donates more to the political campaign than the road construction companies.

My hat is off to Dr. Dona Alvarez and her group for opposing this project.

I know my opinion means nothing since I am not a resident of Oakland. I live in Baltimore County and have seen many of these so-called improvements. At this time there is an untold amount of money being spent on Rt. 695. It will not help the flow of traffic; it will only change the shape of the backups.

Well, you get my point.

Thank you for your paper.

To the Editor:

I note in your columns that the thorny issue of water fluoridation has been raised again. As executive director of the Fluoride Action Network, I would say that our key job has been making available peer-reviewed and published studies to the general public which have been largely hidden from them by government officials promoting fluoridation (see http://www.fluorideaction.net/health). When these studies are read with an open mind this "obsolete practice" will fall under its own weight.

How can any official possibly justify forcing fluoride on people at 100 times the level found in mother's milk with a totally inadequate margin of safety for several serious health concerns, some of which, like osteosarcoma, arthritis and increased hip fractures, are life debilitating and even life shortening? Of special concern is fluoride's impact on the endocrine and central nervous systems. Why mess with kids' brains to save a miniscule amount of tooth decay? Unfortunately, dentists may know a lot about teeth, but they know very little about the rest of the body. They have controlled this debate for far too long.

Across the nation during the last few months over 6,000 people have signed onto an online petition supporting 11 unions, representing over 7,000 professional employees at the U.S. EPA, who are calling for a moratorium on fluoridation until there has been a full Congressional investigation on this matter. Over 15% of the people who have signed this petition are doctors, nurses, dentists, other professionals, and others holding higher degrees. The only sensible way forward is to have both sides testify and be cross-examined under oath. I urge your readers to sign onto this petition at http://www.powalliance.org/petititon.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter (edited version) to Sheriff Dick Sanders and Deputies Pratt and Thomas requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Sirs:

The reason I am writing today is to beseech our county's law enforcement personnel to take seriously not just 911 and 1-911 calls by numerous people. When a person does not feel safe, you are then supposed to respond. Please remember to do so, and quickly.

I have been employed as a professional waterfront rescuer, and I have trained as a river guide, and I can assure that I cannot stand on a beach or sit in a raft and allow too many minutes to go by before I determine if the situation is serious enough for me to risk my life. As a lifeguard, I too have taken an oath to risk my life in order to save another person's or multiple people's lives. I respond to the call, both willingly and without hesitation.

As a writer, I want to share the words of another writer with you. Take these words as food for thought. Chew on them in your spare time and allow yourself to think about what they can mean to you. I already know what they mean to me. The law is not sufficient, and the punishments handed down from the benches are not strong enough. Someone, somewhere needs to get serious about demonstrating to the predators, the stalkers, the harassers that emotional scars are more difficult to remove than bruises and wounds. Someone needs to modify the law to include that pain is not as easy to fix, and that broken hearts cannot be duct-taped.

Therefore, I leave you with these words from the aforementioned writer: If you want to make peace, make war. In some extreme situations, the law is inadequate. To shame the law's inadequacy, it is necessary to act outside of the law, to pursue natural justice. This is not vengeance. Revenge is not a valid move; it is a natural emotional response, not vengeance; punishment.

If the problem is truly a lack of manpower and funding, then our other officers in public positions need to seek the funding that has to be available to strengthen our rights. Please, someone step up and do the job.

Sincerely,
Debra Jean Wolf
Advocate for Rights

P.S. October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. Please remember to support the groups in your communities that provide services to those in need.

To the Editor:

I just learned o plans to move Our Father's House log church in Altamont from its reverent setting to a commercial site at Marsh Mountain.

As someone who has seen generations of my family baptized and married in this church, I am horrified by this decision, a decision that seems to have been made without any public input. It's inconceivable that a historic church can just be picked up and moved at will, co-opted and repackaged to become an attraction, without the consensus or even knowledge of the larger community.

I've felt privileged to be a part of this sanctuary for more than 37 years. Growing up, it was a place where God seemed so accessible, so present in the dark rough-hewn logs held together with white chinking. Sure I've been in many, arguably more impressive churches. But there's something more to be said for the simplicity of a house of worship built by hand by members of the community. The founders were driven by a faith that what they built would endure, would serve generations they would never know.

Whenever I visit the church, childhood memories all mingle with the new generations married and baptized here. Both of my sisters held their weddings here. My daughter and all of my nieces and nephews have been baptized here. We planned another christening this June.

We all keep Aza Stanton prints of the church in our homes as touchstones.

This is just my personal relationship with Our Father's House, but I'm sure it's echoed in the hundreds of people whose lives and faith have been affected by this church. It's a unique structure and part of Garrett County's cultural heritage, something that should be preserved in the gentle grove of evergreens and rhododendrons where it stands, not something to be commodified.

I recognize the arguments that moving the church to the Wisp may bring in more congregants. But a historic church isn't a commodity to be traded, moved to where it might get more business. There are larger issues to be taken into consideration.

I believe that there are enough people interested in preserving this church as it stands, where it stands, to form a Trust to ensure its upkeep if the Episcopal Church is no longer willing to do so.

I hope it's not too late to save the Log Church, to preserve a part of this county's history, before it's turned from sacred to spectacle.

for many means no water. And five roads remained impassable at 4 p.m. yesterday.

"So for the safety of the students, we did decide to close today (Thursday). But we are hoping that we will be open tomorrow. We feel fairly positive that we will," Thomas said.

While the storm created a dangerous situation throughout the county, there were few related injuries and no deaths, according to the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management. Law enforcement agencies were kept busy as the storm pummeled the county.

"Overall everything went well," said Major Gary Berkebile, chief deputy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. He reported that the office was "extremely busy" for about 12 hours on Tuesday, especially from 5 until 10 a.m.

"We literally had calls every few minutes," he said. There were 11 motor vehicle accidents reported, two involved vehicles hitting or being hit by fallen tree limbs. Some were vehicles that were stuck in ditches after trying to drive around fallen limbs, he said.

"The dispatchers did a terrific job," Berkebile said. "They were extremely busy. They received many calls from the public pertaining to just about everything."

The Maryland State Police reported 11 car accidents caused by the storm. In four of those wrecks, there were injuries or serious damages to the vehicles. The rest were fender-benders.

Fred Polce, superintendent of roads in the county, said the crews were surprised by the intensity of the storm, but that the materials were there to tackle it.

"We've had crews on around the clock," Polce said, noting that the downed lines and trees were the worst problems of the storm. "Several roads were only one lane for a while, until we could get there to move the trees out of the way."

Almost all the roads are passable as of today, he said. Polce reported that the crews will continue to work around the clock until all the roads are clear, and that he hopes to return everyone to regular daytime shifts by Monday.

"The crews have done an excellent job," Polce said.

Both Polce and Staggers said that the storm hit the entire county equally. No area of the county was spared the brunt of the storm, with about 11 inches of snow recorded at both the northern and southern areas, and power outages spanning the entire county.

Staggers asked that residents continue to be patient as the lines are repaired.

"We had initially hoped to have everyone back in service by Friday afternoon. But to be realistic, it may be as late as Saturday afternoon for some," Staggers said. He noted that the crews work in 16-hour shifts, starting at about 5:30 a.m. Other crews work overnight to respond to emergencies, but repairs cannot be safely made in the dark.

"We're working as hard as we can to get everything restored as quickly as possi-

WINTER FELL

Winter did fall. In stories you read, "...and night fell." Well, it was winter this time, all at once. What a shock, this sudden crash into the next season without so much as a how-do-you-do. Shoot, some of the leaves haven't even changed from green yet, which by itself is weird. I used to read a little book to my boys — Alex, Rob, and Michael — about a rabbit who wakes up in the morning ready to take a swim. He goes outside to find that it's too chilly to swim, so he decides to play in the sandbox. It's too windy, so he moves on to something else. As it turns out, he is sled-riding by nightfall because of the day's rapidly changing weather. Ho, ho, ho, my kids would say, that's silly. Yes, well, two of my three kids wore shorts to school on Monday. By the time they got off the bus in the afternoon, snow was flying. And of course, as we all know, it didn't stop for quite some time.

My kids are all involved in the Mountaintop Soccer Association. All season long, we parents have gushed about the amazing weather — bright sunny days with hardly any rain, agreeable temperatures, no sleet, very little mud, and so on. Well, we have playoffs this week, and we are paying for our bragging. There were two matches on Monday night, one U-15 and one U-12 (all three of my boys were involved, although Michael has a broken finger from a previous match and happily sat out, per doctor's orders). The snow was falling fast and heavy when the first whistles blew, and there was no letting up. The kids wore pants under their soccer shorts, and the leggings quickly became sopping wet, as did everyone and everything else. The ball, frozen and snow-covered, grew heavy as a stone, going about five feet from kicks that should have sent it along 25 feet or more. There were times when it looked as if the kids were kicking around the head of a snowman. Sort of Halloweeny, in a way.

My friend and fellow soccer mom LuAnn said it was surreal, this blizzard, and I agreed. The trees were still laden with their blazing leaves, and there the snow came, piling on top and pushing the limbs down so hard. The air was gray, and the snow seemed to send the sun away early, so the soccer fields were soon dark. The kids played on, the refs reffed on, and we parents, bundled up, stood along the sidelines and yelled for our teams. At first the parents were content to watch from their cars, and the kids were cheered only by flocks of indignant geese, flying past the fields in an urgent search for familiar ground, now so suddenly covered in white. But the parents emerged, especially as the U-12 game's score was tied. Who would have believed it? We ended in a tie, and a 10-minute overtime began. The U-15 game ended with Rob's team losing, and thus ended his career with MSA. He has played since he was 5, and is off to high school next year and will probably be in band. So his last game was certainly memorable, to say the least. And he was able to turn around and watch his brother play through the overtime, in the snow and in the dark. Alex made the sudden-death, winning goal! Very exciting, very fulfilling. Yet, of course, that meant we were not finished with matches, and the rest of the week is not looking great for soccer.

Ah, but we were naïve, boasting about the wonderful weather, back then when it was balmy... on Saturday. Little did we know those few falling leaves were merely making paths for the snowflakes. Oh, Autumn, we hardly knew ye.

The sudden arrival of winter certainly caused problems, too. I wondered if the rest of the country, still transfixed on the hurricane damage down south, had any idea that we were in a pretty scary situation up here late Monday and early Tuesday. The trees were snapping like twigs — and how that makes me ache. I hate to see the trees so damaged. They are already a target around this county, coming down by the truckload for the everlasting love of development. And now even the weather is against them. The falling limbs made playing outside too dangerous for my boys, too, so there we were, no electricity, and no shoving the First-Snow-of-the-Season-crazed children out the door. We had no heat, no light, and no wood for a short time, until my brother Ben and Jim Britton showed up like knights in shining armor bearing firewood. Thankfully, we were only out of electrical power for a relatively short 14 hours. Many are still without power, even today, so I'm not complaining. But boy, this has not been an easy few days.

My husband John was blue because the winter came up on us like a mountain lion out of the brush, and now we are building fires before we have even put away the patio furniture. "The seasons are overlapping too much, too quick," he said. The boys have shorts in their dressers, which forces them to root through the bags of winter clothes still packed away. They spent a good hour dragging out a variety of single mittens and gloves, boots now too small, and snow pants that smelled like mildew, all to finally pile out the door when two things were evident: the trees limbs were not falling so much anymore, and John and I were at our wits' end with our hyper, squealing offspring. They will probably remember this, the year they went sled-riding before trick-or-treating. I hope it warms up for that, just to give us all a reprieve before the next nor'easter descends upon us.

Here's hoping your power is on, your cable is good, and your firewood is stacked high and dry. We are on our way into another Garrett County winter, and by the looks of things, we're on the fast track — the one for the luge. Shiver.

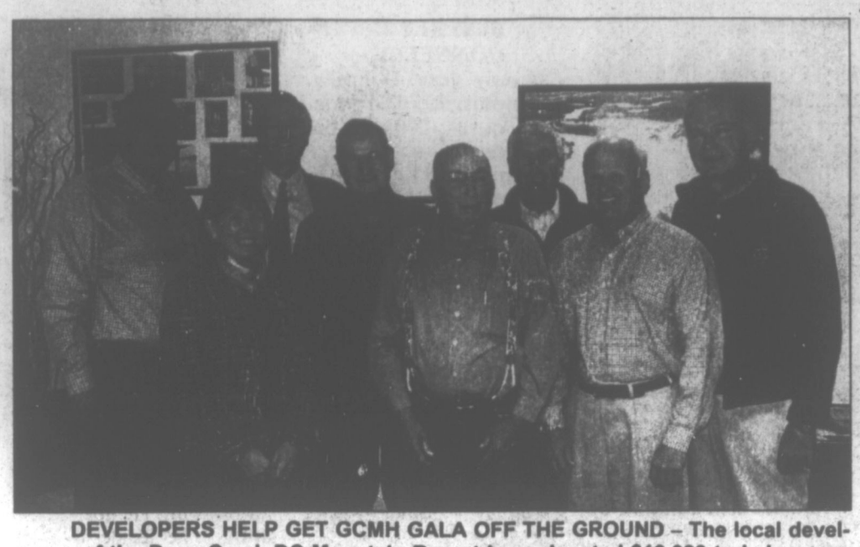
DC Mtn. Resort Group Donates To Hospital Gala

Deep Creek Development, the local developers of the Deep Creek Mountain Resort, recently presented a $10,000 donation to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. The development group became one of the major corporate sponsors for this year's hospital gala, as its silver level sponsorship is the second leading gift of support for the annual fundraiser.

A celebration of the hospital's 55 years of providing quality health care to the community, the gala is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Lodge at Wisp Resort. All proceeds will go toward purchasing a new mammography machine for the hospital.

DC Development has been master planning 2,300 acres of land surrounding the Wisp Resort for the past 10 years. A new Mountain Village and associated residential construction will take place on top of Marsh Mountain. The new village is projected to include restaurants, retail, condominiums, and other tourist service businesses. Additionally, a major downhill ski expansion will open this winter.

For more information on the gala or the GCMH Foundation, persons may contact Kathy Greaser at 301-533-4178 or Debbie Gaither at 301-533-4173.



DEVELOPERS HELP GET GCMH GALA OFF THE GROUND – The local developers of the Deep Creek DC Mountain Resort have donated $10,000 to help sponsor the upcoming Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation Gala, slated for Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Lodge at Wisp Resort. Grantsville Man Charged After Tuesday Crash

A single-vehicle accident near Keyser's Ridge Tuesday night injured three persons, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack. The driver was charged in the 10:49 p.m. mishap.

Robert Campbell III, 23, Grantsville, was traveling north on Garrett Highway when the 1988 Pontiac Grand Prix he was driving hit a slick spot, traveled across the southbound lanes, and into a ditch. Campbell and his passengers, Suzzette Thompson, 28, Cumberland, and a 16-year-old youth, were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Accident Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Campbell was charged with failure to reduce speed in dangerous highway conditions.

and to improving the recruitment and retention of minorities. In 2002, he was elected a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In addition, Kirwan received the Maryland Senate's First Citizen of Maryland Award in 1998.

Melissaratos, who will talk about his regional approach to economic development, was appointed in 2003 to direct the work of DBED in its mission to stimulate and strengthen Maryland's economy. The department's priorities include technology, manufacturing, and minority business development. During his tenure the state's workforce has expanded by over 65,000 jobs.

Striving to realize the Ehrlich administration's promise to create a business-friendly environment in Maryland, the department has engaged in regulatory reform, increased the scope of outreach programs to the small and minority business community, increased the pipeline of international trade and broadened the international commerce scope of the state, further solidified the state's relationship with the federal partners that reside in Maryland, and presided over the nationally recognized success of the Maryland Venture Fund.

With nearly 40 years of experience in business, Melissaratos earned a reputation as a well-respected national business visionary and corporate executive. He is a former Westinghouse Electronics Systems executive, who positioned the company as the national leader in defense electronics manufacturing. He capped his 25 years at the Baltimore Electronics Systems Group (now Northrop Grumman Electronic Systems) as vice president and general manager of the Design Engineering and Manufacturing Operations divisions.

Melissaratos founded Armel Private Equity Investments to provide funding and strategic direction to a group of high technology start-up companies in various fields including information technology, biosciences, sensor systems, and environmental infrastructure technologies.

He is a founding co-chairperson of the Greater Baltimore Technology Council, former vice president of the Maryland Chamber of Commerce, and former chairperson of the Maryland Manufacturing Association. He is a member of the National Advisory Council of the Whiting School of Engineering at Johns Hopkins University, the board of directors of the Technology Council of Maryland and the Emerging Technology Centers, and he served on the board of visitors of the University of Maryland.

Gerald R. Reams Sr.
September 24, 1922 - October 30, 2004

God looked around His garden
And found an empty place,
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw a tired face.
He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest,
God's garden must be beautiful,
He always takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering,
He knew you were in pain.
He knew that you would never get well on earth again.
He saw the road was getting rough,
And the hills hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace Be Thine"
It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone...
For part of us went with you
The day God called you Home.

We miss you so much, and love you!
A Loving Husband,
Dad, Grandad & Great-Grandad

NAOMI L. BRUNER

Naomi L. Bruner, 91, Friendsville, died Wednesday, Oct. 19, 2005, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Born April 30, 1914, in Selbysport, she grew up in the Friendsville area, where she met her husband, William Bruner. She played music on the Fairmont radio station and was known then by the name "Roaming Ginger."

In 1955 she moved to Ohio, where she worked in a drug store as a cashier and waitress to support her family. In 1967 she returned to Maryland to care for her mother, who had taken ill. She had remained here until this day living in the homestead of earlier years. She loved singing and playing guitar. Each of her children have fond memories of her singing the old favorite gospels.

Her other pastime was fishing. You could always find her along the stream of Buffalo Creek or sitting on the big rock at Horseshoe Bend, perhaps at Patton's hole, or at the small upper bridge down from the hatchery, taunting the trout with her bait.

The community included her in the prayer chain associated with the Church of the Brethren at Asher Glade. She has been a member there from her childhood and was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Naomi was the daughter of the late William L. and Anna B. (Thomas) Thomas. She was the beloved wife of the late William Herbert Bruner, sister of the late Pansie Inzerillo, the late Inez Herring, brother Zenas Thomas (also deceased), and brother Hobert Thomas living in Ohio. Devoted mother to Emil Duane Bruner of Hawaii, Virginia Elaine Austin of Tucson, Ariz., Analda Ann Koeth of Perry, Ohio, and Awilda Darlene Fike of Friendsville. Naomi was grandmother of 19 and great-grandmother of 14.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Friendsville.

A service was held at Asher Glade Church of the Brethren on Sunday, Oct. 23, with the Rev. Donald Matthews officiating.

Interment was in Asher Glade Cemetery. Food was served by the Ladies of the Asher Glade Church following the service.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

Certain Drugs May Enable Stomach Ulcers
An ulcer is a sore or a hole that forms in the lining of the stomach or small intestine. Approximately one in ten people will suffer from an ulcer. Each year about 10% of sufferers required surgery because of persistent symptoms. Ulcers occur for the first time usually between the ages of 30 and 50. The most common ulcer symptom is a gnawing or burning pain in the abdomen between the breastbone and the navel. The pain often occurs between meals and in the early hours of the morning.
The primary cause of most ulcers is infection with the bacterium Helicobacter pylori (H. pylori). Essentially, the presence of this bacteria drives the stomach to produce abnormally high amounts of acid. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) make the stomach vulnerable to the harmful effects of this acid. NSAIDs such as aspirin, ibuprofen, and naproxen sodium are present in many non-prescription medications used to treat fever, headaches, and minor aches and pains. These, as well as prescription NSAIDs used to treat a variety of arthritic conditions, interfere with the stomach's ability to repair itself. If you have questions on the treatment for Hpylori or NSAIDs in general, ask your local pharmacist.

SUPPORT FOR CINDY'S FUND — Cindy's Fund, established in memory of Cindy Kutchman and used to provide and promote cancer screening, received a $1,000 boost recently from the employees and owners of Sincell Publishing Company, as well as the local Thrivent Financial for Lutherans organization. Sincell Publishing employees Sue McHale and Melodee Hill organized a large yard sale, the proceeds of which were committed to Cindy's Fund. The company added funds to the proceeds making a total donation of $500, which was then matched by Thrivent. Pictured above, from left, are: Sandy Bell, twin sister of Cindy and a Cindy's Fund volunteer; Sue McHale; and Don Sincell. A major fundraising event for Cindy's Fund, called Cindy's Fund-A-Thon, is being held this Sunday, Oct. 30, at Southern High School, featuring entertainment by numerous local organizations, churches, and individuals. It will be from noon to 4 p.m., during which time persons may also telephone in pledges to 301-533-2422 or 301-533-2430. Admission to the event will be donation only.

Three Face NRP Charges For Fishing Violations

A Friendsville man and two juveniles face charges filed by Natural Resources Police after they were apprehended possessing trout over the legal limit last Thursday, Oct. 20.

Wayne Ronald Casteel, 52, and the two juveniles were apprehended after the youths were caught fishing in the Youghiogheny River near Friendsville. The juveniles were allegedly catching the trout and then taking them into town in Casteel's pickup truck. The two juveniles were not in school because they had been suspended for another incident.

Casteel was issued a citation, and the juveniles were referred to Juvenile Services.

The Department of Natural Resources attributed the apprehension to a complaint from a citizen. Illegal hunting and fishing activities can be reported 24 hours a day by calling the agency's "Catch a Poacher" hotline at 1-800-635-6124.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Last Farmers' Market Slated For Saturday

According to the Mountain Fresh Produce Association, the last farmers' market of the season will be held this Saturday, Oct. 29, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Oakland.

"Our vegetable and fruit farmers had a pretty good year in 2005," said Willie Lantz, Extension educator for agriculture and natural resources. "The weather cooperated for the most part, and we had lots of new customers at the markets."

The farmers' markets started June 15, over three weeks earlier than in previous years. Both the Oakland and McHenry markets expanded in the number of vendors and the customer base in 2005, according to the association.

Despite the snow earlier this week, items expected to be at the market Saturday include winter squash, pumpkins, and many types of peppers and gourds.

"We'd like to thank all our customers for a great season," said Betty Bolyard, vendor and Mtn. Fresh board member. "It is such a joy to have customers who are happy to see what we have grown at the farm each week."

The Mountain Fresh Produce Association hosts producer-only farmers' markets. For more information, persons may visit online at MountainFresh.org or call 301-334-6960.

Foundation Asks State To Commit Funding For Farm Preservation

by Mary Ellen Slayter
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The Chesapeake Bay Foundation presented the General Assembly with its legislative wish list Tuesday, calling for the state to commit $100 million a year to preserve farmland and make agriculture more environmentally friendly.

Kim Coble, Maryland executive director for the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, outlined the group's requests at a meeting of the Agricultural Stewardship Commission. She described the open-ended budget requests as "appropriate," and said they were based on a consensus of agriculture and environmental experts around the state.

"While many farmers have already taken steps to reduce pollution and many more are willing, there is a significant gap between current funding and what is needed to meet 2010 goals" for reducing pollution of the state's waterways, the foundation said in a written fact sheet accompanying the presentation.

Delegate Maggie McIntosh, D-Baltimore, called the Chesapeake Bay Foundation's requests "aggressive, but doable," and said she was optimistic that the General Assembly would be able to get some of them through. McIntosh is co-chair of the Agricultural Stewardship Commission, an advisory board created by the General Assembly in April to come up with ways to protect the bay from harmful effects of farming without hurting the farmers themselves.

The foundation's requests for the fiscal 2007 budget include:

•$14 million for cover crops, which are planted in the off-season and can reduce nutrient runoff and soil erosion. The foundation says that sum would ensure that approximately 300,000 acres of cover crops are planted as part of the existing cover crop program managed by Maryland Department of Agriculture.

•$8 million for alternative crops, such as switchgrass and hull-less barley, which can be used as biofuels. The funds would provide for research and development.

•$30 million for buffers and wetlands, which can absorb nitrogen pollution and help slow runoff before it hits streams.

•$35 million for manure management. Chesapeake Bay Foundation recommends that up to $5 million of these funds be directed toward innovative and alternative manure management practices.

•$13 million for technical assistance, outreach, and education. The foundation recommends increasing the staff of state agencies and local conservation districts. In particular, the foundation requested that Maryland target at least $3 million to the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension.

•$20 million for farmland preservation. Encroaching development was frequently cited as the biggest threat to agriculture in the listening sessions sponsored by the Maryland Department of Agriculture this past year.

38th Annual Banjo, Fiddle, Mandolin Championships Deemed Successful

The 38th annual Official Maryland State Banjo, Fiddle, and Mandolin Championships, presented by the Dove Center and sponsored by State Farm Insurance and Rob Michael, were held at the Southern High School gymnasium on Friday, Oct. 14, and Saturday, Oct. 15.

"This year's championships were better than ever," said a Dove Center spokesperson.

Contestants from four states participated in this long-established Autumn Glory event. The contests were emceed by Rob Smith and sound production was provided by Data Sound. Miss Maryland 2005, Rachel Ellsworth, was present both evenings.

On display was information regarding domestic violence and sexual assault prevention, counseling, and victim assistance.

"As these championships acted as a fundraiser for the Dove Center – Garrett County's Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Center – it was important that audience members and participants were given the opportunity to learn about domestic violence and sexual assault issues, as well as about the services provided by the agency they were supporting," said the spokesperson.

Friday night's banjo championship was attended by a sell-out crowd. The evening's professional entertainment was provided by Ben "Cooter" Jones from The Dukes of Hazzard television show and Cooter's Garage Band. Jones also displayed many pieces of memorabilia from his days on The Dukes of Hazzard, including the famous car, "The General Lee." Also on display was Sheriff Roscoe P. Coltrain's police car.

"Both automobiles provided great enjoyment to fans and onlookers," said the spokesperson.

Along with the professional entertainment, there were many memorable banjo performances by contestants of all ages. Judging divisions for the banjo championship were Pee-Wee (ages 16 years and younger), Youth (17 to 35 years old), Junior (36 to 59 years old), and Senior (age 60 plus). Cash prizes for first, second, and third places in each age division were awarded by judges from varying backgrounds.

Judges for the banjo championship as well as for the fiddle and mandolin championships were Larry W. Cooper of Harman, W.Va.; Tom Woods of Cumberland; and Kathy Rohrbaugh of Fisher, W.Va. Stan Merritt of Purgitsville, W.Va., served as the official score tabulator, and Jack Turney of Oakland served as the official timing judge.

The winning banjo competitors are listed by category and place as follows:

Pee-Wee: 1. Kathleen Myers 2. Luke Craver.

Youth: 1. Brandon Meek 2. Shawn Craver.

Junior: 1. J.R. Kepplinger 2. Norman Strump 3. Greg Grimm.

Senior: 1. Robert McCann 2. Ken White 3. Jack Crites.

The annual award for Best "Old Time" Banjo Player was won this year by Shawn Craver of Lancaster, Pa.

"This category recalls the true roots of the music celebrated at this event and showcases the need to pass on the historic techniques and melodies to new generations," the spokesperson said.

"Saturday's events were no less exciting than the banjo championships," she added. "For many, one of the most moving events on Saturday night was the heartfelt and personal presentation of her own experiences with domestic violence by Judge Kathy Rohrbaugh."

Rohrbaugh explained some of the abuses she endured and how these experiences affected her life. She also spoke of the importance of victims seeking help and exiting their abusive life situations.

"This year's fiddle and mandolin championships showcased one of the strongest and largest Autumn Glory competitions ever," said the spokesperson.

FSU Cultural Events Series Slates Children's Letters To God

The Cultural Events Series at Frostburg State University will present the musical Children's Letters to God on Tuesday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall.

"Dear God, Are you really invisible or is that just a trick?". "Dear God, How come you did all the miracles in the old days and you don't do any now?" "Dear God, It's great the way you always get the stars in the right places."

Taken directly from the letters of young people, these are just some of the hard-hitting questions and tell-it-like-it-is revelations that make up Children's Letters to God, the musical inspired by the international best-selling book.

"Humorous and serious, wise and naïve, simple and complex, Children's Letters to [illegible] production about the innocent joys of growing up," said the New York Daily News.

Stuart Hample, the creator of the best-selling book, has adapted his work from the page to the stage with music by David Evans ("Bird of Paradise") and lyrics by Douglas J. Cohen ("No Way to Treat a Lady"). When Children's Letters to God opened off-Broadway at the Lamb's Theatre, critics called the show "an endearing, kid-friendly musical."

This show is presented in partnership with FSU's United Campus Ministry and Catholic Campus Ministry and is sponsored by Best Western – The Braddock, Belt Construction, Beitzel Corporation, Howell Trucking, and The Republican newspaper.

To purchase tickets or obtain more information, one may call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit on-line at ces.frostburg.edu.

In Loving Memory of My Grandma
Mary Jane Savage
who passed away Oct. 23, 1993

My grandma could do anything,
(Or so I always thought)
It was unbelievable what she could do with some seeds.
Her garden would be full and with very little weeds.
Her violets always had a special window spot,
And blooms spilled from every pot.

From nothing much she could make dinner.
It'd taste like the finest fare,
I'm sure trying to do as much.

Lauren remembers her "yummy oats" to this day,
(Even though I make them the same way.)

She always took time
To lend a patient ear.
I wish I had her now,
To soothe my grown-up years.

I ask for a portion now,
A smidgen, just a tad,
Of patience, love and wisdom like
The kind my grandma had.

Grandma always liked to go out to eat.
And I am proud to say,
That here at Annie's, she'd always have a seat.

Lovingly missed and remembered by,
Granddaughter Lisa and Great Granddaughter Lauren

Huskies Chow Down On Cougars In 41-0 Shutout

The latest round in sport's timeless battle of the wet noses went to the big dogs of Northern High School Friday night, as the Huskies hounded the Pendleton Cougars in a 41-0 blowout in Franklin, W.Va. The Huskies (5-2) ran roughshod over their feline hosts, averaging 10 yards a carry as they racked up 479 yards on the ground.

"It felt good to get a big win after coming off a tough loss to Beall last week," Northern coach Phil Carr said. "We hope it's the kind of victory that gets us back on the right track as the chase for playoff spots heats up."

The Huskies opened inauspiciously, as their first possession ended when they turned the ball over on downs, but on its second possession NHS mounted a scoring drive. The march ended when halfback Blair Silbaugh gathered in a five-yard scoring pass from quarterback Casey Kamp at the 6:20 mark of the first quarter.

Pendleton showed some life on both of its subsequent possessions, as the Cougar offense made it all the way into the red zone twice before being turned away by a stalwart Northern defense.

The first of those two Cougar marches was quelled when NHS junior defensive tackle Nick Ferrell tipped a pass attempt by dangerous Pendleton quarterback Tom Ruddle, and the ball was alertly picked out of the air by sophomore nose guard Matt Mason, who returned the interception 21 yards to the Huskies' 35 yard line.

Northern soon turned pickoff into points when halfback Tyler Warn carried the ball in from 10 yards out with 2:55 remaining in the quarter. Silbaugh's two-point conversion run put Northern up 14-0.

The Cougar offense went right back to work, marching down the field to perch on the doorstep to the end zone with a first-and-goal from the Huskies' two-yard line. At that point the Huskies' "Grave Digger" defense stiffened, holding Pendleton to no gain on an off-tackle run. On the next play the Huskies took advantage of a Cougar miscue when Yoder, playing at linebacker, jumped on the ball during a botched center-quarterback exchange, recovering the pigskin on the five.

Northern went on a long 11-play scoring drive from there that ended at the 5:34 mark when Warn scored on an eight-yard carry. Senior Corey Yoder kicked the point-after attempt.

After NHS's defense forced the Cougars to punt, the Husky offense took possession with 3:05 showing on the clock and just one time out, embarking on what Coach Carr described as their "best drive of the year." The Huskies ran the ball 11 straight plays before calling its final time out with 21 seconds remaining. Carr then called for a pass play, and the air attack paid off with a 13-yard touchdown pass from Kamp to Warn, and Corey Carr's two-point conversion run gave NHS a 29-0 halftime.

The only scoring in the second half came in the third quarter. Carr scored on a three-yard run and reserve fullback Matt Mason, on a 24-yard dash on his only carry of the game.

Warn and Corey Carr each had 100-yard nights, Warn finishing with 15 carries and 146 yards to go with his three touchdowns, and Carr had 12 carries for 113 yards. Kamp, who had two touchdown passes, gained 79 yards rushing on eight carries.

Carr and Corey Yoder led the Northern defense in the shutout. Carr had a team-high 11 tackles, and Yoder eight tackles and a fumble recovery. Mason, free safety Kamp, and freshman linebacker Randy Wiley had interceptions as the Grave Digger defense held Ruddle to 145 yards passing on 11 completions in 20 attempts.

Northern will try to keep the momentum going during the upcoming NHS Homecoming game, slated for 7 p.m. tomorrow night in Accident. The game may be postponed to either Saturday or Monday, and persons can either call the school today or tomorrow, or listen to the local radio news for updates.

"We haven't had a good week of practice because of the weather," Coach Carr said. "It's a good thing that this is one of the few times on our schedule that we outsize an opponent along the line of scrimmage."

Westmar (1-5) is coming off a loss last week to Pius X of the Philadelphia area. The Wildcats' one win of the season was over Turkeyfoot.

Northern shouldn't be seeing anything new against Westmar, as the squad runs an offense similar to Pendleton's. "They're going to try to spread the field with four or five receivers," Carr said.

Westmar's main offensive firepower comes from its backfield, where sophomore quarterback Jeremy Shingler (5-8, 155) draws on his accurate arm and mobile footwork. "Shingler can run the option out of a shotgun formation, keeping his fullback with him as the option back," observed the NHS skipper. 2004 All-Area Honorable Mention recipient Justin Keller (5-9, 200) holds down that fullback spot. Senior Alex Metz (5-8, 150) and sophomore speedster Adam Kolberg (5-5, 125) are both favorite passing targets at split end.

The Wildcats typically run a 5-3 defensive scheme, shifting into a blitzing 6-2 attack at times. Shingler and Keller anchor the defense in the linebacking corps.

"Westmar may be small, and they only have a 24-player roster, but they play tough and with a lot of determination," Carr stated. "This won't be a pushover game by any means."

Rams Play Evenly With Falcons, But Edged 9-6

In one of the most evenly played games in the area this season, the Southern High Rams came up a few points short in last Friday's contest against visiting Frankfort, as Cody Popluhar kicked a 25-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to break a 6-6 tie and give the Falcons a 9-6 victory.

The Rams, who fell to 3-4 with the loss, finished with more first downs and more yards of total offense, but also more lost fumbles in the cold, rainy conditions, dropping the ball four times and losing possession of it on three of those occasions. Two of those fumbles occurred in the fourth quarter well inside the Falcons' red zone.

The Rams took a 6-0 lead when senior quarterback Andrew VanBogelen capped a 16-play drive with a 16-yard touchdown run with 4:39 left in the quarter. The drive featured many carries by Bret DeWitt. The run for the conversion was stopped short.

The Falcons nearly tied the score or took the lead midway through the second period when they went on a 16-play drive of their own that started at their 26-yard line. But a goal-line stand by the Rams halted the effort at the one-yard line with 5:14 remaining in the half.

Southern was only able to move the ball out to the 15-yard line before having to punt it away, and on the ensuing drive Frankfort did reach pay dirt, as Jason Blackburn scored on a 15-yard carry with 1:26 left in the second quarter. The failed conversion kick left the score tied at 6-6.

The Rams kicked off to Frankfort to start the second half, but a Falcon fumble gave Southern possession at the Frankfort 44-yard line. Eight plays later, the Rams had the ball inside the five-yard line, but were then hit with a 15-yard penalty. The Southern offense ultimately came up empty when VanBogelen missed on a 36-yard field goal attempt with 2:51 left in the third quarter.

A pair of fumbles in the fourth quarter took away two more Ram scoring opportunities. The first occurred at the Falcons' nine-yard line at the 11:55 mark. Frankfort fumbled the ball back to the Rams at the seven-yard line, but then the Southern ball carrier lost the handle again, giving the ball right back to the Falcons at the 15 with 10:23 to play.

Frankfort then put together what would be the winning drive, advancing to the Ram 15-yard line, from which Popluhar booted his 25-yard field goal at the 8:44 mark.

The Frankfort defense held the Rams scoreless the rest of the game.

DeWitt finished with 95 yards rushing on 22 carries to pace Southern's 182-yard ground game, while Jason Yoder had a game-high 109 yards on 21 carries to lead the Falcon offense.

VanBogelen spearheaded the Southern defense with nine tackles.

The win improved the Falcons' record to 5-4.

Despite the closeness of the contest, Ram coach Fred Gregg was disappointed with his team's effort.

"We just didn't play as well as we did the previous two weeks," he said. "We missed some key assignments on the line, and we did not do a good job of taking care of the football."

Gregg said that he does not use the poor weather conditions as an excuse for his team's sub-par performance.

Rams Play

"This is Garrett County, where we have experience playing in all kinds of weather," he said. "We were just careless."

A careless effort this Friday night by the Rams would likely result in another defeat, as they will host a 5-2 Fort Hill team that is currently stinging from a loss to Martinsburg, one of the top-ranked teams in West Virginia. The Sentinels' only other defeat was at the hands of Jefferson, another West Virginia ranked squad.

The wing-T has become a tradition at Fort Hill, and this season is no exception, with whoever happens to be running from the fullback position being a frequent ball carrier.

The two who are alternating at the fullback spot right now are junior Ryan Foutz (6-1, 196) and senior Dustin Rice (6-1, 173), both of whom are strong runners.

According to Gregg, the Sentinels have been "pretty banged up" in recent weeks, with starting senior quarterback Jeff Lee forced to the sidelines with injury for the past few weeks. However, Gregg said he has heard that Lee is healthy again and may play this week.

"He's a very good all-around quarterback," he said, "but junior Rich Shook (5-11, 184) has stepped in and has done a nice job for them as well."

While the Sentinels prefer to keep the ball on the ground and pound away, Gregg said that they do occasionally go to the air, with the favorite receiver being senior A.T. Zembower (5-8, 166).

"Besides having some quality backs, they also have a good line up front," Gregg said.

The Sentinels' 6-2 defensive unit is led by senior linebacker Colby Logsdon (5-10, 177) and a pair of strong ends in Foutz and senior Cody Steckman (6-0, 176).

Gregg said that preparation for the Sentinels this week has been severely hampered by the weather conditions.

"We had no practice Tuesday, and will probably have only about two-thirds of our players there tonight (Wednesday) for an indoor practice," said Gregg. "That really makes it tough, but that's the hand we've been dealt, and we'll make the best of it."

Gregg did say that his team is in good physical health and should be at full strength Friday night.

The game may be postponed because of wet field conditions, with Saturday evening being the choice alternate date. Gregg said that a final decision on that would probably not be made until about noon Friday.

It will also be Senior Night at the SHS athletic field, with senior players, cheerleaders, and band members, plus parents, all being recognized in a pregame ceremony. The kickoff for the game is set for 7 p.m.

Ram Netters Sweep Through Final Week Over 'Cats, NHS

The Southern High School volleyball team will be entering the 1A West Region playoffs on a high note next week after disposing of the last two opponents on their regular season schedule with three-game sweeps in recent action. The Rams downed Westmar on Monday and Northern (5-10) last night to post a 12-2 mark for the regular campaign.

Both Southern and Northern await the results of the playoff drawing, which will take place Monday. At this point SHS arch-rival Fort Hill and Boonesboro both have one loss in the regular season, Southern has two losses, and Williamsport lost three times.

SHS opened the week by cruising past the Wildcats in 25-13, 25-15, and 25-12 game victories.

Senior Chelsea Wassell paced the Rams with a team-high 15 points, and three aces, and junior Natalie Rohrbaugh added 19 assists and 11 kills. Senior Randi Bennett netted nine kills, eight points, and three aces.

SHS's junior varsity cruised to victory behind sophomore Alex Barnard's 15 points, seven aces and three assists, while Shayna Sweitzer had five kills, five points, and two aces, and Sierra Wassell contributed six points with two aces.

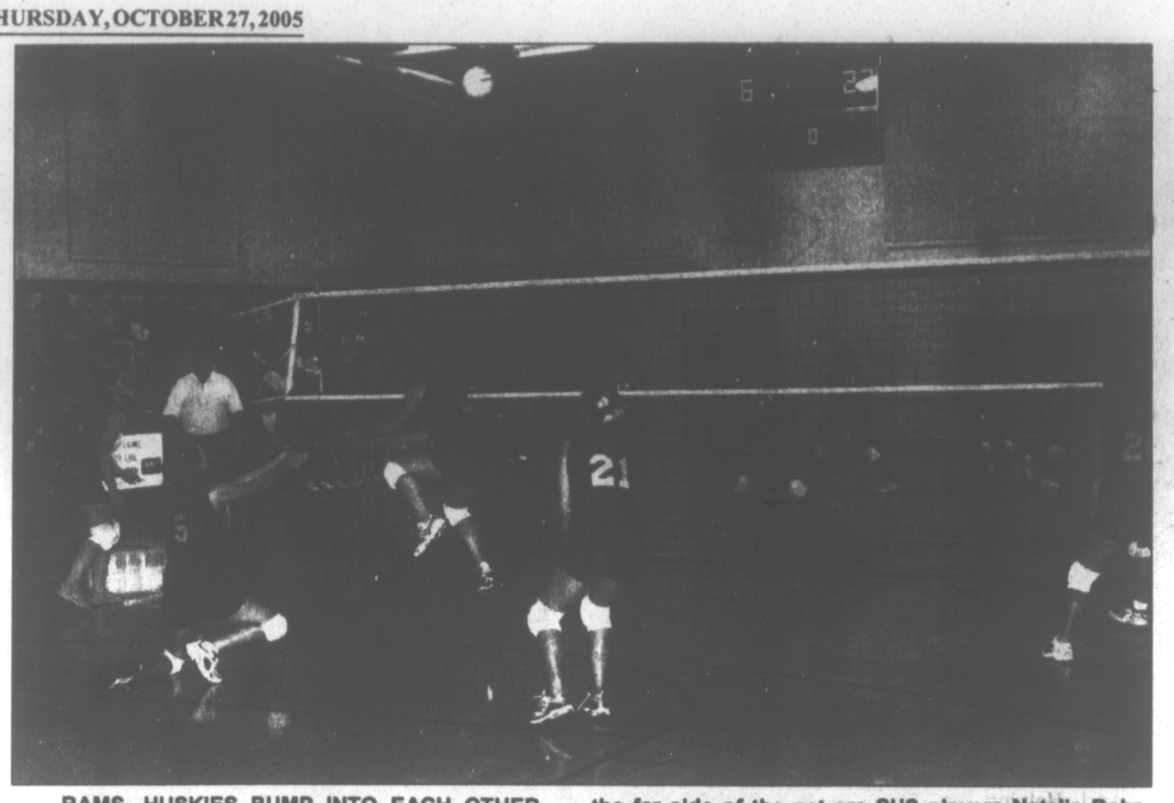
The Rams closed their regular season with a by thumping Northern last night 25-5, 25-6, and 25-16.

Junior Sarah Stephens recorded 17 service points, three aces, and eight kills for Southern, while Bennett had 13 points, three aces, and five kills. Wassell turned in eight kills, and Rohrbaugh and junior Adrienne Yoder put together 21 assists.

Husky junior Jackie Rodeheaver netted four attacks, two kills, and two points, and senior Tara Devine tallied four kills.

SHS's jayvees capped their perfect campaign by reeling off a 2-1 win. The Rams took the first game 25-8, NHS rebounded to take the second 25-20, and Southern clinched the match with a 15-0 win in the tiebreaker.

Barnard was a one-woman wrecking crew with 34 service points – including all 15 points of the third game – along with seven aces, four assists, and three kills. Sweitzer contributed four points, three assists, and two kills. Nicole Opel recorded 11 points and two attacks for the Huskies.



RAMS, HUSKIES BUMP INTO EACH OTHER – The Southern and Northern high school volleyball squads met last night in Accident, where both teams closed out their regular seasons. SHS netted a 3-0 sweep over the Huskies as the Rams improved to 12-2 while the Huskies fell to 5-10. Northern's Jessica Fratz (#12) is pictured above on the near side of the net just after she bumped the ball. Also on the Northern side, from the left, are Leah Biser (#8), Angie Umbel (#5), Tara Devine (#21), and Lindsay Wolf (#26). Lander Captures Singles, Doubles Titles For E-Town

Local resident Heather Lander capped a superb run through the fall tennis season at Elizabethtown College this week by taking the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference (MASCAC) championships in fifth-seed singles and third-seed doubles.

Lander, who had a bye in the first round, won 8-3 in the second round, 6-0, 6-2 in the semifinals, and defeated second-seeded Jennel Yelito of Moravian College 6-2, 6-1 in the championship match. Lander was top seed going into singles competition.

In doubles play, Lander and Elizabethtown teammate Kristy Trimbey rolled through the early stages third seed relatively unscathed. The Blue Jay pair opened with an 8-3 first round victory, and took their semifinal match 8-2. The championship match was a harder fought battle, and Lander/Trimbey prevailed over a Moravian tandem by an 8-6 margin.

Elizabethtown will resume its 2005-06 season in March with a tournament in Hilton Head, S.C. The Blue Jays' current dual match record stands at 11-2.

Lander is a 2003 graduate of Northern High School.

Huskies' Unbeaten Streak Finally Halted By #2 Beall

All good things must come to an end, or so goes the saying, and this was certainly the experience of the Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team following a make-up match with host Beall at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland on Saturday.

The Huskies went to Cumberland as the area's #1 ranked team, sporting a perfect 12-0 overall record and an 8-0 Western Maryland Interscholastic League mark, only to be shredded by Beall, the area's #2 ranked squad, 5-0.

The Mountaineers had a modest 3-4 record back on Sept. 24, but have now won seven straight matches, with five of those victori. being shutouts. Saturday's blanking of the Huskies upped Beall's seven-match goal advantage to 22-2.

Matt Fiorita led Beall's offensive charge, finishing the evening with a hat trick and an assist.

His first goal was the first of the match, scored five minutes into the contest off an assist by Adam Eshleman.

Austin Thomas made it 2-0 with a goal at the 19:35 mark off a feed by Fiorita, and a little over four minutes later, Fiorita recorded his second goal, this time unassisted to give the Mountaineers a 3-0 lead at intermission.

Fiorita gained his hat trick just over two minutes into the second half, scoring off a pass from Josh Bittner.

The final goal was put on the board by Corey Greig off an assist by Tommy Norris with 29:19 left in the match.

Earning six saves in goal for Beall was Bittner, while Eric Wood stopped 11 of the Mountaineers' attempts, and teammate Zack Trautwein turned away two.

The Mountaineers finish their regular season with a 10-4 overall mark and an 8-2 record in the WMIL.

The Northern junior varsity was also shut out in the first match, 2-0, with Pat Brewer and Shawn Cutter each scoring a goal for the Beall jayvees.

The Northern varsity was slated to conclude its regular-season schedule Tuesday with a match back at Greenway Avenue Stadium against Fort Hill, but this week's snow storm forced its cancellation. Without playing that match, the Huskies will automatically win the WMIL title.

Following Monday's draw for the Class 1A West Region playoffs, Northern, having been awarded a bye, is scheduled to play the winner of the Southern/Clear Spring match, slated for this Friday at Clear Spring.

Northern Girls Drop Three, But Force Two To Overtime

The varsity girls' soccer team of Northern High School dropped three matches this past week, but went into overtime in two of those contests. After being shut out last Thursday by visiting Beall, 4-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest, the Huskies were edged by host Bishop Walsh on Saturday, 5-4, in overtime, and fell in overtime again last night to host Fort Hill in another WMIL clash, 3-2.

Brooke Africa scored the first two goals for Beall last Thursday, both unassisted and both in the first half. Another unassisted goal by Kierstin Stevenson with about 10 minutes left in the first half gave the Mountaineers a 3-0 lead at intermission.

Adding an insurance goal for Beall about 10 minutes into the second half, also unassisted, was Corrie Ferree.

The Mountaineers finished with a 21-14 advantage in shots and a 7-1 lead in corner kicks. Kasie Fratz recorded 11 saves for Northern, and Jenna Delaney had nine in getting the shutout.

The Northern junior varsity handed the Beall jayvees a 4-0 defeat in the first match, with Amanda Brenneman getting a hat trick off three assists from Kara Savage. Amber Kling also had an unassisted goal. Justin Harvey finished with five saves for the NHS jayvees.

After spotting Bishop Walsh a 3-1 lead in Saturday's match, the varsity Huskies came roaring back with three straight goals, all scored within a span of 3½ minutes late in the half, to take a 4-3 lead.

But a goal by BW's Kara Miller, the only one of the entire second half, knotted the score at 4-4 and sent the match into the overtime period. Miller would ultimately also score the winning goal in sudden death to give the Spartans the win.

Lydia Hughes of Bishop Walsh was the first to put the goal in the net, scoring unassisted with 26 minutes left in the first half.

Northern's Sarah Voelkel responded just under three minutes later with an unassisted goal to give the match its first tie.

The home team took its 3-1 lead with a goal by Charissa Kelley off a feed by Miller at the 17:34 mark, and one by Mary Witmer off a pass by Megan Finan with 15 minutes left in the half.

Meghan Voelkel initiated the Huskies' 3½-minute, three-goal streak with a score at the 10:00 mark, unassisted, followed by two unassisted goals by Sarah Voelkel, one with 8:00 left and the second with 6:30 remaining. Her two goals gave her a hat trick for the match and the Huskies their 4-3 edge.

Miller got her tying goal, unassisted, with 21 minutes remaining in the second half, and her winning goal with just one minute left in the 10-minute overtime period.

The Huskies had a 21-12 lead in shots, while the Spartans, who improved

SHS Girls Fall To Sentinels; Will Face Beall In Playoffs

Two goals and an assist by Kelsey Parker was just enough for the Fort Hill girls' soccer team to hand the visiting Southern Rams a 3-2 Western Maryland Interscholastic League defeat last Thursday at Greenway Avenue Stadium, dropping the Rams' overall record to 3-10 and their WMIL mark to 2-7.

Parker put the Sentinels up 1-0 with an unassisted goal at the 29:33 mark of the first half.

Southern's Lauren Neville knotted the score at 1-1 when she hit an unassisted goal with 16:41 to play in the first half.

A goal by Crystal Zinn off a feed by Parker 3:16 before intermission gave the Sentinels the lead for good.

Parker's second goal, recorded at the 23:29 mark of the second half off a feed by Marie Perrin, stretched Fort Hill's lead to 3-1.

The Rams did not quit, as Liz Callis put the ball in the net unassisted just 24 seconds later to make it 3-2. But that would be the final goal of the night.

The Rams trailed in shots by an 18-10 margin. Each team finished with four corner kicks.

Jessica Petrella was credited with 10 saves in goal for the Rams, and Rebecca Zajdel turned away seven of Southern's shots.

The win improved the Sentinels' overall record to 4-8, and it was their first WMIL win in eight league matches.

The Southern junior varsity battled the Fort Hill jayvees to a 2-2 tie in the preliminary match. Scoring for the Rams were Sara Hanlin and Krista Hollingsworth. Amanda Meneghini and Ariel Brown recorded goals for the jayvee Sentinels.

The varsity Rams were to have concluded their regular season with a match at Westmar Tuesday, but foul weather conditions forced its cancellation. They are now slated to face Beall in the quarterfinals of the Class 1A West Region playoffs next Tuesday. That match will be played at Mt. Savage.

Southern's Sean McCreery had a hat trick and one assist in the rout, while teammate James Naylor recorded two goals and an assist.

Naylor opened the scoring with just 1:19 into the match, taking a feed from Ethan Chorpenning and firing the ball past the Wildcat keeper.

The Oct. 18 meeting of the Aurora Community Outreach and Education Service (CEOS) was held in the Aurora Community Building, with president Opal Myers presiding. Fourteen members were in attendance, and devotions were presented by Mary Jane Hanline using the theme "Life is So Interesting."

The program, "Navigating Family and Service," was discussed by Dean Sisler. She brought out the ideas that, regarding a balance of family, work, and self, this is a difficult task. Finding time for everything is not always even possible, she said.

All reports are due by Oct. 31, except for the Issues Committee's which are due next month.

Committee chairpersons were selected for next year. Wilda Harsh will continue on the Family Committee, Ressie Conrad as Marketing/Membership chair, and Dean Sisler will chair Continuing Education.

These include Carquest Auto Parks, NAPA, Fisher Auto Parts, Advance Auto Parts, Garrett Mine Supply, Thomas Firestone, Cook brothers, Code-3 Communications, Shaffer Auto Body, Aurora Hauling and Snow Removal, Cathedral Equipment, Cooper Logging, Allegheny Welding, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Oakland Police Department, Larry Rodeheaver, Buzz Arnold, and, pictured below, Dallas Flesher, a resident of Aurora, who donated his time and skills to custom-build a brush guard for the front of the vehicle. Oakland Officials Urging Patience In Clean-Up

The town of Oakland street maintenance staff is urging residents to be patient as attempts are made to clean up debris caused by the snow storm this week.

"We are trying our best to get the debris cleaned up and the trees chipped," said Jay Moyer of the town council. He asked that residents try to move the fallen trees and limbs to the roadside. Town workers are working in as orderly a fashion as possible to clean up the mess, Moyer said.

"We worked all day Wednesday trying to chip trees, and we were only able to finish Pennington Street and part of Second," Moyer said. "So this is going to be a fairly long process, and we need for folks to understand that we are doing the best we can."

The chipper can take trees that are less than six inches in diameter, he said. Larger logs will have to be worked on later.

The limbs do not have to be cut and/or bundled, Moyer said. They need only to be dragged to the street so that crews can get to them.

Youth who are seeking volunteer service hours are encouraged to come by the town hall in Oakland and lend their help in moving the brush and trees out of the yards of elderly people or those otherwise unable to do so.

A WHOLE HOST OF PROBLEMS was wrought by the early blizzard this week, as hundreds of trees crashed to the ground under the weight of their own leaves laden with snow. Not only were main lines and transformers ripped down, but cable, electric, and telephone lines going into private homes were also torn out. Allegheny Power crews are working hard to restore electricity service to customers, with 16,000 now back on and about 5,800 to go, as of this morning. Nearly every Garrett County resident has work to do now, too, in cleaning up debris and cutting new firewood out of their yards. Many a heart ached Tuesday as favorite trees fell over or lost major limbs. Time to plant some seedlings. Photo by John McEwen.

their record to 5-11, finished with a 4-3 lead in corner kicks. Fratz recorded four saves in goal for the Huskies, while Megan Eversole had five for the Spartans.

Northern rallied again last night against Fort Hill, trailing 2-0 and then coming back to knot the score and send the match into overtime.

Kelsey Parker put the home team up 1-0 when she scored off a feed by Cassie Donahue just over two minutes into the match.

Then Donahue doubled the Sentinels' lead with an unassisted goal at the 21:28 mark.

Less than 1½ minutes later, the Huskies cut the lead in half when Ainsley Raley scored off a pass from Sarah Voelkel. The score remained 2-1 the rest of the first half.

The only goal of the second half was scored by Brittany Stein off an assist by Voelkel just 31 seconds after the kickoff. The remaining 39½ minutes of the second half was scoreless defense.

Parker scored the sudden-death match winner for Fort Hill off a feed from Shayna Perry just 1:39 into the 10-minute overtime period.

The Huskies finished with a 15-11 lead in shots, and the Sentinels led in corner kicks, 5-3.

Kasie Fratz recorded four saves in goal for the Huskies, while Rebecca Zajdel had seven for the Sentinels.

It was the second WMIL win of the season for Fort Hill (5-8 overall, 2-8 WMIL).

The Northern girls were left with an overall record of 3-10-1, and a WMIL standing of 2-8.

The junior varsity match ended in a scoreless tie. The NHS jayvees concluded their season with a 4-2-5 record, outscoring their opponents by a 12-4 margin.

"It's been a tough season all the way around," stated varsity coach John Milbourne. "The competition in the WMIL is fierce, and we lost a lot of close ones.

"But the playoffs begin a brand new season," he said, "so it's all there for us if we want it badly enough."

off an assist by Naylor at the 33:13 mark of the second half.

McCreery completed his hat trick with a goal off a pass by Mike Edwards with 16:45 remaining in the match, and Naylor connected for his second goal of the night at the 14:45 mark off a feed by Crabtree.

The ninth and final goal of the contest was recorded by Polce with 9:14 remaining off a feed by Chorpenning.

The statistics were much more even than the score, with the Rams finishing with a 27-16 advantage in shots on goal and a 5-4 edge in corner kicks.

Proudfoot recorded eight saves for Southern, while Edwards turned away five of the Wildcats' attempts.

The loss dropped winless Westmar to 0-11 overall and 0-9 in WMIL matches.

A match that was supposed to be played against Westmar was canceled because of weather conditions. The Rams are slated to enter the Class 1A West Region playoffs this Friday with a match at Clear Spring. If they are victorious there, they will face Northern next Tuesday on the Huskies' field.

Friday's match at Clear Spring is to kick off at 7 p.m.

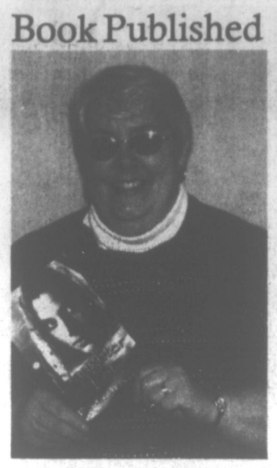
Bonnie Winters Has Biblical Book Published



Bonnie Winters of Oakland recently had her first book published. Daughter of Lot is now available at the Book Mark'et, Emmaus Road, and Gospel Depot. A copy has also been presented to the Ruth Enlow Library.

"There is power in stories. They can make us laugh or cry, feel comforted or afraid. They make our imaginations soar. Everyone has a story to tell, that's why I enjoy being a writer," said Winters. "I get to share people's stories and in the sharing I feel richer, more whole, knowing others feel the same emotions I do."

Winters said that she wanted to be a writer at the age of 12. She said she filled spiral notebooks with silly stories laced with puns. Her first writing experience was in 1973 when she was asked to write the dedication page for The Zionian, her Bible College yearbook.

She married Dan Winters, an Assembly of God pastor. While living in Sweet Valley, Pa., she worked as a proof-reader for a small, weekly newspaper. For a short time, she also wrote a gossip column for the paper.

In 1993, she enrolled in the Binghamton unit of Empire State College in Greene, N.Y., to study research and writing. While living in Gouverner, N.Y., she was hired as a reporter for the Tribune Press, a small, weekly paper. She was later promoted to news editor. Her husband accepted a new pastorate in Indiana, Pa., and they moved again. This is when she started writing the book, Daughter of Lot. It was published by Publish America, located in Frederick.

Daughter of Lot is a Bible novel based on the story of Ruth, the Moabitess. "It was written to encourage all women who have faced the pain of low self-worth, loss of relationships, and hardship, said Winters. "Women need heroines; those women who have walked where we walk and come through their problems victoriously. Ruth became my heroine and I knew I had to share her story with the world."

Winters is currently working on another book, as well as ideas for several others including a devotional book.

She said she hopes to develop a speaking ministry to women's groups and is interested in starting a Christian writer's group.

Her husband is currently the pastor of the Mountain Top Christian Assembly of God, located on Route 135 near Mtn. Lake Park. They have three married children and four grandchildren.

REALTORS AID KATRINA VICTIMS – Garrett County's many realtors have joined fellow real estate professionals from around the country in helping fund the Hurricane Katrina relief effort. The Garrett County Board of Realtors voted to match member contributions up to $5,000, an amount that was quickly met and exceeded, and overall the real estate industry has contributed nearly $12 million in cash donations toward relief efforts over the past month. "Perhaps because those who work in the real estate industry so keenly understand the vast rebuilding that will be required of neighborhoods and professional lives, they have reached out in extraordinary ways to those in need," a board spokesperson said. Pictured, from the left, are GCBR president Fred Washburn, executive officer Barbara Butler, and past president John Macy, with a check the local realtors' organization is sending to the nationwide Realtors Relief Foundation.

Slumping Gordon wins at Martinsville

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Martinsville, Va.

The subplots in Sunday's Subway 500 at Martinsville Speedway stole much of the significance of a sterling on-track performance by the previously slumping Jeff Gordon. His 73rd career win ended a 22-race losing streak and put him within three of tying the late Dale Earnhardt on the career list.

It allowed a measure of closure on the Hendrick Motorsports team tragedy of a year ago and proved the prowess of Gordon's rookie crew chief Steve Letarte.

It also marked the end of NASCAR's visits to a variety of race tracks and signaled the start of a stretch of relatively similar races that will determine the champion of NASCAR's Chase for the Nextel Cup.

NASCAR's version of the "Final Four" begins Sunday at Atlanta Motor Speedway, where the Bass Pro Shops MBNA 500 is the first of four consecutive races on intermediate-size tracks — those from a mile to a little over a mile and a half in length.

Although Gordon was a star again on the half-mile at Martinsville, the action right behind him captured the attention of most of the 72,000 in attendance and set the stage for this week's race and possibly the rest of the season.

Tony Stewart and Jimmie Johnson, the top two drivers in the Chase standings, waged a fender-rubbing run to the finish line with Stewart prevailing to take the runner-up spot in the Subway 500 and a 15-point lead into Atlanta.

Adding some spice was a dust-up on the track between Stewart and fellow Chase contender Greg Biffle, with some insults exchanged afterwards. Biffle, running a lap down, and Stewart, contending for the win, bumped into each other several times in the closing laps, prompting Stewart to call Biffle an "idiot" during post-race interviews.

Biffle, who is now fourth in points, 83 behind Stewart, responded by saying Stewart "has a problem running guys into the fence the second they get a fender on him."

NASCAR

Jeff Gordon, driver of the No. 24 Chevrolet, celebrates after winning the Subway 500 Sunday at Martinsville Speedway.

Johnson also felt he was raced especially hard by Biffle, considering how little he stood to gain at that point. "I was wondering what he was racing for," Johnson said.

Biffle and Ryan Newman, who finished 10th in the race and is third in points, 63 behind Stewart, both lost points to Stewart and Johnson. But they're better off than the rest of the contenders in the 10-driver, 10-race Chase, all of whom are 149 or more points behind Stewart.

Many in the Cup garage feel it's become a two-driver battle between Stewart and Johnson, but neither of them is ready to write off any challengers.

"With four weeks to go, you can't narrow it down yet," Stewart said. "It's too early. As long as everybody is mathematically in it, I don't know how you can count anybody out of it."

Said Johnson: "I still think it's too early to count anybody out. We've just got to live week to week."

After missing the cut for the Chase, Gordon has been out of the spotlight, trying to rebuild his team so it can carry some momentum into next season.

He didn't appear to have a winning car on Sunday until his rookie crew chief Letarte played a pit strategy that called for Gordon to stay on the track while others pitted at Lap 344. For Gordon, the opportunity to restart at the head of the pack was like taking the wheel of a brand-new car.

"We were just phenomenal once we got out front," he said.

Gordon and Letarte said they were pleased to have an opportunity to honor the 10 members of their team who died last October in the crash of a plane en route to the race at Martinsville.

"I think it was definitely on all our minds the whole time we've been here," Gordon said. "I think that there's just no better way for us to remember them than to come out of here with a win."

Martin's optimism fails just like his car's brakes

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Martinsville, Va.

The perpetually pessimistic Mark Martin tried a new tactic at Martinsville. But optimism just didn't work for him.

On Friday, he boldly predicted a win in the Subway 500.

"I can tell you right now that we're going to win on Sunday," he said. "I'm tired of being called a pessimist. It's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard of."

On Sunday, after the brakes burned up on his No. 6 Ford, leaving him with a 34th-place finish and dropping him from fifth to seventh in the standings, he conceded that he's better suited to his old approach.

"See if Mr. Pessimist ever predicts another win," he said.

But he continued to display the dogged determination that has been a hallmark of his career.

"We've got four more [races], and we're going to battle back," he said. "We're going to move up."

Drivers avoid stalled car

Bizarre was the best term to describe a restart on Lap 296 when the green flag was displayed, even though Hermie Sadler's Ford had stalled at the start-finish line in full view of the flagman and series officials.

Despite the narrow track, the field slipped by Sadler without a scratch.

But several drivers said the situation spooked them.

"That's the scariest restart that I've ever been a part of," said Tony Stewart. NASCAR spokesman Herb Branham said officials delayed the caution flag because the cars had accelerated for the restart.

"If we had thrown the caution immediately, we were worried it would have caused a big wreck," he said.

Rookie runs well again

Rookie Denny Hamlin had another impressive run in Joe Gibbs Racing's No. 11 Chevrolet.

HAMLIN

He started fifth and overcame a crash on pit road that put him two laps down at one point to finish eighth, equaling his finish the previous week at Lowe's Motor Speedway.

"I really had to drive my guts out to get those laps back. We got them back and just slowly worked our way through the field every run," he said.

Hamlin will make his fourth Nextel Cup start Sunday at Atlanta Motor Speedway and he's a little apprehensive about the upcoming race.

"Atlanta's going to be probably my biggest challenge," he said. "It seems like the big tracks are really throwing curveballs at me."

Craven snags win but still looking for job

NASCAR

Ricky Craven and his team celebrate a victory in Saturday's Kroger 200.

Ricky Craven admittedly lost his way midway through this season in the Craftsman Truck Series, his performance so lackluster that he's losing his ride in Jack Roush's truck at the end of the season.

But on Saturday he got back on track, winning the Kroger 200 at Martinsville Speedway. His first series win came at the same track where four years ago he got the first of his two Nextel Cup victories.

Craven grabbed the lead by staying on the track during a caution at Lap 106 while leader Ted Musgrave made a pit stop.

Craven, using his years of experience at Martinsville, easily stayed out front of drivers with far fresher tires and took the checkered flag ahead of his rookie teammate Todd Kluever, who finished second ahead of Brandon Whitt, Musgrave and Kyle Busch.

Craven's win was the 37th in trucks for Roush, which made him the circuit's all-time winner as an owner. It also made Craven the 15th driver to win a race in all three of NASCAR's elite divisions — Cup, Busch and Craftsman Truck.

And, Craven said, it proved that his crew, led by John Quinn, was stronger than it has shown through the summer.

"The win was redemption for all of us," said Craven, who is still waiting on an offer for a driving job for next season.

Kluever, whose runner-up run equaled his best truck finish, said he blew his only chance for victory when he bumped the curb after his pit stop.

"We actually came out ahead of [Craven] when we pitted," Kluever said. "That move cost me the race."

Dennis Setzer, who entered the race atop the championship standings but just five points ahead of Musgrave, had problems from start to finish.

He was forced to start in the rear because his crew replaced a power-steering part after qualifying. Then he spun in Turn 4 on Lap 35 and was sent to the back again.

Another setback came on Lap 106 when he was put at the rear of the field as punishment for speeding on pit road.

His next trip to the rear came on Lap 164 when he was part of a five-truck crash on the frontstretch. He wound up 19th, which put him 54 points behind Musgrave, the new leader.

HOW THEY FARED

A look at how Chase competitors performed Sunday

1.) Tony Stewart: He started on the pole and led a race-high 283 laps, which earned him 10 bonus points. But in the closing laps, Jeff Gordon's car was faster, and Stewart had to run hard just to keep the runner-up spot.

2.) Jimmie Johnson: The defending race winner passed Stewart for second place on Lap 417, but ended up losing the spot later. Still his third-place finish keeps him second in the standings. "There were a lot of guys in the Chase that had some problems, and it's going to be a battle to the end," he said.

3.) Ryan Newman: A 10th-place finish under most circumstances is acceptable, but it won't help in a Chase such as this year's when the points leaders also are winning races and earning top-five finishes. "It's going to take wins and top-fives in these final four races," he said.

4.) Greg Biffle: He struggled to a 20th-place finish and dropped one position and 72 points in the standings. Although he tangled on the track with Stewart late in the race, he blamed his so-so showing on an earlier crash between Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Travis Kvapil that forced his Ford into the wall.

5.) Carl Edwards: Brake problems with his No. 99 Ford were responsible for his 26th-place finish and his crash with Michael Waltrip. "It was a long, hard day," he said. "The only regret I have is I just wish I would have stayed behind [Waltrip] and not messed up his day with ours."

6.) Rusty Wallace: In his last Martinsville race, the seven-time winner at the track was headed for a top-five finish when he was spun out on a late-race restart. He said that on Lap 482 he slowed when Casey Mears nudged the front of his car and then Jeff Burton hit him from behind. "I ended up getting the short end of the stick on this deal," said Wallace, who wound up 19th.

7.) Mark Martin: Problems with the brakes on his No. 6 Ford sent him behind the wall for repairs at Lap 437. He returned 32 laps later to finish 34th.

8.) Kurt Busch: After being penalized a lap for spinning Michael Waltrip, he got back on the lead lap and finished sixth, which allowed him to climb two spots in the standings. "All in all, it was great to be able to come back and work our way through the pack," he said.

9.) Matt Kenseth: He was one of three Chase drivers to lead the race. He was out front for 19 laps, but a late-race tangle with Kyle Busch hampered his efforts and he finished 12th. It didn't affect his position in the standings, but he fell 48 points further behind Stewart.

10.) Jeremy Mayfield: His No. 19 Dodge was capable of running with the leaders before he lost three laps when his right-front tire went flat at Lap 410. He finished 28th.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN – The sun enters Libra on Oct. 30, where it will stay until Nov. 23, when it will enter Scorpius, then it enters Ophiuchus on Nov. 29, where it will stay through Dec. 17. The amount of daily sunlight drops in November; the month opens with 10.5 hours and ends with 9.6 hours of sunlight. In early November the sun rises about 6:45 a.m. and sets around 5:14 p.m., while by the end of November, sunrises are at 7:18 a.m. and sunsets are 4:52 p.m. The sun's midday height during November drops from 35 to 28 degrees. Twilight lasts about an hour throughout the month, meaning that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars appear an hour after sunset. In mid-November, we have about 12 hours each night for star gazing.

THE MOON – As November begins, the moon is hidden in the sun's glare. On Nov. 5, the moon appears below and to the left of the brilliant planet Venus, and on Nov. 8, the moon appears half full (like a letter "D") low in the southwestern evening sky. The moon will appear near the bright planet Mars on Nov. 14, and on the next night, the moon will be full. This full moon is known as the beaver moon or frosty moon. The moon will be rising before 8 p.m. through Nov. 19. On Nov. 21, the moon appears near the bright planet Saturn in the late evening eastern sky. In the last week of November, the moon is a morning object, rising after midnight. On Nov. 29 the moon appears close to the bright planet Jupiter low in the eastern dawn.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus shines low in the southwestern dusk. (Dusk is the first hour after sunset.) In November, the planet Mars rises at dusk and is prominent in the eastern sky after the stars come out. Mars appears opposite the sun on Nov. 7, rising as the sun sets and remaining visible all through the night. During November, the rising time of Saturn drops from 11:15 at the start of November to 9:20 p.m. as the month ends. The planet Mercury is a difficult sight low in the southwestern dusk in the first half of November. In mid-November, the bright planet Jupiter emerges in the eastern dawn.

THE EVENING STARS – Two very bright stars share top billing on November evenings. In the northwest gleams white-blue Vega, and in the northeast golden Capella sparkles. As the evening hours pass, Vega drops and Capella rises. The zig-zag star pattern called Cassiopeia is high in the north, resembling a stretched out letter "M." The 7 Sisters star cluster hangs in the eastern evening sky, resembling a tiny dipper. Late in the evening, the star group Orion with its three-star belt appears low in the east.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES – The FSU Planetarium's free public program for November is "Space Myths and Truths," presented the first three Sundays of the month at 4 and 7 p.m. The 45-minute program features a live tour of the mid-fall evening skies, and commonly held ideas about the sky and space will be examined. The Planetarium is located in Tawes Hall, Room 302, with free parking nearby. The free public programs begin promptly (no latecomers admitted), and persons may call 301-687-4270, ext. 2, for directions and further information.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 18, at the LaVale Public Library. All sky gazers are invited.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest starts, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions, or get a beginner's guide to the night sky and/or a planetarium brochure, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270, ext. 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. The FSU Planetarium web site address is www.frostburg.edu/planetarium, and Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It is pure bliss to watch a winning Steelers team. This year's team has not yet reached the excellence of the 1970s, which was the "Steel Curtain." After a couple games of lackluster performance it's now good to be again in contention. Sunday they beat the number-one team in their conference. My daughters and I enjoy watching the football and basketball games on TV. I can't tolerate the popular culture shows, especially the music videos or reality shows. However, they can't stand to watch the old movies or educational shows that I love.

However, Caitlin and Mere still like to get into the holiday spirit. This being Halloween, we always make a harvest display at the end of our lane. Many families on Rock Lodge Road make them, mainly featuring hay bales, corn stalks, and, of course, lots of pumpkins and gourds and colored leaves. I hope the pumpkins do not get too old or frozen to carve jack-o-lanterns out of them. We went to Fratzes' Family Farm pumpkin stand, and the girls chose a couple of nice pumpkins and carved them Sunday afternoon. They always enjoy making a batch of roasted pumpkin seeds.

Parents want their kids to be grown up too soon and I guess that is how it is supposed to be, but at the same time we all often long for the good old days when they are small, innocent, and are excited about special days. I wish I could live my girls' little days over again.

Speaking of little girls, the most exciting thing at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday morning was the sight of our baby McKenna Stanton walking. It seems like only yesterday when she was a babe in arms. According to her grandmother Cindy, she has plenty to say for just a year old, and is well on the way into the "terrible two" stage.

I have been watching the coverage of the never-ending hurricane season, which often includes shots of correspondents battling the high winds and rain. I can't help but wonder if it was that bad; what if you also had sub-freezing temperatures with snow, as is so common in Garrett County.

Too bad that our president couldn't come up with a very qualified woman to nominate for the Supreme Court instead of one of his personal cronies. I am speaking of our own, Garrett County's Susan Crawford. She would have been a great choice and has certainly the necessary experience to do the job. Hopefully his candidate will not be confirmed.

Pastor Pat Pittsnogle sent me a clipping about the effort to retire number 21 from major league baseball numbers in honor of my hero, Roberto Clemente. He also is a hero of Susan's. Most baseball fans know to whom #21 belonged, and not just Pirate fans.

When I was out Monday afternoon running some errands, something told me to go home now. What was rain suddenly turned into wet snow. The temperature had dropped into the low 30s. Now school has been called off (Tuesday), and here in Bittinger we must have had at least 8 inches of snow overnight. It is bad news to have snow this early in the fall with so many leaves still on the trees. I also heard today that electricity is off in many areas. This morning the radio station lost its power in Oakland. I wonder if the trucks had their plows on and ready for this storm.

The storm we had in October several years ago, which was thick ice, and came with the leaves still on the trees, really played havoc with the power. I believe we are better off with the snow than the hurricanes in the South. As I am writing this it is still snowing, and the forecast calls for more accumulation tonight. When the power is off many people have no phone, no heat, etc.

I am thankful that I have a cell phone fully charged and a load of wood in the basement for a wood stove. We now have gone from a postcard of Autumn Glory beauty to a Christmas card scene. Actually we have both now, with the snow on the beautiful leaves.

My Claire, who was home for Autumn Glory, declared that nowhere has more beautiful leaves than here in Bittinger. Even now in a dreary, wet period the wet leaves have a special beauty.

The 23rd annual turkey dinner to benefit Lutheran Braille workers will be held Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Northern High School cafeteria from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Carryout dinners will also be available. The cost of the dinner is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12 years old. There will also be a bake sale and craft sale.

My broken arm, which prevented me from doing a full, regular column last week, seems to be healing nicely, and I am not in such horrible pain. Luckily, it wasn't my right arm that was broken, as I would be totally useless. I slipped on a wet spot on my kitchen floor.

I think we had Pastor Louise Knotts's address in the article last week. No one knows how good it feels when you are in rehab to get mail or visitors. Every tiny bit of progress takes so much hard work.

With all the snow today, I doubt that you could see the one special white goose along Peat Moss Road. The Buckel clan, which includes the Southerlys, has seen it several times among a flock of about 75 Canada geese in our cornfield, which has been harvested. This snow is pretty good camouflage for it. It is unlikely that it is an albino goose because it has a little black on its tail. Perhaps it is a snow goose, or possibly even a swan. What next? Bittinger already has a white stag. Maybe next a white fox or squirrel. It is another reason Bittinger claims the title of Arctic, Maryland. I recently saw an unusually high number of deer hunters for October.

DURST HONORED FOR UNION SERVICE – Carl Durst, Grantsville, was recently honored for 50 years of continuous membership with the Laborers International Union of North America. He received a gold membership certificate. Durst started working for Phoenix Construction, Cumberland, in 1955. He ran the cast iron burner and controlled the electronics on the paver. He thanked his co-workers, including Cecil Resh, Clarence Guthrie, Junior Patton, Marshall Bittinger, Victor Warnick, and Marvin Glotfelty. "I'm also grateful to Grover, who helped on the bridgework," he said. Durst lives with his wife Sharon. He has 11 children, 33 grandchildren, and numerous great-grandchildren.

The Clover members (ages 5-7) worked on a foam pumpkin picture frame craft.

Members were reminded that enrollment for the 2006 year will take place at our next meeting. We will also be making a craft for one of our community service projects.

NEW LOANS FOR OLD HOMES!

There's a "new" kind of loan on the market that few people are aware of, but that bears investigation and consideration, especially if you're considering the purchase of an older home that you would love to update.

The Energy Efficient Mortgage, or EEM, is a great solution for affording the home you love that is in need of improvements to decrease its overall energy costs. Fannie Mae created this type of loan back in 1979, but a lack of education and enthusiasm prevented it from becoming popular until recently.

In these days of energy conservation and rising fuel and electricity costs, an EEM is very appealing, because it allows you to borrow more than you could with a conventional loan.

The costs of the energy improvements are rolled into the loan, and by the time you've implemented the updates, you've also increased the value of your home while saving money on your energy costs! In one case, a buyer saved $740 in one year on energy bills, while the mortgage cost only $30 a month more than a conventional one.

Quite frankly, most listings on the market are older homes. Why forsake the home of your dreams because of the cost of installing insulation or new windows? Ask an agent to put you in touch with a lender who can make your dreams come true.

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

TV PIPELINE

Alexis Bledel: Putting more into 'Gilmore'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Alexis Bledel

Q: I really like "Gilmore Girls." I was checking out the fourth season on DVD, and there was a tidbit that said Alexis Bledel's first language is Spanish. It also mentioned that she had learned English in school. What is her family's country of origin? –Mike Hills, Ivanhoe, Calif.

A: Although the young actress was born and raised in Houston, her father is Argentinian and her mother is Mexican. German and Spanish also are blended into her background. With the rapid, tongue-twisting style of the dialogue on her WB Network series, most people probably wouldn't think Bledel had that language history. That she has fared so well with the show's intentionally challenging scripts indicates the kind of student she was.

Q: What happened to the actress who played the FBI profiler on "NUMB3RS"? Why was she replaced? –Rick Walker, Swartz Creek, Mich.

A: Sabrina Lloyd left the CBS crime drama to make a pilot for an ABC sitcom that didn't sell. That being the case, she could always resurface on "NUMB3RS" – perhaps not as a regular cast member again, since her spot essentially has been filled by Diane Farr ("Rescue Me") – but there was nothing definite about that at this writing.

Q: Is Bradley Cooper related to Anderson Cooper? –Roger Bousum, San Antonio.

A: The former "Alias" and current "Kitchen Confidential" actor, who also made a mark over the summer in the hit movie comedy "Wedding Crashers," is no relation to the CNN newsman, who is the son of designer and heiress Gloria Vanderbilt.

Q: I really like "8 Simple Rules," and I have noticed it is not on with the new fall programming. Have they discontinued it, or will it be back this season? –Stephanie Kitch, Joplin, Mo.

A: The answer to both questions is "yes," for the reasons that follow. ABC did cancel the show at the end of last season – frankly, and sadly, it never regained its ratings traction after the death of original star John Ritter – but the existing episodes will be seen again before too long.

In January, The WB Network will revise its weekday-afternoon schedule, and "8 Simple Rules" repeats will be included in that lineup. In the meantime, if you're a fan of Kaley Cuoco, you can see her elsewhere on The WB; she now plays the newest witch on the long-running Sunday series "Charmed."

MOVIES ON TV OVER THE INTERNET
by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. My Internet service provider says they can now let me watch a movie on my TV anytime I want, not just when the show is being broadcast. It seems to me that people would want to watch movies at all different times. How can they possibly do that for everybody?

The Internet is a marvel of modern technology, and having it personalized so you can watch whatever movie you want at whatever time you want is one very convenient feature. You need to have high-speed Internet service; a standard modem for a telephone line won't suffice. To see how this works, it is necessary to understand how data flows over the Internet.

Today, almost all transmission of signals is digital. Any picture that is taken can be digitized, and "any picture" means each and every frame of an entire movie. The digital sequence of 1s and 0s for an entire movie fits on a single DVD. For a typical 90-minute movie, the size might be around 4 billion bytes = 4 gigabytes = 4 GB. That entire stream of data has to be downloaded into your computer in order to watch the entire movie.

Fortunately, you don't need to have the entire movie's worth of data all at once, and therefore the idea of "video-streaming" has been invented. Four different categories of data are involved: The oldest (block # 4) is being thrown away; the next oldest (block # 3) is being displayed on your screen; then one more piece (block # 2) is in storage, waiting to be displayed; and the newest data (block # 1) is being transmitted. As more new data is transmitted, old data is thrown away. The viewer is oblivious to all this, and just sees the pictures on the screen. Whether it displays on your computer monitor or your TV screen is just a matter of personal preference and a little more wiring.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch: The Internet service provider (ISP) has to take a number of specialty steps in order to provide you with the movie.

First of all, transmission takes place over a high-capacity cable, which can easily transmit 6 megabytes per second (6 MB/s). For regular TV broadcasting, each channel has a bandwidth of 4 megaHertz, which means a little less information-per-second can flow. Also, the power required to feed a signal directly to you (via cable) is a lot less than the power needed to broadcast at millions of homes that aren't even tuned in.

Second, the movie is encoded, so as to economize on the number of bytes of data that have to be transmitted. Typically, from one movie frame to the next, hardly anything changes – maybe the mouth of one character who is speaking moves a little. So they don't really have to transmit every byte representing every square millimeter of every frame. Modern signal-processing techniques can discern what information is changing, and the encoder arranges to transmit only that new data. This reduction of unnecessary redundant transmission greatly economizes on the amount of bandwidth required. At their end, it is really no problem at all to send completely different video streams to hundreds of people at once.

When the signal arrives at your home, it goes into the cable box, where it is stored in a buffer (it becomes block # 2 of data). In a very quick burst, a block of data is transmitted to you; then it sets you aside and sends a different block of data to someone else; then another person, etc. It comes back to you with another fresh block of your data a little while later. (Remember that "a little while" can be a small fraction of a second.) This is called multiplexing.

The cable box contains a decoder, which reverses what the encoder did originally. Then the data representing the picture is stored in the buffer (block # 2) until you are ready to have it displayed on your screen (block # 3).

Storing data is an important aspect of the whole process. When you first say "I want to watch this movie," it sets to work getting organized, and transmits a considerable amount of data before announcing that you may now start. That is done so as to have a substantial backlog of the movie sitting there ready to go onto your screen, just in case anything goes wrong in the subsequent transmission process. (There could be an abnormal delay in getting the next block sent out, if there are a whole lot of people wanting to have video streamed to them at around the same time.) Because there is some reasonable fraction of the movie stored ahead of time, you the viewer never have to be concerned about what data is being transmitted when, and to whom.

There is potential here for a traffic jam, where too many people want various movies all at the same time. That's the equivalent of the problem that the phone company used to have long ago on Mother's Day, when too many people tried to make calls at once, and the system of long-distance transmission lines was overloaded, broke down, and everyone got a busy signal. Malicious people who write computer-viruses have shown that it is possible to overload the Internet. But the probability of everyone wanting their movie all at the same time is very small – and it can be cured by just adding more transmission capacity, a practice that the Internet has been doing continuously for decades.

ELCA Women Hold Meeting

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on Oct. 17.

The study theme, "Act Boldly With Love," was introduced by Leota Baker. Devotions opened with Psalm 148 and the refrain "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee."

The lesson included life experiences of persons who ventured forth boldly to attain their goals, which ended in rejoicing. Scripture readings pertaining to the lost sheep, the lost coin, and the lost son were studied, discovering each was about being lost, being found, and celebrating with joy.

Devotions closed with the hymn "On Our Way Rejoicing."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting. The minutes and treasurer's report were read.

A thank-you card was received from the Lutheran Home at Kane, Pa., for the package of washcloths sent by Zion's unit.

An announcement was made about the fall retreat for Women of the ELCA of the Monongahela Valley – Mountain and Ohio – Kanawha Valley Clusters that was held on Oct. 22 and 23 at Jackson's Mill, W.Va. The theme of the retreat was "Oct Bold! The Power is Ours!"

Items for the package to be sent for the Christmas give-away to the Rocky Boy Indians in Montana should be at the church by the first week of November, noted a unit spokesperson.

The annual ingathering of the thankoffering will be observed at the November meeting.

The October meeting adjourned with the Lord's Prayer.

James 2:1-26

Each autumn, as sure as our fuel bill rises and the golden leaves fall, we turn our clocks back one hour, back to the old time .

As darkness comes earlier, many of us feel drawn to the old times w hen the family settled in early for the night, gathering around the table for hearty winter fare like steaming soup or stew. After supper, retiring to the fireside, they had a chance to chat and spend time together at the end of the day.

These are busier times. With work and after school activities, we often do not have a schedule that allows for the togetherness that we long for. Yet, as winter approaches and the evenings grow longer, may we gather more closely to home and share God s word as a family. Psalm 62:8 says, Trust in him at all times, O people; pour out your hearts to him, for God is our refuge . Trust in Him and also remember to honor Him regularly at your chosen house of worship. Give God His time each week.

Learn Something New

Recently, I started taking dance lessons, and after just four or five lessons, I was amazed at all that I had learned. Like many things, dancing can be seen as a metaphor for life, and learning the different dance steps is really just one aspect of learning to dance. You are also learning, quite literally, to think on your feet, to lead with confidence (or to follow someone else's lead adeptly, which can be just as difficult), and ultimately you are learning about human relationships and interactions. Can you move with poise and grace, even when things around you are a bit chaotic, or when you don't feel confident about what you are doing? Every time that I go out on a limb and try to learn some-thing new I am rewarded with new insights and new experiences, in spite of, or perhaps because of the frustrations that must be overcome. My experience in learning how to dance reminds me of something I heard years ago, namely, that unexpected changes in plans were dancing lessons from God. So, try your hand at something new. You never know what you might learn or where it may lead you.

Listen to advice and accept instruction, that you may gain wisdom for the future.
R.S.V. Proverbs 19:20

Apple Cider Vinegar Has Many Uses

Apple cider binegar was a popular dietary supplement during the 1970s. Prepared by fermenting the juice of crushed apples, apple cider vinegar has been promoted for many conditions including weight loss, leg cramps, upset stomach, sore throat, sinusitis, high blood pressure and arthritis. When applied to the skin, apple cider vinegar has been used for acne, sunburns, insect bites and shingles, but there is no clear scientific evidence that apple cider vinegar works for these conditions.

Apple cider vinegar is considered to be as safe as the apple juice from which it is prepared. Long term use of large amounts of apple cider vinegar has been associated with potassium loss and osteoporosis. Potassium wasting, which is too little potassium in the blood and too much in the urine, can occur with the overuse of apple cider vinegar. People who take large amounts of the product seem to be at the highest risk. Also, people who take diuretics that cause potassium loss should be cautious when using apple cider vinegar. Low levels of potassium caused by apple cider vinegar might also increase the risk of side effects of some medicines.

Hurricane Heroes

Q. I would like to donate money to the animal rescue organizations that saved so many pets from New Orleans. Can you tell me which groups were involved in the rescue? — Janine K., Knoxville, Tenn.

A. I'm not sure how many rescue organizations were involved in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, but I do know of a few, including national organizations such as the ASPCA and the Humane Society. Both have established disaster-relief funds specifically for victims of this hurricane, and their contact information can be found at www.aspca.org and at www.hsus.org.

Another organization that has made a huge effort toward rescuing and caring for pets is Noah's Wish. This not-for-profit group has been in Louisiana since the crisis began and is working to reunite pets with their owners. Visit its Web site at www.noahswish.org to find out how you can donate.

Many shelters just outside the hurricane zone took in animals, starting before the storm when the New Orleans shelters were evacuated, and afterward as house pets were rescued. Readers living in areas just outside the hurricane zone should call their local shelters to find out what kind of donations are needed.

If you don't live near the disaster area, call your own local shelter. These shelters are always in need of donations, either of money or items, to keep their facilities running. If you don't have money or goods to give, consider volunteering your time. Even if you can't directly help the rescue effort on the Gulf Coast, you can do some good in your own neighborhood.

Q. I have a 1953 nude calendar of Marilyn Monroe. Where can I find its value? — Pat, Cuero, Texas

A. There were millions of these calendars printed, and they pop up frequently at both antique malls and garage sales. In other words, the value of your calendar is probably much lower than the amount you might be anticipating. With that said, let me recommend two Monroe collectors: Clark Kidder, 3219 East County Road "N," Milton, WI 53563; and Denis C. Jackson, P.O. Box 6433, Kingman, AZ 86401.

Q. I have an old medical textbook published in 1928. Where can I sell it? — Connie, Marion, Ill.

A. Most medical books published after about 1900 are of little value to collectors. A group that might be able to help you is the Medical Collectors Association, Montefiore Medical Park, 1695 A Eastchester Road, No. 1695A, Bronx, NY 10461.

Q. I have an "indented bill," a piece of U.S. currency, dated 1774 and printed in Annapolis, Md. How can I find out what it is worth? — Lowell, North Little Rock, Ark.

A. R.M. Smythe & Company conducts auctions of Colonial currency, and it might be a good place to begin your search. The address is 26 Broadway, Suite 271, New York, NY 10004.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was newsman Damon Runyon who made the famous observation, "The race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong — but that's the way to bet."

• For once, a flasher on the subway in New York got his just comeuppance. After exposing himself to a woman on the platform, he started to run away. In his haste, though, he had forgotten to pull up his pants. He tripped over them and fell onto the track just as the train was pulling into the station. Perhaps that's why flashers are typically seen wearing long coats instead of pants.

• It's been reported that President Warren G. Harding played poker twice a week.

• Single men, take note: A recent survey of singles on the dating scene reveals that the majority of women — 61 percent — prefer a date who is clean-shaven. If you simply must have facial hair, however, try a goatee: 23 percent of the women surveyed think it's sexy. Mustaches aren't terribly popular, though you might be able to get away with having one if you live in Texas — one in every five women in the Lone Star State love them.

• Those who study such things say that in the early days of the United States, more people bought astrological almanacs than Bibles.

• Novelist and short-story writer Steven Millhauser is best known for his work "Martin Dressler: The Tale of an American Dreamer," which was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction in 1997. Millhauser is also a professor at Skidmore, where he was teaching a class when a messenger handed him a note informing him that he had won the prestigious award. He didn't believe the news, though; he left the class after telling his students that a "grotesque error had been committed" and he had to straighten it out.

• On Nov. 1, 1512, the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in Rome, one of Italian artist Michelangelo's finest works, is exhibited for the first time. The most famous of the panels devoted to biblical world history is The Creation of Adam, a painting in which the arms of God and Adam are stretching toward each other.

• On Nov. 6, 1899, James Ward Packard's first Model A automobile is completed and test-driven through the streets of Warren, Ohio. The single-seat buggy was built around a one-cylinder engine and featured wire wheels, a steering tiller, automatic spark advance and chain drive.

• On Nov. 5, 1911, Roy Rogers, the King of the Cowboys, is born in Cincinnati. When cowboy star Gene Autry quit in a dispute with Republic Pictures, Rogers gained more exposure and his career took off. Starring with his horse, Trigger, and co-star Dale Evans, Rogers soon became one of Hollywood's top-10 moneymakers.

• On Oct. 31, 1926, Harry Houdini, the most celebrated magician and escape artist of the 20th century, dies of peritonitis in a Detroit hospital, 12 days after he was punched in the stomach by a student after a lecture in Montreal. The punch ruptured Houdini's appendix.

• On Nov. 4, 1939, a cutting-edge development in automotive comfort goes on display: air-conditioning. The capacity of the unit was equivalent to 1.5 tons of ice in 24 hours when the car was driven at highway speeds.

• On Nov. 2, 1947, designer Howard Hughes pilots the Hughes Flying Boat — the largest aircraft ever built — on its first and only flight. From 1947 until his death in 1976, Hughes kept the massive wooden aircraft ready for flight in a climate-controlled hangar at a cost of $1 million per year.

Young Marines To Hold Open House For New Recruits

The Mountaineer Platoon of the Young Marines will hold an open house for new recruits on Oct. 29 and Nov. 5 from 9 a.m. until noon both days at the former armory in Oakland. The first day of the new boot camp will also be held on Nov. 5.

Made up of residents from Garrett County and Preston County, W.Va, the platoon is part of the Young Marines program, sponsored by the Marine Corps League and the U.S. Marine Corps to help youths live drug-free lifestyles through discipline and hard work.

They learn the Marine Corps values of honor, courage, and commitment through rigorous physical fitness and drills. Recruits also learn self-respect and respect for others.

"The youths learn hard lessons when they do wrong and learn from their mistakes," added a platoon spokesperson.

All recruits have to go through a 13-week boot camp and graduate before they can call themselves a Young Marine. They learn basic drills, physical fitness, healthy living, map reading, compass skills, first aid, and public speaking.

"Everything they learn will culminate into a weekend encampment and graduation," said the spokesperson.

Lt. Governor Formally Joins Senate Race

by Kaukab Jhumra Smith
Capital News Service

LARGO Republican Lt. Gov. Michael Steele kicked off his long-anticipated campaign for the U.S. Senate Tuesday, saying he would bridge the rift between the two political parties in Washington and build "consensus on things that matter to families in their everyday lives."

"I believe that even though there is dissension in the halls of Congress, there is consensus in the halls of our churches, our schools, and our workplaces," Steele said. "This consensus on things that matter to families in their everyday lives is where we should focus America's attention."

Steele, the first black American elected to statewide office when he became lieutenant governor in 2002, now wants to become Maryland's first black senator and the first Republican senator in 20 years. He is running to replace Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., who will not seek re-election next year.

The grandson of a sharecropper and the son of a laundress, Steele was the first in his family to go to college and the first to attend law school, he said.

"Don't tell me it can't be done," Steele said.

The state Republican Party had been dropping broad hints of support for Steele's candidacy the last several weeks, and his exploratory committee raised more than $418,000 in the latest reporting period with the Federal Election Commission.

Although widely regarded as a shoo-in for the Republican nomination, Steele has raised far less than the $2.1 million collected by Rep. Ben Cardin, D-Baltimore, who is leaving his seat in the 3rd Congressional District to run for the Senate.

Cardin, however, faces at least five other Democrats for his party's nomination. Former Rep. Kweisi Mfume, D-Baltimore, the former head of the NAACP, is the only other African-American candidate besides Steele.

Poll results released Tuesday show, in a head-to-head match-up between Cardin and Steele, Cardin would get 47 percent to Steele's 38 percent, with 15 percent of voters undecided, according Gonzales Research and Marketing Strategies.

If the match-up were between Mfume and Steele, the vote would be more evenly split, with Steele winning 42 percent to Mfume's 40 percent, with 18 percent undecided, according to the poll.

Steele, who lives in Largo, chose Prince George's Community College for his announcement. Thundering drum beats from a 15-piece marching band from Steele's alma mater, Washington's Archbishop Carroll High School, filled the college's basketball arena as supporters gathered for Steele's speech.

Some wore gray T-shirts stamped with "Women of Steele," while others waved signs printed with "Bridge of Steele," referring to his promise to bridge partisan rifts.

Others held hand-lettered signs that simply read, "We Like Mike."

While waiting for Steele to appear, the crowd chanted "We Like Mike!" That somehow turned into "Four More Years!" A few people looked confused, but obligingly went along until an exasperated voice called out, "Six More Years" the length of a Senate term.

Steele referenced the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. in his speech, pointing out that the day he (Steele) took office was the civil rights leader's birthday.

"As a young man I realized that the front lines in the new civil rights struggle would be different," Steele said. "Instead of the right to sit at the lunch counter... the new civil rights struggle would be a struggle for the right to own the diner."

Steele called for lowering barriers to small-business ownership, making health care more affordable, strengthening crime-fighting tools, and improving failing schools.

About 300 supporters attended the announcement.

"I think Mr. Steele's a very fine man," said John Rowe, a member of the Southern Prince George's Republican Club, as he sat in the bleachers. "He's smart, he's attractive, he might grab some African-American votes that routinely would go to Democratic candidates."

Like a vote from Garland Williamson.

"I think he transcends party labels, frankly," said Williamson, an African-American Democrat who owns his own IT firm and who has pledged to support Steele.

"When I think of Michael Steele, I don't think of Democrats and Republicans," Williamson said. "I think of a man . . . who wants to make a great state greater. He wants to make sure that all Marylanders have fair and equal opportunity, and we're all pulling in the same direction."

Steele will face Thomas Hampton of Severna Park and Corrogan Vaughn of Baltimore in next year's primary. Neither Hampton nor Vaughn have held public office. Hampton has raised $5,000, none in the latest reporting period, and Vaughn has not returned calls about his finances.

TOWN NEWS

When mowing lawns, residents are asked to not blow or sweep grass clippings or leaves into the street. This can clog the storm drains.

Residents are not to burn leaves within town limits. The town employees will be collecting leaves for the next few weeks. Leaves should be raked/swept out to the curb.

The Community Park facilities will be closed for the winter, effective Oct. 28.

Recycling is scheduled for Nov. 4 starting at 9 a.m.

Any persons interested in obtaining curbside garbage collection service should contact Town Hall at 301-746-5919.

Adorable Adoptables

No photos were available from the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week, but a Humane Society spokesperson reported that several cats and kittens were available for adoption.

Also looking for homes are two hound mixes that were also dropped off at the shelter, a husky mix, and a basset hound that was picked up along Ben DeWitt Road. Additionally, the collie/Lab mix featured last week is still available.

The other pets from last week, however, have found new homes, including the two Lab puppies. They were adopted by the same family.

Now that colder weather is here, the Humane Society reminds residents to make sure their outside pets have adequate shelter. Those with unused dog houses, in good condition, are also asked to consider donating them to the shelter for others to use.

New Resource For Genealogy Is Now Online

A new resource for history and genealogy enthusiasts is now online. Western Maryland Public Libraries announces that the map of land grants made in Garrett County in 1787 to Maryland soldiers who fought in the Revolutionary War is now available on its Western Maryland History Online web site, www.whilbr.org. It is also accessible from the Ruth Enlow Library web site www.relib.net in the Local History and Genealogy section. The goal of the website is to make available online Maryland-related historical documents and images from Maryland's public libraries in the three western counties.

Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland has a copy of the map as surveyed by Francis Deakins. Maryland soldiers who fought in the Revolutionary War were rewarded with land "west of Fort Cumberland." The map of "military lots" assigned in 1787 shows the land grants in Garrett County, together with the list of officers and soldiers assigned the land. Each soldier received a 50-acre lot for three years of service, fighting against the British. Officers each received four 50-acre lots.

The online version allows people to search by location or by person. For example, one can find who was assigned the land closest to Swanton, but can also find which land Otho Holland Williams received. While the land may not have remained with the assigned soldier, the list may be helpful for those searching for Maryland Revolutionary War soldier ancestors.

The list of soldiers is from Thomas Scharf, an important Maryland historian. His list, however, may not contain some expected names – like Friend or Tasker – though there is a Tasko. There is also listed a James Drain, perhaps James Drane.

The Whilbr site also includes two other Garrett collections. One is the photographs of Accident from the Mary Miller Strauss collection in the Accident library. The second highlights the history of Mountain Lake Park with photographs from the Mountain Lake Park Historic Society and brochures from the Ruth Enlow Library.

The web site also has information from Washington County – the 1877 county Jury List, the 1893 Hagerstown City Directory, the 1907 phone book, and books published in 1869 listing Union and Confederate dead buried in Maryland after the Civil War.

From Allegany County the web site exhibits the Centennial Celebration 1889, payroll records from the coal mines in George's Creek, store records from Barton, and the Lefty Grove trophy.

LOCAL VOLUNTEERS HONORED AT STATE CONFERENCE – Susan Barclay and James Ford were recently honored at the Maryland Association of Community Action Agencies' annual conference for their contributions to the Garrett County Community Action Committee. Barclay, Community Action's parent volunteer of the year, was honored for her work with the Head Start program. She is active in all aspects of the program. For example, she volunteers in the classroom and kitchen, is an active member of the Grantsville Head Start Parent Group, and serves on the Head Start Policy Council. Ford, Community Action's volunteer of the year, was honored for his contribution to the Home Delivered Meal Program for the elderly. He raises funds to maintain the program by baking pies and other baked goods that are sold in the agency's bakery. "His volunteer time is valued at $7,500 annually," said a Community Action spokesperson. "This equates to 1,650 meals for the homebound elderly." Pictured, left to right, are Barclay, Community Action president Duane Yoder, and Ford.

Girls Competing In Outstanding Teen Pageant

The Outstanding Teen Garrett County/Swallow Falls pageant will be held this Saturday, Oct. 29, in the Garrett College auditorium at 6 p.m. This is the first year for the event, and the winner will compete in Maryland's Outstanding Teen Pageant in June at the Maryland Theater in Hagerstown.

The local contestants are Samantha Gibson, Heather Singell, Hana Smith, Anet Dishmon, and Amanda Griffin. To be eligible to compete, young women must be between the ages of 13 and 17. They must also live, work full time, or attend school in Garrett County.

Each contestant will compete on stage in talent, lifestyle and fitness sportswear, interview, casual wear, and evening wear. The young ladies will also participate in a private interview with the judge's panel.

Samantha is 14 years old and a freshman at Southern High School. Her platform issue for the pageant is "teen drug use, abuse, and addiction." She plans to pursue a career in singing and/or modeling. Her ambition for the future is to go to Nashville, Tenn., and become a country music artist. Samantha will sing for the talent segment.

Heather, 14, is a freshman at Northern High School. She will sing for her talent, and her platform issue will be "families helping families." She plans to pursue a master's degree in law and eventually become a lawyer.

Hana is 16 and a junior at Southern. Her issue will be RAISE (Raising Awareness in Special Education). She will also sing at the pageant. Hana plans a career as a dietitian.

Anet, 15, also attends Southern. Her issue will be "animal abuse is cruel and unjust." She will do a gymnastics/cheerleading/dance routine for her talent. Anet wants to attend West Virginia University and major in the veterinarian field.

Amanda is 16 and attends Southern. Her platform will be "teens fighting the need to drink," and she will sing. She wants to become a master chef and run her own restaurant.

The evening's entertainment will include performances by Kimberly Grimm-Weimer (Miss Maryland 1990), Sarabeth Whetzel (Miss Queen City 2005), Kenzie Craig (Miss Teen Frostburg 2005), Becca and Maddison Graham, and Matt Link. Escorting the young ladies in the evening wear segment will be Tyler and Jacob Rummer.

Tickets for the pageant will include a program book and will be available at the door.

The Maryland's Outstanding Teen program is designed to initiate future contestants into the Miss America system.

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO HELP...

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the ninth year, The Republican newspaper and the Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington is the head coordinator, assisted by several other club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue in her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful. Dora Hanlin has again volunteered to help handle the applications, as she has from the beginning of the program. Her help is invaluable.

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Donations should be postmarked by December 3, 2005. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

Jessica Lynch To Speak At Hospital Gala

Former prisoner of war Jessica Lynch will be a guest speaker at Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Starlight Ball fundraiser, scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Lodge at Wisp Mountain Resort, McHenry.

Lynch, a native of West Virginia, was a private first class in the United States Army who served in Operation Iraqi Freedom. She was severely injured in an ambush of her unit and captured. Following her dramatic rescue by a special forces unit of U.S. Army, Lynch was flown to an Iraqi hospital for recovery.

Lynch, who became an internationally known soldier recognized for her courage, returned to West Virginia and is currently a student at West Virginia University, majoring in elementary education.

"We are pleased and honored to have Jessica Lynch join us at the Starlight Ball," said Donald P. Battista, president and CEO of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. "Her dedica-

THANKFULLY, IT WAS ONLY A DRILL – Local rescue personnel of nearly every type took part in a valuable experience Saturday, as Garrett County's largest drill ever staged took place at Wisp in McHenry. The scenario was this: A plane had to make a "hard landing" at the Wisp, as a passenger on board was toting a suspicious package. The landing was not perfect, and a fire broke out, which led to many injured passengers (actors with a lot of fake blood all over them), and the subduing of the terrorist, played by nurse and cardiac rescue technician Jeff Hinebaugh. The scenario took many months of planning, and involved a wide variety of fire and rescue individuals, as well as the local police agencies, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and many other volunteer participants. Bear Hunt Closed With 40 Killed After Four Days

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) closed this year's black bear hunt last Thursday, Oct. 27, after the 40th bear had been checked in. The target harvest was 40-55 bears, according to DNR Wildlife and Heritage Service director Paul A. Peditto, who made the decision to close the hunt after the check stations closed at 8 p.m. Thursday night.

The bears taken during the hunt, which had commenced Monday, Oct. 24, one-half hour before sunrise in Garrett and Allegany counties, had an estimated average live weight of 190 lbs., exceeding last year's average weight of 178 lbs. The largest bear, a 379-pound male, was taken by Danny Teets of McHenry.

"Six of the bears harvested were previously handled by DNR and wore ear tags identifying them as chronic nuisance bears in Garrett County," DNR Black Bear Project leader Harry Spiker stated. "This result demonstrates conclusively that our hunting strategy will achieve the secondary benefit of reducing conflicts between problem bears and western Maryland residents."

In addition to the above figures, Spiker released the following statistics from the recent hunt:

•36 bears were taken in Garrett County, 4 in Allegany County;

•95 percent of the bears were taken on private land;

•65 percent of the harvest was by hunters who live in the hunt area;

•3 female hunters har-

Wendell Teets Named Md. Superintendent Of The Year

Dr. Wendell Teets was recently named Maryland Superintendent of the Year, according to Jim Lupis, executive director of the Public School Superintendents Association of Maryland, at a recent meeting in Ocean City.

According to Lupis, Teets was an "outstanding choice among several outstanding superintendent applicants." "Dr. Teets has demonstrated excellent leadership in Garrett County and throughout the state of Maryland to enhance the education of our students," he said.

Teets has been superintendent of Garrett County Public Schools since July 1997 and is serving his 17th year as a school superintendent. Previously, he held the positions of superintendent of schools of Taylor County, W.Va.; dean, assistant professor of education, department chair and director of athletics at Alderson-Broaddus College; and was an assistant superintendent, principal, teacher, and coach in various West Virginia schools. He received his doctorate at West Virginia University.

Dr. Teets was chosen as one of 15 superintendents in the United States as a Fulbright Fellow for Germany in October 2004 by the American and German Fulbright Commission. In 1995, he was chosen as West Virginia Superintendent of the Year by the West Virginia Music Educators Association. He has also served as president of the Public School Superintendents Association of Maryland and is active in the American Association of School Administrators, serving as a governing board member.

Teets is also active in several community and professional organizations. In October 2001, he received the Florence Beck Kurdle Award for Community Activism, a state Economic Development Award which recognizes an individual who has helped make "Smart Growth" a reality in Maryland. Dr. Teets is a member of the Oakland Rotary Club and the Frostburg State University Administrative and Supervisory Advisory Board and Professional Development School Advisory Council. He also serves as a board member of the Garrett County Economic Development Corporation, as chairperson of the Maryland Public School Athletic Association Superintendents' Committee, as a member of the Local Management Board, and on the boards of several foundations.

"I share this award with all the wonderful people I work with, including the Board of Education, school personnel and students, support groups, county commissioners and the business community, and the citizens of Garrett County," said Teets. "It is an honor to be chosen by my fellow Maryland superintendents for this award."

"As superintendent, Dr. Teets consistently brings a quest for excellence to all aspects of the educational system," said Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent. "His recognition as Maryland's Superintendent of the Year honors a dedicated, energetic, and committed leader."

According to the current board president, Rodney Durst, he was on the board when Teets was hired.

14th Annual Home For The Holidays House Tours Slated By Red Cross

The Western Maryland Chapter of the American Red Cross will host its 14th annual Home for the Holidays House Tours on the first weekend in December. Ticket-holders will have the opportunity to tour five local homes on Friday, Dec. 2, from 4 until 9 p.m. and on Saturday, Dec. 3, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

"In 1992, a great tradition was born in Garrett County," said Donna Heginbotham, one of the founders of the event. The first Home for the Holidays House Tours was directed by the late Cindy Kutchmen, then chairman of the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Heginbotham.

"It had been an idea of mine since the 1980s, and I finally found a cause that could benefit from it," Heginbotham said. "It has proven to be a huge success."

She said that during the formation stage of the event, a number of Red Cross board members, including Norma Hesen, past chairman, attended a similar tour in Cumberland to get ideas.

"Then we came home and went to work," Heginbotham said.

The first tour, in 1992, featured the homes of Manning and Kathie Smith and Willard and Delores Hayden in Mtn. Lake Park, and the homes of the late Betty Mina and the late Ronald and Beth Friend, both in Oakland. A snowfall of several inches came on the same weekend, but did not deter guests from touring the houses, Heginbotham said.

"We had held a number of fundraisers in the past, including an open house at the DelSignore mansion twice, the raffling off of a car given to us at cost by Bob Stuck of Oakview Mo-

Annual Veterans Day Prog. To Be Held In Oakland

The annual Veterans Day Program in Oakland will be held this Sunday, Nov. 6. The event is sponsored by the American Legion Proctor Kildow Post #071 and the Western Maryland Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"This is an opportunity for citizens and organizations of the Oakland area to join in honoring our community's veterans and pay tribute to those military personnel currently serving in the armed forces," said a Post #71 spokesperson.

The annual Veterans Day ceremony is slated for 11 a.m. at Veterans Park, located at the corner of Oak and Third streets. Guest speaker will be Garrett County district Court judge Ralph M. Burnett.

Activities will then move downtown for a parade starting at 1 p.m. at the train station, located along Lib-

Garrett County's Recycling Rate Is Second Highest In Maryland

Recycling coordinator Kim Madigan, Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, told the commissioners this week she had "exciting news." At 50.4 percent, Garrett County had the second highest recycling rate in the state for 2004, following a review conducted by the Maryland Department of the Environment.

"It's very encouraging," Madigan said about the rate increase.

Harford County had the highest rate in 2004 with 60.11 percent. Allegany County's was 25.99 percent.

Garrett County's achievement is even more remarkable given that in 2003 it had the lowest recycling rate at 18.9 percent. Since then, the rate has improved by 31.5 percent, according to the coordinator.

The increase means less waste being deposited in the Garrett County Landfill, and, therefore, the need for a new landfill will be delayed. In 2004, the county collected 24,888.64 tons of recyclables, compared to 5,388 tons in 2003, according to Madigan.

"This increase is largely due to exceptional reporting by businesses and first-year reporting from our Garrett County farmers," she said. "For example, the Silver Knob Pallet Company, unable to respond to our office in the past, contacted us to report approximately 8,900 tons of mulch and sawdust being recycled."

Her office is seeking other companies that have not reported their tonnages in the past or may have questions about possible recycled materials.

The commissioners indicated that the rate increase reflected the level of importance that Garrett County government has placed on recycling.

"It's also partly due to your efforts," Commissioner Fred Holliday told Madigan. He and Commissioners Dave Beard and Ernie Gregg commended her work.

The Maryland Recycling Act requires that counties divert at least 15 percent of their waste to recycling programs. The counties then report their recycling tonnages to MDE for review and approval.

In the 2000 session of the Maryland General Assembly, legislators passed a resolution creating a voluntary statewide waste diversion goal of 40 percent. For 2004, the statewide rate was

Carroll Co. Man Charged With Bear Violation

A Carroll County man was charged with a bear hunting violation during the recent black bear hunt in western Maryland, according to the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP).

Michael Wayne Major, 41, New Windsor, was charged after NRP officers observed a truck parked with individuals standing around in the parking lot of the Arrowhead Market at 9:50 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 26.

Officers stopped and found two black bears in the bed of the truck. During the investigation it was determined that Major had allegedly shot both bears. Major was a sub-permittee hunting on the permit of Jason

A VERY SPECIAL BIRTHDAY GIFT – While most 11-year-olds are thrilled to get birthday gifts, Addison Varndell recently requested that her gifts instead be given away. In celebration of her birthday, she asked friends to make contributions to the American Red Cross and to the Humane Society of the United States for the human and animal victims of Hurricane Katrina. A total of $500 was raised for each charity. Addi is the daughter of George and Lisa Varndell, Grantsville. "We're really proud of her and her decision to forgo the birthday gifts this year so that others can begin rebuilding their lives," her parents said. "She's a really special little lady." Addi is pictured above with her baby brother Georgie and two of their animal friends. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Charges Pending Following Single-Vehicle Accident

A Bittinger man was injured in a single-vehicle accident Tuesday night east of Bittinger, according to Maryland State Police troopers, who said that charges are pending.

Jeffrey Scott Miller, 41, was traveling west on Maynardier Ridge Road shortly after 11 p.m. when his 1991 Chevrolet pickup traveled off the road east of Bear Hill Road and struck a tree.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Miller to Meyersdale Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

YOUNG SCIENTIST RECOGNIZED BY BOARD – Joanna Guy, freshman at Southern High School, was recognized by the Garrett County Board of Education at the monthly meeting for her award-winning science project. The project, titled "What Do You Expect: Does Expectation of Difficultly Level Affect Student Test Performance?" has received many high honors. Joanna was named one of the 40 finalists in the Discovery Channel's Young Scientist Challenge from 75,000 science fair participants nationwide. She was then eligible to compete for the title of America's Top Yong Scientist of the Year at a televised competition at the University of Maryland last month. She spent five days in Washington, D.C., where she presented her project and worked in group challenges. One of her prizes was an asteroid named after her. While there she also met with Roscoe Bartlett, which she said was "an added bonus." "It is a great honor," she said. "I hope to go back to the middle school and talk about the benefit of participating in the science fair. It was a wonderful experience." Board members commended her achievements and her professional presentation and public speaking ability. Pictured, from the left, are Tom Woods, principal; Rodney Durst, board president; Joanna; Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent; and Elizabeth Guy.

Grantsville Man Sentenced For Two Burglaries

A Grantsville man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court this week for first-degree burglary. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Anthony Paul Flanagan, 19, to three years in the Division of Corrections. Eighteen months of the sentence was suspended, and Flanagan will serve the remaining 18 months in the Garrett County Jail.

He was also sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail for a second-degree burglary charge, with this sentence to be served consecutively to the first one. Upon his release from jail, Flanagan will be on probation, with conditions that include payment of restitution.

He was arrested and charged in early April with two burglaries. The first occurred at the end of March when Flanagan entered a Grantsville area residence and stole three guns from the homeowner. The second offense occurred in the same time frame when Flanagan entered a storage shed at another Grantsville residence and stole a chainsaw, the state's attorney noted.

The defendant pleaded guilty to the crimes in August.

Two File For Council Seats In Loch Lynn

Wanda Dawson and Richard Smith have filed for the two seats on the Loch Lynn Heights town council. They are running unopposed in this election, which will be held Nov. 7 at town hall. The polls will be open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Dawson is a life-long resident of Loch Lynn Heights. She retired after 35 years at TDEC in Oakland, where she held the position of vice president.

Smith grew up in Loch Lynn Heights before moving with his family to Ohio. He retired from the Iron Workers Local 751 in Anchorage, Alaska, before moving back to Loch Lynn approximately 15 years ago.

Dawson and Smith said they look forward to working with Mayor Larry Friend and council members Carolyn Corley and Ron Friend for the next two years to continue the progress already made toward improving the town.

"Although we are unopposed in this election, we would appreciate the support of the residents by asking them to vote on Nov. 7," they said.

Citizen Reports Alleged Crime, Man Arrested

An Oakland man was arrested after a concerned citizen called the police after witnessing a male subject damaging windows in vehicles at the Classic Cars Auto Sales lot, Hutton Road, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies responded and observed 18 different vehicle that had damages to the windshields, driver's side door windows, rear windows, and rear door windows. There were also three separate vehicle transmissions in the garage area that were damaged.

The citizen gave a description of the man, and another person driving along Old Crellin Road observed a male matching that description and advised the deputies.

Police responded to a residence on Old Crellin Road and arrested Onie Thomas Whitacre, 35. He was charged with 17 counts of destruction of property over $500 and five counts of destruction of property less than $500.

He was released after posting $25,000, police said.

In other police news, Jenny Rebecca Moats, 33, Oakland, was arrested after police observed her driving a 1995 Ford SUV operating without a front registration plate displayed. It was also observed weaving and crossing the center of the roadway. After failing field sobriety tests, she was arrested.

Moats was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), DWI per se, driving under the influence (DUI), failure to drive right of center, and failure to properly display front registration plate.

She was later released.

In a separate incident, Jace Lucas Edge, 19, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of an arrest warrant Friday night. A search of Edge incident to arrest revealed a metal foil smoking device with burnt marijuana residue in his pants pocket, police said. He was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

He was released on the CDS charges after seeing a District Court commissioner.

In other police news, Kimberly Ann Strawser, 31, Swanton, was arrested after her 1995 Dodge van was stopped for not having a registration plate on the rear of the vehicle. Further investigation revealed she was operating the vehicle without the consent of the owner.

She was arrested and charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and other traffic related offenses.

Total Biz Sale To Benefit Salem School Project

A warehouse sale will be held at Total Biz Fulfillment at the Industrial Park in Grantsville on Saturday, Nov. 5, from 8 a.m. until noon, with all proceeds benefiting the new Salem School. Items will include Corolle dolls, toys, puzzles, games, stationery sets, collectible sculpted resin animals, baskets, and other overstocked gifts.

"The effort we have expended to coordinate the sale is for a good cause and worth the investment," said Luanne Ruddell, director of Total Biz Fulfillment. Her husband, Gary Ruddell, is the company president.

She noted that 100 percent of the proceeds from the sale will be donated toward construction of the new Salem School building. A $2.2 million capital campaign is currently under way to fund the 10,000-square-foot facility.

Annually, approximately 95 at-risk youth come from across Maryland to the 380-acre farm near Grantsville to live in one of four homes or to attend the special education school on campus.

Since 1993, Salem has offered a range of special education to the children who live at Salem and to a local board of education.

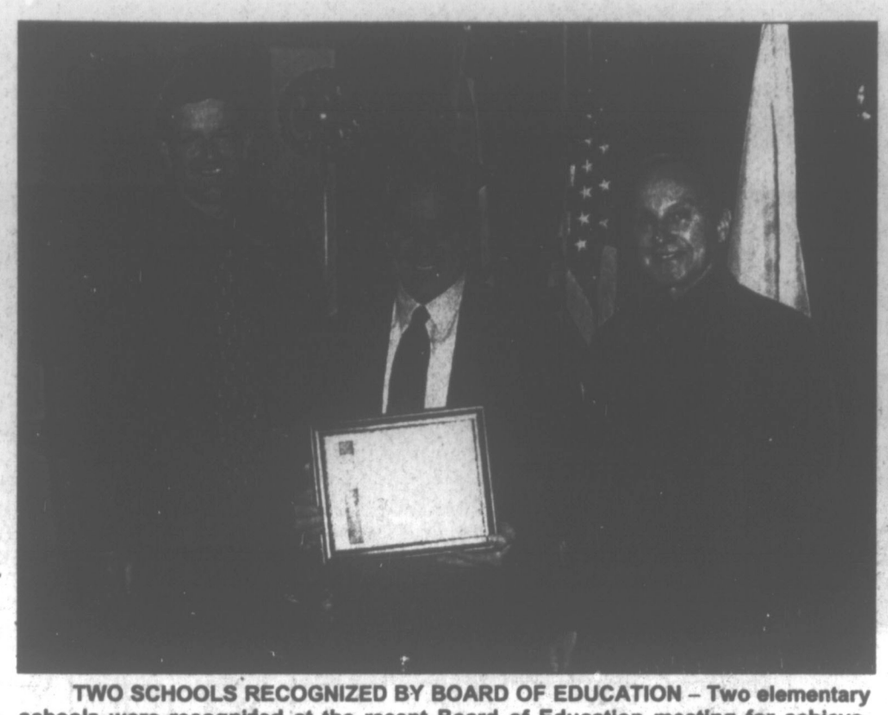
"These services are unduplicated in Garrett County," said Sharon Cosgrove, public campaign coordinator. "But the physical conditions of this remarkable program have been crowded and unsatisfactory. Packed into a small bungalow and two modular units spanning a busy road, Salem School has worked hard for the distinction of a perfect score by the Maryland State Department of Education, and for awards to both faculty and students. A capacity of 37 students plus teachers, aides, therapists, counselors, and administrative staff have shared a tiny 3,500 square-foot space until now."

Construction of the new school building is planned for completion by the end of the year. Fundraising has resulted in 80 percent of the campaign goal being met.

"We are continually amazed by the goodness of our God and the generosity of our community," said Louise Richards, executive director of Salem. "Our fundraising goals at every turn have found their mark through the sacrificial gifts of people like the Ruddells, people who are committed to a better life for these children."

In the past, the Ruddells have served in leadership with Salem's Community Relations Committee, and Gary currently chairs the Steering Committee for Salem's capital campaign to build the new school.

Salem is a United Way agency. For more information on the school, persons may contact Karen South at 301-689-8176, extension 206.



TWO SCHOOLS RECOGNIZED BY BOARD OF EDUCATION – Two elementary schools were recognized at the recent Board of Education meeting for achievement on the 2005 Maryland School Assessment (MSA) and for improvement in a subgroup from the 2004 MSA to the 2005 MSA. Dennett Road and Kitzmiller elementary schools were each awarded $3,107.90. Pictured above, from the left, are Rodney Durst, board president; Gary Galloway, principal of Dennett Road; and Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. Pa. Man Receives Two Years For Cocaine Charge

A Mt. Pleasant, Pa., man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to possession of cocaine. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Craig Hood, 39, to two years in the Division of Corrections, with all of that suspended but 90 days. Hood will serve the balance of the sentence in the Garrett County Jail, after which he will be on probation. He was also fined $1,000.

Hood was arrested by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in January after he was stopped in the Friendsville area for traffic violations. His truck was searched after a drug-detection dog gave a positive alert, noted the state's attorney.

In an unrelated case, Sallianne Abes Summerville, 47, Friendsville, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court on Wednesday to possession of marijuana and to second-degree assault. For each charge, Summerville received on year in the Garrett County Jail. All of the sentence was suspended, except for the time she has served while this case was pending in Circuit Court since July. Summerville is on supervised probation.

She was charged after officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force searched her Oakland residence last November and found controlled dangerous substances, including marijuana, said the state's attorney.

The assault charge resulted from Summerville striking one of the officers while he was attempting to restrain another occupant of the house, who was attempting to destroy evidence when the officers entered the residence.

In another drug case heard in Circuit Court this week, Scotty Dale Alexander, 27, Oakland, pleaded guilty to violating a peace order and possession of a controlled dangerous substance. For each charge, he received a sentence of 90 days in the Garrett County Jail, which will run concurrently.

He was arrested last November by Garrett County Sheriff's Office deputies who responded to a call from a Mtn. Lake Park residence. Officers knew a peace order was in place that prohibited Alexander from being at that residence and having contact with the female resident.

Various pills, including hydrocodone, were found on Alexander's person after he was arrested, according to the state's attorney.

In other recent Circuit Court news, a second-degree assault charge against Mark Henry Cosner, 34, Frostburg (Garrett County), was not prosecuted by the state's attorney. In June, Cosner was accused of striking his girl friend.

The school, along with the other five Maryland schools selected, will now enter a national competition. The national winner will be announced in the fall of 2006. Who Would Have Thought?...

It was on December 1, 1955, that 42-year-old Rosa Parks, employed as a tailor's assistant at a department store in Montgomery, Ala., refused to give up her seat to a white man on a city bus. She was subsequently arrested and fined $10 plus $4 in court costs.

Who would have thought that this relatively simple, but courageous, act of individual civil disobedience would trigger a 381-day boycott of the bus system led by Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.? Who would have thought that it would have led to a ruling one year later by the U.S. Supreme Court that segregated seats on city buses were unconstitutional? Who would have thought that it would become at least the symbolic springboard for the entire civil rights movement in America? Who would have thought that, 50 years later, the body of this once unknown, low-income woman of color would be the first female ever to lie in state in the rotunda of the United States Capitol Building?

It's all pretty amazing, particularly to those of us who have been on this Earth for at least these past 50 years. At the time of Rosa Parks's defiance, segregation of the races was alive and well in this country, with blacks in particular still legally classified and treated as second-class citizens. But because of the spark that she provided, things today are so different.

Who would have thought that in Rosa Parks's lifetime the U.S. Army Chief of Staff would be a black American, and the U.S. Secretary of State would be both black and female? Who would have thought that after having almost no black elected officials – at the local, state, or national levels – when Rosa Parks was 42 that there would be many when she was 92?

Of course, even with much progress in race relations, we still have a long way to go. Enacting laws against racism is one thing; changing people's hearts is far more difficult. And racism is not always a black/white issue. Sometimes it even thrives among those of the same race.

As most of our readers know, the lieutenant governor of Maryland, Michael Steele, is a black American. He is now a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate seat currently held by Paul Sarbanes, who has announced his retirement. Steele has long been a target/victim of racism, having been pelted with Oreo cookies during a gubernatorial debate in 2002 ("black on the outside, white on the inside"). Now as a U.S. Senate candidate, he is being racially slammed again. There is a doctored photo of him on one web site, depicting him as a black-faced minstrel. The headline reads "Simple Sambo wants to move to the big house." The caption under the photo reads "I's Simple Sambo and I's running for the Big House."

What is so interesting, though, is that the Oreos were tossed by Democratic supporters at all-black Morgan State University in Baltimore, and that the aforementioned web site is the creation of a black New York liberal activist. Maryland State Senator Lisa Gladden, a black Baltimore Democrat, justifies the attacks on Steele by saying, "Party trumps race."

(Maryland Senate President Mike Miller [white] also called Mr. Steele an "Uncle Tom," but we won't "go there" today.)

We can't help but believe that Rosa Parks was both proud and disappointed.

To the Editor:

A little over a month ago my mom got into a nest of bees and got very sick. I want to thank Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad for coming to her rescue. Thanks, Mike Lee, Rayma Weeks, and Hazel Stewart, for responding to that call. You folks are some of Garrett County's "most beautiful" people.

I think the fire departments deserve a lot of credit too. For all their hard work, thanks, folks.

To the Editor:

I am opposed to the current alignment and concept of the proposed Oakland bypass.

Oakland's current traffic situation can be dealt with with better synchronization of traffic lights. The addition of traffic lights at key intersections such as Oak and 8th streets.

For the long term a better alignment would be a connection road from Rt. 219 (north of Glotfelty's tire) to Rt. 135 (east of the new industrial park).

The current proposal cuts two merging towns, Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park, in half. It does not address current and future traffic issues. It is a 50-year-old alignment that needs a fresh look.

To the Editor:

I was the first to protest (by letter) the flush tax. As I pointed out, months ago, our water on the west side of the divide does not drain east. However, any protest should be directed to those typically illogical law makers in Annapolis.

Shame on you who directed your venom on the ladies who collect the taxes at the courthouse. Some have even cursed them for doing their job. We need to treat others as we want to be treated (Matthew 7:12).

Remove the shame from yourselves – go back to those ladies at the tax office and apologize for your uncivilized behavior. We in Garrett County should have much higher standards! Then, call Annapolis and, in a civilized method, tell them they simply do not understand the situation. I am saddened by the behavior of some of you!

To the Editor:

We would like to thank the power company for all of their hard work and dedication to their jobs in restoring our power. Thanks for the extra manpower from the other areas as well. you all do a good job.

I know folks get upset when their power is off, but you guys don't control the weather. In our opinion, you are some of Garrett County's "most beautiful" people. Thank you.

To the Editor:

I am writing this by hand because the computer is down. No electricity. So, we don't really need electricity to communicate.

Are Garrett Countians really different? Do we react differently when there is adverse weather? When the power goes out, what do we do? I check on the neighbors, they check on me. Our neighbors cut limbs out of the road. They don't wait for the county. They remove snow from each other's driveways. When one's generator is running out of fuel another neighbor fills it. When a neighbor's generator needs fixing, another neighbor gets it running.

Garrett Countians don't blame the president for sending a freak snow storm in October. We don't blame the governor or General Assembly for the split in our favorite tree. We don't criticize FEMA or county officials for not bringing us water or ice. When God sends 6-8 inches of snow, some of us thank Him for raising the water table.

Adverse weather will strike Garrett County again. It will also strike Louisiana, and Mississippi, and Alabama, and Florida, and...

We will also have good weather, in which we can prepare for the adverse weather.

The media would have us believe the governments are to be blamed for it all.

I am pleased to live here – to be a part of a community that cares for one another.

To the Editor:

As many of you know, I have been a family physician at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the last 24 years. During that time I have done obstetric care as part of my practice and have enjoyed it immensely. As of December 31, 2005, I will no longer be delivering babies. There is good news in that it will give me more time with my family and time to pursue some other interests, but it is also bad news in that following pregnant women through their pregnancy and delivering their babies has always been the highlight of my practice.

It has come to my attention that many people think because I am no longer doing obstetrics that I will be discontinuing my practice altogether. That is totally untrue, and for the foreseeable future I will be continuing a full range of family practice except for the obstetrics. I hope to continue seeing children, adolescents, young adults, and beyond. For those who do need pregnancy services, I highly recommend Drs. Savopoulos and Buczynski, who are both trying to recruit further help. Malpractice premiums continue to be a challenge, and whenever anyone has the opportunity, we need public support with this problem because of the difficulty in recruiting physicians under the current circumstances.

Finally, I want to thank my patients for their confidence, and I am letting you know that I will continue to be here for some time.

Sincerely,
Karl E. Schwalm, M.D.

To the Editor:

Hats off to all of the hard workers last week who participated in the cleanup and utility restoration after the early snowfall in Garrett County. We can only thank God that the temperatures weren't below zero and the cold wind(s) weren't blowing. It could've been worse. Like the sign at Oakland's Get-n-Go read, "It could've been a hurricane."

When the tree branch was being cleaned up and electric lines were being fixed in Oakland, a detour was set up. It was another example of a bypass being needed in Oakland. It was hard for tractor-trailers to get through, around, and past other traffic. Not all truck traffic stops in Oakland. Some have to make deliveries in neighboring towns/states/counties. Without truck drivers and trucks, we'd be more than "in the dark" without electricity; we'd be hungry too. I'm surprised that the people who oppose the bypass don't try to have the trains stopped from entering Oakland. They are not passenger trains, and are by passing the area doing their job (s).

Many people in the area were without electricity for three or more days. Wouldn't it be nice if a shelter would be built in the area for times like that? Generators could be installed to provide electricity and heating for people in need, meals could be provided, and so on. Not only would it be nice for people affected by storms of various kinds, but it would also be nice for those who have no home to use temporarily until one is found. Aren't there grants for doing something like this? Grants are found to build arts centers and such at Deep Creek Lake. Perhaps local churches could operate such a shelter. It's only an idea.

To the Editor:

The heavy, wet snow that blanketed this region on October 24 and 25 caused extensive, unexpected damage to Allegheny Power's electrical system. With a large amount of foliage remaining, snapping branches and falling trees brought down miles of line, poles, and equipment – interrupting electric service to nearly 250,000 of our customers in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland.

The staggering numbers we are seeing from this storm place it as one of the top two events in our company history for damage caused. It created thousands of individual service interruptions needing repair.

As they have countless times before, the men and women who work for Allegheny Power have risen to the challenge, working up to 16 hours a day, responding to calls for restoration around the clock. More than 1,100 front-line workers, nearly 300 call center representatives and hundreds of support personnel – many who do not have power at their own homes – have worked since the storm began and will continue to do so until every Allegheny customer has power restored.

In addition to transferring our own line crews to the most heavily damaged areas, we've received assistance from outside contractors and neighboring utilities. As we've seen with the recent devastation caused by hurricanes in the South, it takes mutual assistance from many sources to repair major damage like this to an electrical system. We appreciate their help and support.

All of the workers involved in the restoration have put forth a tremendous effort. The line crews restored power to more than 100,000 customers in the first 24 hours after the storm began. Our call center logged more than 130,000 calls in the initial days of the storm, taking more than 8,000 calls per hour at the peak. All employees will continue to put forth their best efforts throughout this restoration. And, we will learn some things from this experience that will help us improve.

To our customers, we say thank you for your patience. We know that this is a difficult situation, and we are working as quickly as possible to restore your electric service. As with any major restoration event, our work must be swift, yet safe, for all involved.

To the Editor:

The recent tragic events brought on by hurricanes Katrina and Rita have dramatically underscored what can happen to our nation's poor and disabled – the most vulnerable among us – when government protections and health care services disappear. The vivid images of the most helpless people fending for themselves are not ones that I, or any other American, will soon forget.

Unfortunately, some government proposals currently under consideration in Washington have the potential to rip the rug out from under this country's neediest people again. The U.S. Congress currently is considering $10 billion in cuts in the Medicaid program over five years. The Medicaid program covers the poor and disabled, more than 50 percent of whom are children. Yes, Medicaid spending needs to be contained, but not in a way that will limit access for patients and end up costing more in the long run.

More than half of the proposed Medicaid budget cuts ($5.2 billion) will come from pharmacy, even though pharmacy reimbursement costs equal only 2 percent of Medicaid spending. Furthermore, the reimbursement formulas currently being discussed would mean that pharmacists would actually lose money for every Medicaid prescription they dispense! The result would be: pharmacies forced to drop out of the Medicaid program, patients losing access to needed medicines, and higher ultimate costs when patients end up in the emergency room or a nursing home.

Community pharmacists are in a unique position to help drive down Medicaid prescription drug costs, while at the same time maintain the health care safety net on which so many people depend. By encouraging patients to switch to generic drugs, billions of dollars could be saved every year. The percentage of Medicaid recipients who currently fill their prescriptions with generic drugs varies from state to state, but averages about 52 percent nationwide. A modest 8 percent increase in the use of generic drugs would save the Medicaid program $19 billion over five years – more savings than called for in the president's budget.

A sensible and fair reimbursement formula for pharmacists, one that would encourage dispensing generic prescriptions, would be a win-win-win solution: a win for patients, a win for Medicaid cost containment, and a win for pharmacists. Unless modified, the cuts in Medicaid currently being debated in Washington are worse than shortsighted. They are a prescription for disaster.

Sincerely,
Gerard A. Herpel

Iraq Oct. 19

My name is Bryan Carlson, a police officer with Oakland Police Department, and I'm currently deployed to Iraq with the Pa. Army National Guard. Our main mission here is MSR (Main Supply Route) security. I am the gunner/assistant tank commander on an M1A1 tank. Our mission is to secure the supply route for U.S. and Iraqi Army Convoys. We mainly look for IEDs (improvised explosive devices, aka "roadside bombs") and the insurgents who place them. We also do a lot of other types of missions.

I grew up in Ligonier, Pa., and graduated from Ligonier Valley High School in 1997. I joined the Pa. Army National Guard in 1999 as an infantryman. I later transferred to an armor unit. I graduated from the Pa. Municipal Police Academy in 1999, and worked as a police officer in Berlin and Rockwood, Pa. I joined the Oakland Police Department in August of 2003.

I mainly joined the Guard to help pay for college and serve my country. This is my second deployment since I've joined the Guard. My first deployment was to Germany in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. Our mission was to guard the bases from terrorist attack. I was also activated on 9-11 to help with the Flight 93 crash site (which was about 5 miles from our armory).

We arrived in Iraq in July, and have approximately nine months left in our tour.

We have full access to the Internet and e-mail. We have Internet in our rooms. We paid for the service ourselves (unit). We took the cost of the internet and equipment (which was left here by the unit we replaced), and divided between the soldiers that wanted the service. The Internet is usually up, unless there are sandstorms. One of the problems we face is that we have to maintain all of the equipment. If a part goes bad, it's not like back home where you can just run down to the local computer store. We can get some stuff from Baghdad, but usually it has to be shipped from the States, which takes up to 2 weeks.

Feel free to e-mail me with questions. I will answer them to the best of my ability and knowledge.

School System Hopes To Maintain Or Increase Good Attendance Rate

by Beth L. Bowers

As a whole, Garrett County students have fared well in regard to attendance, and educators hope to increase or at least maintain that record. This year, a new attendance policy has been implemented.

According to the Garrett County student handbook, "students must attend school and all classes regularly and be punctual because there is a direct relationship between regular attendance and academic achievement and completion of a school program."

The attendance policy states that "any student whose total number of absences exceeds 16 days for elementary, middle, and high school yearlong classes or eight days of absences for high school semester classes shall not be promoted or shall lose credit in those classes. Any student whose total number of unlawful absences exceeds eight days in elementary, middle, or high school yearlong classes or four days in high school semester classes shall not be promoted or shall lose credit in those classes."

A student and/or parent or guardian may proceed into the appeal process if necessary.

The number of absences permitted in high school has remained the same, but the number at the middle school level has gone from 20 to 16, and from 25 to 16 at the elementary school level, according to Dr. Phil Lauver, supervisor of pupil services.

He explained that a committee was created last year to devise a new attendance policy. This committee will meet again at the end of this school year to rediscuss the policy.

"There was a small percentage of students who missed a number of lawful and unlawful days last year," he said. "We needed to look at the entire process. The state also changed the definition of attendance, so we had to look at everything and adjust accordingly."

One of the changes was the difference between a half day and whole day. Previously, there was a flexibility of two hours. Now it is one hour. If a student comes to school more than one hour late or leaves more than one hour before dismissal, that student is counted as absent half a day, Lauver explained. But he added that there is also a plus to that difference. He explained that if a child is only present for one hour in the school day, he/she is counted as half day absent instead of an entire day absent.

"Our entire intent of this is because absences impact instruction," he said. "We also wanted it to be consistent through all grade levels. We want students and parents to understand that attendance is something that affects them after they leave school and enter the working world. We want to produce good habits in students."

Lauver, also a father of four, said that choosing the time for dental and doctor appointments may need to be reconsidered. "Sometimes things can't be avoided, but maybe making appointments after school or on days off should be considered. I know that Dr. Jim Jones is now offering appointments as early as 7 a.m. That not only helps working adults, but could benefit students also."

But, students, should be absent if they are ill, he said.

"We don't want to imply that parents should send children who are sick to school," said Jeri Jones of Pupil Services. "We want parents to realize that when students are absent they are missing valuable instruction, not just the actual work they need to make up."

"As a county, we have put a big push on attendance," said Dr. Pat Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation, and information. "It's simple – in order for students to learn they need to be present."

Attendance not only affects instruction, it also is reflected in how well the school is doing according to the state and nation.

When No Child Left Behind (NCLB) was launched two years ago, it required each state to define Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) and set the minimum levels of improvement. To make AYP, schools and school systems must meet the annual measurable objective in several areas, one of which is attendance. According to the state, 96% is rated excellent and 94% is acceptable.

While looking at the attendance policy, several intervention areas were explored, Lauver said. There are personnel at the high school level who focus on high school drop-out prevention and a family support work service that helps with intervention through parental contact.

Lauver said when comparing this September's attendance to last year there was no change, but when comparing this August and September to last May there was an increase in attendance at all levels.

"We'll just have to wait and see if there is a difference at the end of the year when we re-evaluate this, but the bottom line is we want to help kids with their ability to learn, and the best way to do that is to have them in school."

Authorities Seek Assistance From Area Merchants

The illicit manufacturing, distributing, and abuse of methamphetamine are extremely serious and growing problems, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Although use of methamphetamine initially was limited to a few urban areas in the southwest Unites States, this is no longer the case. Rural areas throughout the country are becoming more affected by the drug. Illicit use of methamphetamine is already taking place right here in Garrett County, according to Sheriff Dick Sanders.

Chief Deputy Major Gary Berkebile has recently requested the help of local merchants. Common items sold in stores can easily be used to manufacture methamphetamine, he said. Items such as cold products, including, but not limited to, Sudafed, Tylenol, Advil, Drixoral, Benadryl, and Robitussin, as well as many other generic brands contain pseudoephedrine and ephedrine. These two chemicals are highly coveted by drug traffickers who use them to manufacture methamphetamine for the illicit market.

The diversion of over-the-counter products containing pseudoephedrine is one of the major contributing factors to the methamphetamine problem in the United States. Inappropriate large retail level purchases by individuals attempting to procure pseudoephedrine for the illicit manufacture of methamphetamine have been documented as a source of much of the pseudoephedrine found in clandestine methamphetamine laboratories.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is requesting that local merchants inform them at 301-334-1911 when there is a theft or large suspicious purchases of items containing pseudoephedrine and ephedrine. Other items of interest being purchased in large amounts are camping fuel, lithium batteries, large quantities of matches, iodine, coffee filters, rock salt, battery acid, and swimming pool acid.

"It is not our intent to interfere with local business in any way," said Berbekile. "There is no need to report every purchase of the above-mentioned items. The Sheriff's Office simply needs to develop working relationships so that together, methamphetamine can be prevented from getting a foothold in Garrett County.

"The members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office sincerely believe that by working together we can prevent methamphetamine abusers, manufacturers, and laboratories from obtaining a hold in Garrett County."

Local business personnel with questions or concerns should contact Berkebile at 301-334-1911. The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force will follow up on all reports.

4-H Club News

SNOWY CREEK
by Hannah Sines

The monthly meeting of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club was held on Thursday, Oct. 20, at the Friendsville Elementary School. The program for the evening was presented by a park naturalist from New Germany State Park, Eric Savage.

The meeting was called to order by president, Drew Glover. The American Pledge was led by Colton Grove, and the 4-H pledge was led by Ashley Calhoun. For roll call the members had to name a type of tree.

Recent 4-H activities that were attended by members were the Livestock Association picnic and annual meeting, a buckwheat cake dinner, and the Pumpkinfest Parade in Confluence, Pa.

Mike Diehl gave a report about the buckwheat cake dinner.

Members were reminded to turn in their beef tickets and fair photo IDs and that Livestock Association dues were due.

The Club Fair Award committee was chosen, and the float for 2006 was discussed. Also discussed were the club activity for November, Adopt-a-Highway dates, and nominations for 2006 officers.

It was announced that Nov. 5 and 12 were beef weigh-in days, and that Dec. 11 would be the date for the Christmas dinner/meeting.

Drew Glover gave a demonstration on his beef project.

The next club meeting will be Nov. 10 at 6:30 pm at the Friendsville Elementary School, with dinner supplied for all members and their family.

Adorable Adoptables

DISPLACED FELINES SEEK NEW HOME TOGETHER – These two cats are already spayed, neutered, and declawed. "Their owners were expecting a new baby and felt they just didn't have the time for them anymore," said a Humane Society spokesperson. The felines are strictly indoor cats, and it would be best if they were adopted together. Also housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter is a young female calico, pictured above right, that was picked up as a stray. "She along with many other cats are hoping to be adopted before the cat room is full!" said the spokesperson. Also in need of a home is a spayed female husky-mix, pictured below left, that was kept inside. Her owner had to move to a nursing home. Below right is a male shepherd mix that was picked up along Pysell Crosscut Road last week and still has not been reclaimed. "He was wearing a red radio-shock collar," said the spokesperson. "He is nice, and we can't imagine why the owner has not searched for him. There were many dogs at the shelter this week, and many, as usual, were without collars or IDs. Please make sure your pet has identification on it, even if you keep it indoors or tied outside. When strays are brought to the shelter, it would help to be able to return them to their owners as soon as possible. This is particularly important when the dog kennels are full." For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553.

Deadline Extended For High School Diploma Exam

The deadline for applications for the upcoming Maryland high school diploma exam at Garrett College has been extended through Wednesday, Nov. 9. The exam will be offered on Thursday and Saturday, Dec. 1 and 3.

Students must demonstrate the ability to pass a practice exam at a local adult high school diploma class. The practice exam is free and is offered after a placement in math and reading.

For more information persons may call Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304.

New Arrivals

The births of two local babies were announced this week, a boy and a girl.

A son, Daniel Wayne Jr., was born to Daniel Wayne Sr. and Tammy Ranae (Butt) Tichinel, Deer Park, on Oct. 26 at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va.

A daughter, Samantha Rae, was born to Luke and Chrissy (Steyer) Keller, Accident, on Oct. 19 at Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

NOVEMBER IS NATIONAL FAMILY LITERACY MONTH, and to celebrate, the Overlook Judy Center Partnership has planned several events for parents and their children. See story for details. Pictured is Brandy Glotfelty reading to her son Nicholas at the Dennett Road Elementary School Family Literacy Night, which was held Tuesday evening.

Family Literacy Month Activities Planned In Nov.

November is National Family Literacy Month. To celebrate and to kick off the observance, the Overlook Judy Center Partnership sponsored a Family Literacy Night on Tuesday at Dennett Road Elementary School. Thirteen parents and fifteen children attended.

Patrick Damon, kindergarten teacher, facilitated a parent-training session and a parent/child activity. Tonya Helbig, Head Start manager, led the children's activities.

The Judy Center is sponsoring various other family literacy events during November to encourage parents to read to, and with, their children to ensure their school readiness.

Early Head Start parents and children are invited to attend a Pizza and Stories Night at the Overlook Judy Center, Oakland, next Thursday, Nov. 10, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Dorene Rogers from the Ruth Enlow Library will show parents how to get children involved in reading, even the very young. Each family will receive a free book.

Mary Ann Friend, kindergarten teacher, will facilitate a parent-training session and a parent/child activity at Yough Glades Elementary School on Tuesday, Nov. 15. Ruby King, Head Start teacher, will lead the children's activities. The evening will begin at 5:30 p.m. with a pizza supper. Each family will receive a free book.

Another Family Literary Night will be held Thursday, Nov. 17, from 5:30 until 7:30 p.m. at the Judy Center for Head Start and Judy Center Child Care Partners parents and children. A light supper will be followed by a parent-training session, facilitated by Nancy Fazenbaker, as well as a parent/child "make and take." Each family will receive a free book.

Parents who are interested in attending any of these events or would like more information about how to read to their children may call the Judy Center at 301-334-4211, ext. 111.

The Overlook Judy Center Partnership is a school enhancement collaboration between the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett County Community Action Committee. The center is funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and is part of a statewide initiative to promote school readiness by supporting children ages birth through 5 and their families and teachers.

Jazz Musician T.S. Monk To Perform At FSU's Manicur Assembly Hall

Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series Jazz Club, sponsored by Kauffman Music, will present drummer, vocalist, composer/arranger T.S. Monk on Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in FSU's Manicur Assembly Hall.

Monk has received the New York Jazz Award's Recording of the Year recognition and Downbeat magazine's Reader's Poll Award.

"He is known for his hard-swinging jazz compositions and surrounds himself with superb musicianship that has spanned a spectrum of styles from R&B to traditional jazz," said an FSU spokesperson.

"Critics and the public lauded T. S. Monk as his father's (Thelonious) true musical heir, as a bandleader and a performer. One of the most unique groups on the circuit, the T.S. Monk Sextet's cohesive and driving style has been heard at the JVC Jazz at the Bowl Festival, Sun Valley Center, Lied Center for the Performing Arts, Kennedy Center Jazz Series, Lincoln Center, and many of the legendary jazz clubs."

Prior to his evening performance, Monk will lead an educational jazz session beginning at 3:30 p.m. in Manicur Assembly Hall. He will discuss his style of jazz music along with performance and composition technique. This session is free and open to the public.

His performance is sponsored by Tri-State Hand and Occupational Therapy, supported in part by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and funded in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts and in part by the Allegany Arts Council.

Monk's tour is made possible by a grant from the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program.

Tickets are $25 for the general public, $20 for children under 12 and FSU staff and faculty, and $10 for FSU students. To purchase tickets or obtain more information, one may call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

Rethink Recycling Sculpture Contest Winners Announced

The Rethink Recycling Sculpture Contest, sponsored by the Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, took place earlier this month at the Visitors Center in McHenry for Northern and Southern high school students.

Three first-place winners and one honorable mention winner were chosen. A winner was to be selected from each grade level; however, there were no ninth grade entries. The tenth grade winner from Southern High was Sean Sisler with his sculpture titled "The Farm." Doug Kisner, who is in the eleventh grade at Southern, took first place with "Ocracoke Island." A first-place prize also went to Amber Winans, a senior at Southern, for her sculpture "Bob." Honorable mention went to Carly Chase of Northern High for her untitled sculpture.

"We were fortunate to have three very different judges: Commissioner Fred Holliday, who has a real eye for recycled materials; Ms. Megan Battista, who recently taught children at the Montecito Fine Arts School in Arcadia, Calif; and Mrs. Katharine Smith, who has been published in both writing and photography," said Kimberly Madigan, recycling coordinator.

"Each judge brought a unique perspective to the task of selecting the pieces that would not only win in this Garrett County contest, but would also be representing Garrett County at the Maryland Department of the Environment on Nov. 18 at the state contest," Madigan added.

Garrett Art Group Works On Exhibit At The Gallery

The Garrett County Arts Council is exhibiting paintings by members of the Garrett Art Group at the Gallery in Oakland through Nov. 19. A public reception for participating artists will be held Thursday, Nov. 10, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The following members of the Garrett Art Group are exhibiting recent works: Sue Arnson, Nancy Biggs, Madalyn Hoffeditz, Odette Lueck, Judy McCaughey, Fred Peacock, Evelyn Silkey, Eric Smith, Tiddle Wheeler, and Bonetta Winters.

The Garrett Art Group originated in 2003 after an Arts Council painting workshop with instructor Alexis Lavine. A small group of workshop participants began meeting weekly at the Gallery in Oakland to paint and exchange ideas. After a second Lavine workshop the following year, additional painters expressed interest in working together on a regular basis, and the group began meeting at members' homes. Finally, the group approached the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park as a possible painting venue, and participants have met there on Monday mornings from 10:30 to 12:30 for the past year.

"It's a loosely formed group," a spokesperson said. "On Monday mornings the members either paint or draw. Frequently, paintings are put up for critique from the group. The main purpose of the painting group is to have fun, give support to each other, and share ideas."

The Garrett Art Group currently consists of eight regular members and two or three infrequent members. A total of 15 painters have joined the group at one time or another. All participants are watercolor painters with the exception of one oil painter.

Additional information about the Garrett Art Group is available by calling Sue Arnson at 301-245-4528. For information pertaining to the Gallery exhibit and the Nov. 10 reception, persons may call the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or visit the council's web site at www.garrettarts.com.

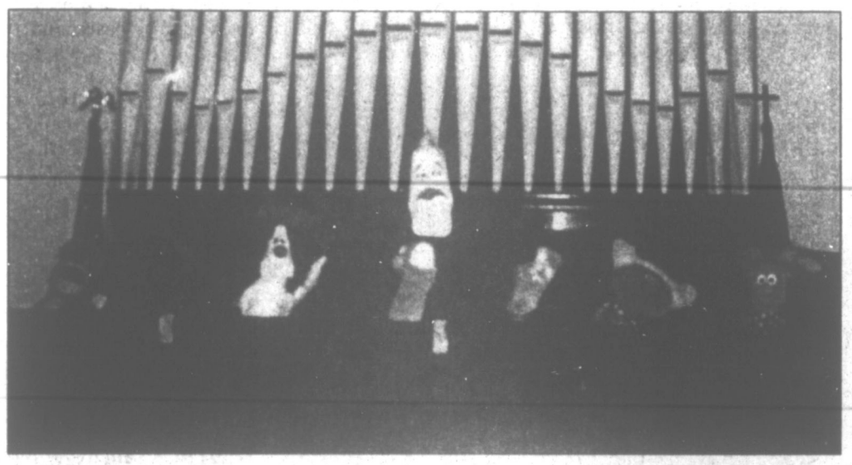
SWANTON KIDS TO PRESENT PUPPET SHOW – The Swanton Kids for Christ Puppet Ministry Team will present "You are the Light of the World" at Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church next Thursday, Nov. 10, at 7:30 p.m. "This is an exciting black-light show that is enjoyable for all ages," said a team spokesperson. The puppet show will be presented again at the Riverton United Methodist Church, Seneca Rocks, W.Va., on Nov. 12. The team is from Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church and was formed three years ago to provide youth with fellowship and a chance to minister. Since then, the members have performed throughout Garrett County and parts of West Virginia. On Sunday, they presented their black-light show at Calvary United Methodist Church in Keyser, W.Va. The team was also responsible for coordinating a bike-a-thon for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. The fundraiser was held at Broadford Lake Park in May and garnered more than $2,000 for the hospital. Pictured above, left to right, are Ryan Ford, Anna Ford, Sara Sweitzer, Mollie O'Brien, Samantha Gibson, Brandon Custer, and Beth Sweitzer. Not pictured are director June McClosky and parent volunteers Lois and Glen Custer and Fran Ford. The team, open to youth in sixth through ninth grades, meets every Thursday from 4 until 5 p.m. at Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church.



Despite Short Stature, Kids Spin Mighty Tall Tales At AGF

The Autumn Glory Tall Tale Story and Book Festival took place recently in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, where students from Broad Ford, Yough Glades, and Dennett Road elementary schools participated. The event raised funds for the scholarship program of the American Association of University Women.

The stories were unusually good this year, according to the judges, who noted that each participant did an exceptional job. "Storytelling is considered one way to become a more confident speaker and communicator for later job success," said festival director Dr. Gail N. Herman.

First prize went to Hannah Newcomb for her original story of "The Runaway Phone Bill"; second prize went to Colt Mason and Brandon Umpel for their story, "The 96 Point Buck", and Cara Brack and Mandy Sweitzer earned third prize for their story "Gone Fishin'."

Devon Job took the Best Story award for "The Building Butterfly," Tiffany Keller received Best Telling for "The Homeless Girl and Dog," and Madison Cooper received the prize for Best Voice in "The Magic Color Butterfly." The award for Best Facial Expressions went to Raeslee Weimer and Karisa Weissgerber, who told of "The Visit" from George Washington, while Jessica Cooper, Julian [illegible], and Alex Miske received Best Movements and Costumes prizes for their "Tootsie Pop Interview." [illegible] Arnold received a prize for the Most Humorous Story with "A Nice Scientist."

Sara Jones received her prize for Best Exaggerations with her tale about a mouse and a snake. Nikita Rodeheaver's story "The Super Eater" earned her the award for the Most Creative. Austin Skeweris had the Best Beginning and Ending for his original story "The Magic Arrow," while Kelsey Eichorn and Grace Hoffman were the Most Entertaining in telling about their "Corn Maze" experience. Sydney Leegeer, Julia Weaver, Samuel Thomas, and Sara Sweitzer's rendition of Sally Ann Crockett received Most Dramatic kudos.

Megan Fitzwater and Rachel Thompson received accolades for being the Most Original, and Devon Tracey, Alex Meyers, and Colton Peck received the award for Poise. Elliot DiGoia received his prize for the most Amazing Characters in his original story of "Nailman, the Football Star."

Prizes were donated by First United Bank and Trust, Garrett College Adventure Sports Program, CVS, Book Mark'et, Arrowhead Market, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, American Association of University Women–Garrett Branch, Garrett 8 Cinemas, Taco Bell, Farmers' Market, and Mark IV Office Supply.

A number of schoolteachers assisted Herman and the parents with the children's stories: Carole Glotfelty, Barbara Heilig, Jackie Stuck, Barbara Ponceroff, Susan Wilburn, Amy Flannigan, Jodi Nichols, David Yoder, Ramona Stevenson, and Shirley Skillman, all of Broad Ford Elementary; Lori Adams (librarian), Linda Martin, Linda Newcomb, Sharon DiGioia, and Sue Hillen, all of Yough Glades Elementary; and Patricia Foley and Cheryl Smith of Dennett Road Elementary.

CINDY'S FUND-A-THON RAISES $1,300 – The community responded in a big way to a call from Cindy's Fund on Sunday, when the first Cindy's Fund-A-Thon raised $1,000 in donations and $300 in quilt ticket sales to help fund early cancer screenings in Garrett County. The benefit featured 16 acts of local talent on the Southern High stage, including Bittinger-based gospel bluegrass band Windy Ridge, above, and Oakland's Andrews Sisters, below. Windy Ridge is composed of, from the left, Olen Beitzel, Ron Beitzel, Garland Maust, Steve Yeash, and Don [illegible]. Andrews Sisters feature the harmonies of [illegible], Donna Cook, and Linda Goodrich. "We thank [illegible] volunteer talent and support we received [illegible] event, and the numerous donations received [illegible] door and through phone pledges," said spokes[illegible] Sandy Bell. Additional donations are accepted [illegible] continuing basis by Cindy's Fund, P.O. Box [illegible] land, MD 21550.

tors, and a mystery dinner at the Deer Park Inn, but none of these were as successful as the house tours," she said. "It is personally satisfying to me that the present board has kept the event almost exactly as I started it."

She noted that there are many positive memories of the early tours, such as Dr. Tom Johnson performing chamber music at a home being shown on Second Street in Oakland, and a special guest, Art Rooney, taking the tour.

"We at the Red Cross would like to thank everyone over the years who have opened their homes for this event," Heginbotham said. "And we thank all the ladies who served as hostesses, all businesses who have donated the beautiful gifts used as raffle prizes at each home, and the Amish community for the donated quilt.

"This is the 14th tour, and it promises to be one of the best ever," she said.

The five homes on the 2005 tour are those of Ralph and Ronda Keefer, Ruth and Robert Hinebaugh, Kevin and Cindy Heselbach, Dan and Bobbi Fornear, and Chuck and Linda Wieland.

Tickets for the tours, including all ages, are $8 in advance and $10 on the days of the event. They will soon be on sale at the following pharmacies: Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek, as well as Arrowhead Market. All proceeds from the ticket sales will go to the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

The directions to the various homes will be printed on the back of the ticket, and directional signs will be placed at intersections to help guests find the locales. Local businesses have donated a variety of items that will be raffled off at each location. Guests will be asked to remove their shoes before going into the homes, and no photographing or videotaping will be allowed.

Feature stories about all the home sites will be published in The Republican over the next several weeks, leading up to the Dec. 2 and 3 event. The first of these features is published in today's issue.

Secrets of the Sideshows
by Joe Nickell
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer
University Press of Kentucky, c. 2005, $32.95, 401 pages

Imagine a life with no TV. Most of us can't. Television is our source of entertainment, information, and sports. It's a near-social necessity. Wouldn't you feel really left out if you didn't know about Friends, or who Elmo was, or who shot J.R.?

What did people do before television, anyhow? Well, aside from listening to the radio, they probably joined their families and friends and went to the circus or carnival when it came to town. There, they saw amazing things and astounding creatures. But how did that magician make his lovely assistant's head disappear? Was that mummy real? Eeeuw, wherever did that giant rat come from? The answers are in the new book Secrets of the Sideshows by Joe Nickell.

For thousands of years, people have been entertained by conjurers and jokesters; the earliest record of a magician comes on a papyrus from 1550 B.C., and jugglers and acrobats are shown on Egyptian art dating back almost a thousand years before that. Gladiators, minstrels, and clowns were popular entertainers over the centuries, but Nickell says that Philip Astley is considered the father of the modern circus. Astley owned a field where he erected a building and assembled magicians, trick riders, and other performers to put on shows for Londoners.

Perhaps the best-known showman was P.T. Barnum. Barnum got his start in a rather unique way. While he was working in the grocery business, he learned of a slave who was reportedly 161 years old and had supposedly cared for George Washington. Although the truth was that she was no more than 80 years old, Barnum purchased the woman in 1835 and she was soon grossing $1,500 a week for him. Barnum's career as a showman was launched.

Now, about those attractions. Maybe you've paid your buck-a-peek or "one thin dime" to walk through a sideshow. Perhaps you've even seen a real barker in action. But is Alligator Boy really half human/half reptile? Wow, can they train genuine fleas? How do they cut the pretty lady in half? Does the Man with Three Eyes actually have three eyes? Well, says Nickell... that all depends on whom you ask.

Using history, real carny language, stories from former sideshow workers and owners, and from Nickell's own archives, Secrets of the Sideshows is a wealth of information for circus fans or anyone who's wondered how those seemingly impossible illusions are created. I liked this book, not because it laid to rest questions I had about how things are done, but for the stories of the "human oddities" that performed in sideshows because it was quite often the best way for them to make a living in a time before special effects and political correctness.

Ladies and gentlemen, step right up. See the five-legged cow! See the jackelope and the two-headed goose! Watch the Human Blockhead pound nails into his nose! Feast your eyes on the headless girl and Myrtle without a Middle! They're live! They're real! And Secrets of the Sideshows is really a lot of fun to read.

Ram Booters Pull Major Playoff Upset Of Huskies

After advancing to the quarterfinals of the Class 1A West Region playoffs with a 2-1 victory over host Clear Spring on Saturday, the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team pulled off a stunning, 2-1 upset of heavily favored Northern Tuesday night on the Huskies' field.

The Huskies came into Tuesday's contest with an overall record of 12-1 and three previous regular-season victories over the Rams, who upped their overall mark to 5-9.

The Rams will now face Beall in a semifinal match to be played at 3:30 p.m. this Friday at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland.

In the contest with Clear Spring on Saturday, Ethan Chorpenning put the Rams up 1-0 with 13:30 to play in the first half, scoring unassisted.

It appeared that Southern would take that advantage into the locker room at intermission, but Clear Spring's Brandon Barlow hit an unassisted goal with just 30 seconds remaining to knot the score.

James Naylor recorded what would be the winning goal for the Rams, taking a pass from Chorpenning and sending the ball past the Blazer keeper at the 17:28 mark of the second half.

The Rams finished with a 14-9 advantage in shots on goal, while each team was awarded four corner kicks. Mike Edwards earned the win in goal for Southern, where he recorded seven saves. Aaron Mills had nine saves for the Blazers, who finished their year with a record of 1-12-1.

Despite the fact that the Rams were out-shot by the Northern Huskies Tuesday night at the Cove by a lopsided 25-5 margin, and had only two corner kicks, compared to nine for Northern, the Rams managed to put two of those five shots into the goal to record the big win.

Another key was the outstanding play of Edwards in the net, who turned away shot after shot by the Huskies.

The Huskies wasted no time taking the lead, as Zack Beitzel scored off a pass by Elijah Lais just 3½ minutes into the match.

But the score was still 1-0 at intermission, and nearly halfway through the second half. But Southern's James Naylor knotted the score at 1-1 with a goal off a feed by Sean McCreery at the 26:21 mark.

McCreery then hit what would be the winning goal, unassisted, with 24:21 left in the match.

"We dominated play, but Southern countered very well and got just what they needed to win the match," stated NHS assistant coach Lynn Lais. "McCreery played an excellent match, plus Edwards did a great job for them in the goal.

"It was a very disappointing loss for us," Lais added.

If the Rams are able to pull off yet another upset of Beall (11-4) this evening, they will advance to the 1A West Region championship match, slated to be played next Tuesday.

Beall advanced to the semifinals by blanking Fort Hill, 5-0, Tuesday evening.

PERHAPS THE BIGGEST UPSET of the 2005 area high school soccer season was recorded Tuesday at Northern High School, where the 4-9 Southern Rams edged the heavily favored, 12-1 Huskies in a Class 1A West Region quarterfinal match. The Rams reached the quarterfinals by nipping Clear Spring by the same score in an opening-round match on Saturday, while the Huskies earned a bye in the first round. The conditions at Husky field were wet and rainy, as is evidenced in these photos by John McEwen. Zeroing in on the ball in the photo above are Northern's Ryan Bowser (#12) and Southern's Sean McCreery (#24). In the background are Zack Beitzel (#8) and Brian Schlosnagle (#17), both of Northern. Beitzel scored the Huskies' only goal, while McCreery had an assist on the Rams' first goal and scored the winning goal. Below, from left, are Northern's Zack Lipscomb (far left), Ethan Chorpenning of Southern (#18), James Naylor of Southern (#13), and Northern's Taylor Jones (#9). Naylor scored the first goal for the Rams, who were out-shot by the Huskies by a 25-5 margin. See story for details.

NHS Girls Upset Westmar, But Stopped By Smithsburg

The girls' varsity soccer team of Northern High School edged host Westmar, 2-1, in an opening-round match of the Class 1A West Region playoffs Saturday afternoon.

The victory was considered a significant upset, as the Wildcats came into the match with an 8-5 record and with two of those wins being over the Huskies during the regular season. Northern entered the match with a 3-10-1 mark.

The season did, however, come to an end for the Huskies Tuesday evening when they were blanked by powerful Smithsburg, 6-0, on the Leopards' field.

The Huskies took a 2-0 lead over Westmar in Saturday's match at Lonaconing, and then held on for the one-goal win.

After a scoreless first half, Brittany Stein finally put the first goal on the board for the Huskies, scoring off a pass by Emily Brenneman six minutes into the second half. It was Stein's eighth goal of the year.

An unassisted goal by Brenneman with 21:52 to play made it 2-0.

Katie Sloan made sure that the Wildcats were not shut out by hitting an unassisted goal with 9:18 left in the match to conclude the scoring.

The Huskies had a 23-7 edge in shots, and led in corner kicks, 4-3. Katie Fratz had four saves in goal for Northern, while Westmar's Rae Fazenbaker turned away nine shots.

It took Smithsburg (12-1-1) only 45 seconds to take the lead for good over the Huskies in Tuesday's night's quarterfinal match, as Shannon Fowkes hit an unassisted goal.

Less than three minutes into the contest, Jenna Burns doubled the Leopards' score with a goal off an assist by Carley Jones.

Second Half

S - Chelsea Hoover, unassisted, 37:45.

S - Cara Jordan, unassisted, 18:18.

Fowkes struck again at the 33:55 mark with an unassisted goal, and with 8:11 to play in the first half, Shelby Layman scored unassisted to give the Leopards a commanding 4-0 lead at intermission.

It became 5-0 just over two minutes into the second half when Chelsea Hoover scored an unassisted goal for Smithsburg, and Cara Jordan concluded the scoring with a goal on a corner kick with 18:18 to play.

The Huskies were outshot by a 25-6 margin, and trailed in corner kicks, 8-0. Kasie Fratz recorded 11 saves in goal for Northern, while Kirsten Cacciola had five saves for the home team.

"We are a very young team," stated NHS coach John Milbourne. "We have only two seniors. Our girls took their knocks this season, and will return as better players next year. They have too much heart to settle for anything less. I'm very proud of them."

Southern Girls Play Well, But Fall To Beall In Playoff

A tough season came to a close Tuesday evening for the Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team, but not before the Rams played a solid match against heavily favored Beall in a Class 1A West Region playoff match at Mt. Savage.

The Rams took their 3-11 record onto the field against the once-beaten Mountaineers (11-1-1) and were defeated by a respectable 2-0 margin.

Beall's Kierstin Stevenson put the first goal on the board, scoring unassisted at the 34:57 mark of the first half.

Doubling the Mountaineers' score with 6:32 to play in the half was Tasha Wilhelm, who also scored unassisted on a direct kick.

Huskies Declaw Wildcats In 48-0 Homecoming Win

A Halloween homecoming game turned out to be all treat for the Northern High Huskies, whose stifling "Grave Digger" defense buried Westmar in a 48-0 shutout victory Monday night. NHS grudgingly relinquished just 28 yards of offense to the visiting Wildcats, while the Huskies' ground game rolled up 426 yards of its own in improving to 6-2.

The big win unfolded only after Northern shrugged off a slow start, according to NHS coach Phil Carr. "We didn't play real well early on; I think missing several days of practice because of the weather slowed us down. We made some mistakes early on, and were not executing well."

The Huskies began to find their groove midway through the first quarter, when senior quarterback Casey Kamp scored on an option keeper at the 8:44 mark. Five minutes later Kamp turned in another score when he scampered 28 yards on an option play, and a two-point conversion run by junior fullback Corey Carr put NHS up 14-0.

Northern scored three more touchdowns in the second stanza, the first coming after just 50 seconds of the quarter had expired as senior halfback Tyler Warn sped 25 yards to hit pay dirt. Carr got in the act when he broke for daylight on a 27-yard scoring carry with 8:33 showing on the clock. A little over three minutes elapsed before Warn rushed for his second TD from four yards out.

Warn exploded for his third touchdown at the 10:55 mark of the third period, when he reeled off a 59-yard scoring run. The final touchdown of the contest came with two minutes remaining, when NHS senior Mitch Fost scored on a one-yard plunge.

The statistical wrap-up only added to Westmar's woes, as Warn added to his already impressive resume by piling up 177 yards in just a dozen carries. The speedster currently has 1,016 yards on 101 carries for a 10-yard-per-carry average – making him a virtual first down machine. "Tyler has got to be one of the top backs in the area," Coach Carr commented.

Kamp had two touchdowns and 74 yards on six carries, prompting Carr to observe, "Casey worked the option offense great all night, as he has pretty much all year. There's not a tougher kid on the field when he's out there, either."

Corey Carr finished with 54 yards on four carries, including a 27-yard run in the second quarter.

Junior defensive end Jason Doerr paced the immovable Husky defense with 11 tackles (five solo) and two sacks, while sophomore stand-up nose guard Matt Mason recorded 10 overall tackles.

The Huskies held Westmar (1-6) to three completions in ten attempts for 19 yards, and nine yards on 27 carries. NHS also forced the Wildcats to punt nine times.

Facing what could have been a short week for the second time this season in an upcoming contest slated for tomorrow against Meyersdale, the Huskies got a reprieve when the Red Raiders earned a berth in the Pennsylvania state playoffs recently. Northern's next home game will be the regular season finale, slated for Friday, Nov. 11, when the Southern Rams visit the Cove.

"The Southern game is a must-win for our playoff hopes, and its always our toughest game of the year no matter what the records are going in," stated Carr. "Some other things have to happen as well for us to have any chance. We're in a three-team race for two playoff spots, and it's going to be hard for us to pick up any bonus points. Boonesboro is heavily favored to win its last two games, so Fort Hill must lose its last two for us to have a shot. Luckily for us, the Sentinels will be facing Beall and Allegany, and there's a chance they could be beaten by both those teams."

Northern JVs Bag Turkeyfoot In 41-Point Win

NHS's Bobby Wingrove paced the victors with 10 carries for 102 yards and a touchdown, while Zach Fratz scored two touchdowns.

Northern wasted no time in asserting its dominance as the Huskies scored three times in the first quarter and twice in the second. Fratz struck first with a 15-yard touchdown run, then teammate Eric Espada matched that salvo with a 15-yard scoring carry of his own. Ben Diehl capped the first-quarter scoring with a 30-yard TD carry.

Wingrove scored the game's last touchdown on a 15-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Fratz tallied 63 yards on six rushes, and Gillum and Wingrove had two interceptions apiece. Dustin Platter recorded three sacks.

NHS is slated to visit Southern in a 7 p.m. matchup on Thursday, Nov. 10.

MIGHTY ELUSIVE PREY – Quarterback Casey Kamp (#10) is shown above escaping from a quartet of Westmar defenders during Northern High's 48-0 Homecoming win over the Wildcats Monday night. The senior field general has had a spectacular season, showing a true touch in guiding NHS's complicated option offense. The Husky defense all but flattened the Wildcats, as exemplified below in a crushing tackle made by safety Nick Payne (on his feet) and linebacker Corey Carr (on the ground). Turnovers Costly As Rams Corralled By Sentinels, 21-16

Turnovers, as they so often do, proved costly for the Southern High School Rams, who gave up possession on one fumble and three interceptions, and went down to defeat to visiting Fort Hill last Friday, 21-16. All three of the Sentinels' touchdowns were set up by Southern turnovers.

The loss was the fifth in eight starts for the Rams, while the Sentinels improved their mark to 6-2.

Fort Hill drew first blood when Scott Rice capped a 36-yard drive with a two-yard touchdown run with 2:26 left in the first quarter. It was set up by a Southern fumble. Levi Mallow booted the extra point to make it 7-0.

The Rams came back in the second quarter with their first touchdown, recorded by Adam VanBogelen on a one-yard carry. Bret DeWitt's successful two-point conversion run gave Southern an 8-7 edge, which remained until the third quarter.

The Sentinels took the lead for good at the 9:14 mark of the third period when A.J. Zembower hauled in a 45-yard touchdown pass from Jeff Lee. The conversion kick was no good, leaving Fort Hill with a 13-8 advantage.

The visitors would stretch their lead early in the fourth stanza after another Ram turnover, as Drew Yurko scored a touchdown on a 15-yard carry. He also ran for the extra two points to give the Sentinels a 21-8 advantage with 11:16 left in the game.

The Rams did not quit, however, and scored again with just 58 seconds to play, with VanBogelen hitting Ryan DeWitt with a 13-yard touchdown aerial. Bret DeWitt ran for the extra points.

An ensuing on-side kick attempt by the Rams was recovered by the Sentinels, who ran out the clock.

Southern's Bret DeWitt recorded 128 yards on 22 carries to take individual rushing honors, while Fort Hill's Lee completed eight of 13 passes for 149 yards and a touchdown.

VanBogelen spearheaded the Ram defensive effort with 11 tackles, and Jeremy Gregory had an interception. Fort Hill's Sean Whitacre grabbed a pair of interceptions.

"Overall, we were pleased with how we played," stated SHS coach Fred Gregg. "Our offensive line did a very good job, and our running game went very well. Defensively, it was our best effort of the year. Even their coaches commented on how physical our kids were.

"But, of course it's frustrating to play that well and still not get the win. If we had played this way the previous week [against Frankfort], I feel sure we would have won that game," he said.

"Our turnovers were certainly a problem, but really two of the three interceptions were desperation situations, with our receivers well covered. Only one of them was just a bad throw, with one of our receivers wide open," he said.

Gregg added that, despite the very physical nature of play, his team emerged from the game in reasonably good health.

It will take good health and another outstanding effort by the Rams this week if they hope to get back into the win column. They will travel to Clarksburg to take on Liberty of Harrison County, a West Virginia team that is 8-1 and right in the thick of the state playoff hunt.

"We will definitely have our hands full," Gregg said. "This team is similar to St. Vincent Pallotti in that they have outstanding skill people."

Among the highly skilled players on the Mountaineers' multiple-I offensive unit is senior quarterback Marcus Broadwater (6-4, 204).

"This guy is the real deal," Gregg said. "He can throw, he can run, he's fast, he's strong, he's their punter and their kicker... he's a complete athlete who will surely be playing somewhere (college) next fall."

Other standouts on offense are junior tailback Erik Robey (5-9, 160), junior fullback Dustin Lister (6-1, 215), and junior split end Aaron Bailey (5-9, 160).

"Robey is unbelievably fast, Lister is a strong, hard runner, and Bailey has both great speed and great hands," Gregg said. "We are going to have to figure out a way to contain these people before they get started, because we have no one who will be able to catch them if they get loose."

The Mountaineers' 5-3 and 4-4 defensive sets are anchored by junior middle linebacker David Kipp (5-11, 235) and senior corner Mike Grilli (5-8, 140).

"Grilli is not very big, but he is fast, strong, and absolutely fearless," said Gregg. "He plays with an attitude; just right on the line between what is legal and what is not, which is really how you want all of your kids to play."

Friday's kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

DIRECTIONS TO LIBERTY HIGH

Persons from Garrett County planning to attend Friday's game at Liberty High School in Clarksburg should follow these directions: Take I-68 west; merge onto I-79 S at Morgantown toward Fairmont/Clarksburg; take Exit 119, which is Bridgeport/Clarksburg-U.S. 50; go west (right) on U.S. 50; exit at Chestnut Street; continue on Chestnut Street for approximately 1-1½ miles; turn right onto Harvey Street, which runs directly to Hite Field; and make the first right into the parking lot.

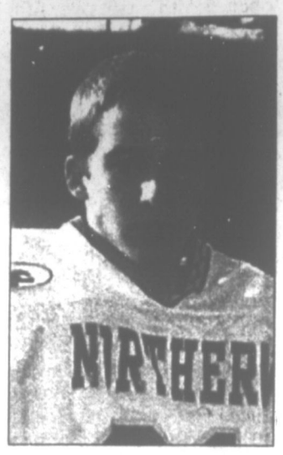
Gillum Competing In PPK Contest At Ravens Stadium



Grantsville resident Kyle Gillum will compete in this Sunday's team round of the nationwide NFL/Pepsi Punt, Pass, and Kick competition at Ravens Stadium in Baltimore.

Kyle earned the berth in the team competition by taking first place his 14-15 age division at last month's sectional competition in Westminster, where individual scores will be determined by a tally of each competitor's punt, pass, and kick.

Team round winners may have the opportunity to advance to competitions slated to take place at NFL stadiums during the league playoffs in January.

Kyle, 14, is the son of Greg and Ramona Gillum.

Div. II Steelers Going To CAYFL Championship

The Northern Steelers Division II squad earned a trip to this weekend's Cumberland Area Youth Football League (CAYFL) championship contest by prevailing over the Oakland Rams in a 6-0 slugfest Saturday at Northern.

The defensive battle was scoreless after three quarters of play, and finally, in the final stanza, a 12-yard run by Northern's Kameron Kamp perched the Steelers at the door of the end zone with a first-and-one. Jacob Bosley then hammered the opportunity home by cashing in with a one-yard TD carry.

In a match-up highlighted by outstanding defensive play by a number of defenders on both teams, special recognition was accorded to Northern's Michael Byrnes and Zach Meyers, and Oakland's Jakob Scheffel.

The unbeaten Steelers (8-0), coached by Buddy Duckworth, will go up against the Cumberland Patriots for the CAYFL Super Bowl crown at 4 p.m. Saturday at Frankfort High. The Division I championship game will pit the Ridgeley Hawks against the Keyser Mini-Tornado at 2 p.m. on the same field.

Oakland's Division II squad finished with a 6-3 record.

Lakers Eliminated From Region XX Tourney After Taking One Of Three

The Garrett College volleyball squad closed out its 2005 campaign this weekend in the Region XX Tournament in Catonsville. The fourth-seeded Lakers were eliminated during the opening day's pool play, which opened with a win over fifth seed Beaver followed by losses to Hagerstown and Frederick (first and eighth seeds, respectively).

Garrett hitter Yolanda Anthony, a sophomore from Beckley, W.Va., was named to the Region All-Tournament Team.

GC got off on the right foot by downing Beaver 30-23, 30-18. "We came out strong and focused," Laker coach Ann Wellham said of the winning effort.

Freshman Julia Bosley paced Garrett with five kills, 10 digs, five service points, and one ace, while sophomore Tabitha Beitzel recorded nine points and nine digs and classmate Brittany Jackson had six kills. Freshman Kayla Nazelrod netted eight points, five kills, and three digs, and sophomore Yolanda Anthony contributed 14 assists and six kills.

Frederick then defeated the Lakers an extremely close 2-1 match. The Cougars took the first by a 40-38 tally, Garrett bounced back to take a 31-29 win, and Frederick took the tie-breaker 15-10.

Jackson recorded eight kills, and Anthony had 16 assists, seven kills, seven digs and one block. Sophomore Jhonna Newby tallied seven kills and one block, Bosley had four kills, five digs, and two aces, and Nazelrod netted had four kills. Sophomore Lindsay Butler pulled out 10 digs, while Beitzel had nine and freshman Jayme Miller had seven.

Hagerstown sent GC packing in a 2-0 sweep, 30-17 and 30-17. Nazelrod had four kills, four digs and one block, Beitzel had five points and eight digs, and Bosley six digs.

"It was very difficult to get up for the Hagerstown match after the heartbreaking loss to Frederick," Wellham commented. "Our passing percentage was one of the lowest we had all season."

The Lakers actually still had a chance following that loss to enter elimination play because Beaver and Frederick split and both lost to Hagerstown, thereby setting up a three-way tie involving Garrett for second place in the pool bracket. A one-game playoff took place, with Frederick downing Beaver in the first contest, then GC lost a tough battle to the Cougars by a score of 30-27. "We were so close, but made too many mistakes to win the match," said Wellham.

Hagerstown eventually won the Region Tourney the following day by sweeping the College of Southern Maryland in three straight. The Hawks are now heading for the NJCAA National Tournament in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Garrett finished the season with a 13-19 overall record, and a 6-4 JUCO mark.

Frantz Helps Pace FSU Netters Into Playoff Tourney

Local resident Amanda Frantz, a junior at Frostburg State University, has helped guide the FSU volleyball squad into the postseason tournament of the Allegheny Mountain Collegiate Conference. The Bobcats won their first playoff outing Tuesday night in a 3-1 home court win over Pitt-Greensburg.

Going into the tourney, the Northern High and Garrett College graduate had turned in a fifth-place performance for the AMCC regular season in kills per game (3.6) and total kills (349). She was third on the FSU squad with 43 total blocks, fourth with 172 digs and fifth with 31 service aces, posting six double-doubles during the campaign.

Among Frantz's best performances was a 27-kill, 11-dig effort in a 3-2 loss to Penn State Altoona, and a 23-kill, 17-dig showing in a 3-1 defeat at Waynesburg.

The Friendsville resident distinguished herself during Tuesday's playoff battle by reeling off three kills down the stretch of the Bobcats' 30-13 match-clinching victory over Pitt-Greensburg. The win boosted FSU into an AMCC quarterfinal match tomorrow night at Penn State Altoona.

HS Volleyball Playoff Slate Announced

Southern High will host the winner of the NHS-Allegany contest on Monday, Nov. 7. The Rams (12-2) are seeded third in the postseason. On that same day top-ranked Fort Hill (13-1) will host the winner of the Smithsburg-Clear Spring pairing; second-ranked Boonesboro (13-1) will host the winner of the Beall-Hancock match up; and fourth-ranked Williamsport (11-3) will host fifth-ranked Westmar.

Southern Mat Club To Begin 21st Campaign

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team is set to begin its 21st season. The club is the feeder system for the Southern Garrett High School wrestling team, and has produced area champions, state champions, and even national champions.

According to coach Dave Taylor, the club teaches the fundamentals of folkstyle wrestling with the emphasis on good sportsmanship, team concept, and hard work. The club is open to all students from kindergarten through 8th grade, and there are no tryouts. All children who join will compete, Taylor said.

An informational meeting will be held next Monday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m. at the new Southern Garrett Rescue Squad hall along Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park. All students and their parents who are interested in joining the Southern Mat Club should plan to attend this meeting. Those unable to attend, but desiring more information, may contact any current team member, club president Terry Murphy (301-334-2369), coach George Scheffel (301-334-8181), or Coach Taylor (301-334-3855).

Jr. Hunt Days, New Certificate Program Slated

Maryland's upcoming Junior Hunt days, specifically set aside for hunters 15 and under, are slated for Saturday, Nov. 12, for deer, and Saturday, April 15, for turkey, according to the Wildlife and Heritage Service of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

All junior hunters must possesses a valid hunting license or be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements. Each participant must be accompanied in the field by an individual who is 21 years old or older who also possesses a valid Maryland hunting license or is exempt from hunting license requirements, and is not afield with a firearm, bow, or other hunting device.

The agency is also offering a new program whereby hunters 16 and under can earn state-issued certificates commemorating their deer or turkey taken during any of the 2005-06 deer and turkey hunting seasons. A DNR junior hunter photo gallery has also been created. Photographs of junior hunters and their game can be submitted for publication on a special web site dedicated to Maryland's junior hunters, and photographs can also be included on their certificate.

Each deer or turkey must be taken to an official DNR junior hunter certificate agent, where the junior hunter will receive a Maryland junior hunter decal and information card. The card will explain how to order their certificate, which can be requested by mail or online.

The local junior hunt certificate agents are B.J.'s Store, 11329 Savage River Rd., Swanton, 301-777-0001; Chestnut Ridge Gas & Liquor Store, 2534 Chestnut Ridge Rd., Grantsville, 301-895-3197; and D&B Sport Shop, 832 Edgewood Dr., Deer Park, 301-334-9725.

Man Charged

Chatham, 26, Hampstead, and the pair had been hunting on private property off Glendale Road earlier that day. One of the bears was seized by NRP officers, while no charges were brought against Chatham.

Major, who was charged with exceeding the one-bear limit for the hunt, reportedly told authorities that he had taken aim at one bear in a group of five and appeared to have wounded it. He said he fired a second shot to kill the animal, but when he came out of his tree stand he found two dead bears, and conjectured that one of his shots may have hit the two bears.

Major said he plans to plead guilty with that explanation during a Jan. 13 hearing in Garrett County District Court. The offense carries a maximum penalty of $1,500 and/or six months in jail.

State Officials Meet with 219 Impact Group

The Route 219 Citizens Impact Group met last Thursday, Oct. 27, to hear reports from representatives of the Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA), the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT), and the McCormick-Taylor Engineering firm.

Over 100 area residents were in attendance.

The current goal of the Route 219 group is for officials to conduct a full study on their proposed alignment for the completion of Route 219 from Interstate 68 in Grantsville to Meyersdale, Pa. They felt that the original area of consideration for development was too limited, and suggested an alternate route over Red Ridge.

Raja Veeramachaneni, director of planning and engineering in the Baltimore office of the SHA, opened the meeting by explaining the governmental process involved with developing major projects.

"With a project of this magnitude, we must go through the full environmental impact study as required," he said.

He explained that the first of several steps is defining the need and purpose for the project. Next, they must identify all the alternatives.

"There is no limit," Veeramachaneni said. "We talk to citizens and get their alternatives, then get the experts in and get their input. We come up with variations and new alternatives, and under federal law, we're required to consider them equally, whether one person or many came up with it.

A SNOW ROSE? A blooming rose bush is a rare sight in late October on the mountaintop, but a snow covered bud is even more unusual. Becky Wilson made this discovery during last week's unexpected snow storm and e-mailed The Republican a photo. The bloom was later covered by nearly a foot of snow.

Everyone has ideas — we look at each of them and take it to a certain level until we decide that there are fatal flaws, then we don't look at it any more."

He explained that the purpose of the meeting was to address the group's questions.

"We need to hear more," he said. "This is not a hearing — we have not come to a successful conclusion. We are seeing significant obstacles. We all looked at it, made presentations, and sent comments, then assembled our facts together. Now we will present them to you and go through the issues."

Barry Schoch of McCormick-Taylor presented a map showing the general alignments. He noted that the "Ridge Alternative" meets the purpose and the need of the project. However, another test is the impacts to the environment and the engineering. While the mileage involved is not significantly different in the various alternatives, the Ridge option presents a significant difference in the terrain.

"They all start at the same point, but the difference is in what happens in between," he noted. "They all start at the same elevation, but have a different terrain."

This difference results in more earth needing to be moved and an increase in the size of the bridges. He noted that the removal of the material is not a problem.

"We can engineer it," he said, "but it is an added cost — we would have to move more material, and it 's not easy to haul over the terrain."

Schoch also listed the environmental issues involved, including the need to go around state game lands in Pennsylvania that are protected by both the state and the federal government. Other issues include the likelihood of threatening endangered species such as the Indiana bat.

Veeramachaneni noted that the rest of the overall study was placed on hold for several months to evaluate the Ridge Alternative.

A question-and-answer session followed the presentation.

Several questions were raised about the endangered species issue.

"No one is saying that it's definitely a fatal flaw," said L. Bert Cossaboon of McCormick-Taylor. "They found that it's likely that they are there, but they are also on the other options. We're left with a comparison, and it looks like a greater impact on the other side of the ridge."

Another question was raised about whether people are studied and considered as well.

Dawn Noel of McCormick-Taylor noted that air quality and noise studies are conducted, with a goal being to reach an alternative that balances everything.

"Don't think we don't care about people impacts," Veeramachaneni said. "The law also covers communities as well as individual homes. Our last resort is mitigation. We do the best we can to avoid it and minimize the impacts."

He noted that the issue will go to public hearing at some point, and everyone with an interest will have the option to provide feedback.

"We wanted to hear some of the issues," he said. "We will take the issues back to the administrator. Normally, I make the decision, but because of the public interest, the administrator is personally involved. We will take back all the important input that we've gotten. There's some we haven't heard before, and it was good to hear it today."

Md. Environmental Laboratory Assn. To Meet At Wisp

The autumn meeting of the Maryland Environmental Laboratory Association (MELA) is slated for Thursday, Nov. 10, at the Wisp Resort near Deep Creek Lake. Registration, a social period, and a continental breakfast will open the event at 9 a.m. The event is sponsored by Analytical Products Group Inc.

"MELA was established in 1990 to promote communication among member laboratories, regulatory agencies, and the laboratory community," explained MELA member Dale Baker, laboratory director for Garrett County Public Utilities. "The organization is represented by private commercial laboratories, as well as local, state and federal agencies. MELA holds regular quarterly meetings to accomplish its mission."

The technical program will include a presentation from Melissa McNamara, of Analytical Products Group. McNamara will discuss that company's new online, graphically based reporting tool "Advantage Reporting," which allows users to simplify tracking accreditation and present PT data in a way that it can be used to improve laboratory performance.

Baker, who will discuss "A Small Systems Solution to a Laboratory Information Management System," will show how he created a Laboratory Information Management System (LIMS) on a Microsoft Access database to serve his Garrett County Utility customers.

"Applying Microsoft Access to Laboratory Data Needs" will be presented by J.D. Kronicz, LIMS consultant.

There also will be a question, answer and discussion session on training requirements, information systems, databases, and electronic data handling.

Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) Water Quality officer Mary Stancavage will discuss news from the Drinking Water Laboratory Program and MDE inspector Marlene Patillo will discuss news from the department's Wastewater Laboratory Program.

Registration fees are payable at the door. To preregister or obtain further information, persons may call Baker at 301-387-6162.

Returning as emcee for the salute will be local radio personality Paul Mullan.

Special guests will include the parents of men and women serving in the armed forces. These parents will participate in a special candle lighting ceremony to honor all veterans and their families. The Garrett County commissioners will introduce the parents prior to the ceremony.

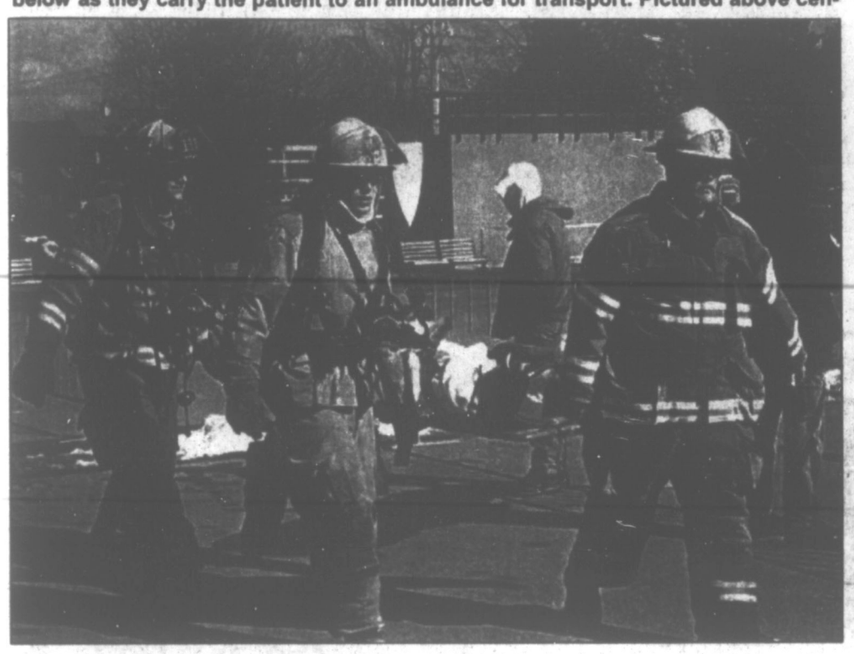
ALL ASPECTS OF A MAJOR RESCUE OPERATION were covered Saturday in a large mock disaster drill, with numerous fire and rescue personnel taking part in the event. Hosted by the Garrett County Emergency Management with the help of many other agencies, including the Deep Creek Fire Department and the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, the drill helped rescue personnel imagine the consequences of a large scale disaster. In the photo above rescuers treat a victim with a suspected spinal injury and prepare her for evacuation. Firefighters are pictured below as they carry the patient to an ambulance for transport. Pictured above center are members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office SRT (Special Response Team) as they practice their terrorist response training. Shown below center is Doris Beal at left as she applies "moulage," special injury makeup, to Kierra Wilkins, a Garrett College criminal justice student, to prepare her for the drill as a victim. In the top right photo, rescuers are shown as they prepare to decontaminate anyone exposed to the "mustard gas" on the scene, and in the bottom right photo, Lara Hollingsworth, a head injury victim, is shown as she receives treatment from a first responder. Photos (and all information) provided by Erica Mowbray.



Garrett's Largest Mass Disaster Drill Staged Saturday At Wisp

Considerable effort and resources over the past several years have been utilized to improve the disaster response capability in Garrett County. Included in this ongoing training was the largest simulated disaster drill ever staged in the county, which took place on Saturday. This project was the culminating event after months of planning, according to spokesperson Erica Mowbray, one of the many organizers of the event.

The main goals of Saturday's exercise were to improve county emergency operations and prepare for disasters, man-made or natural. Some of the objectives within those goals included: assessment of the operation of decontamination equipment and personnel, assessment of crime scene management and perimeter control, assessment of emergency medical services (patient care and transportation), evaluation of fire suppression operations, and tests of communication equipment and procedures.

Through the efforts of Jamie Rodeheaver of the Deep Creek Fire Department and the State Fire Marshall's Office, and Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management, arrangements were made with the West Virginia University Fire Extension Service to utilize its Symtron A-3000 Firetrainer. The Symtron, a plane fuselage, allows many scenarios to be run, including training for firefighters to extinguish internal cabin and engine fires, and law enforcement training such as crime scene management and terrorism response.

Saturday's drill scenario was that a commercial airliner flying over Garrett County had to make an emergency landing because of a suspected terrorist on board making threats. Pilots had to make a hard landing at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. The hard landing caused a small fire in the wheel area, which extended into the cabin.

Emergency management received information that there was a male passenger on board carrying a suspicious package. Initially dispatched were the Deep Creek Fire Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Subsequently, the Sheriff's Office SRT (Special Response Team) was notified and upon its arrival, members gained entry into the plane and subdued the terrorist.

Also called to respond were county fire departments with the capability to decontaminate anyone on scene who came in contact with the terrorist's "biohazardous" material, which had caused mock victims to experience severe blistering and other physical symptoms. The substance was later identified as mustard gas. ("Moulage," special make-up, was applied to victims to demonstrate typical injuries found in a trauma scenario, as well as to demonstrate the effects of mustard gas on the skin.)

Ambulances from Northern Rescue, Southern Rescue, and Garrett Transport were called to provide treatment and then transport some of the victims to Garrett Memorial Hospital, which also actively participated in the drill.

Maryland State Police officers from the McHenry Barrack and Med-Evac Trooper 5 were called for assistance.

Several other agencies provided evaluators and support for the drill, including Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute, University of Maryland, Maryland State Police, the Garrett County Board of Education, Garrett College, Wisp Resort, State Highway Administration, Garrett County Roads Department, Garrett and Allegany Health Departments, Garrett County Department of Social Services, Allegany County Emergency Management, and Maryland Emergency Management Agency.

More than 40 victim volunteers, including local citizens as well as drama and service learning students from Southern and Northern High School, participated. Ten Introduct to Criminal Justice class students from Garrett College also participated as a course assignment. Mowbray, who teaches the course, said she thought the experience would be a "wonderful supplement" to classroom lecture, and would give students a first-hand opportunity to observe the criminal justice system in action.

"Even though the victims got more than they bargained for because of icy cold and windy conditions, many stated that they enjoyed the day, learned a lot, and were ready to do it again," Mowbray said.

•368 hunters participated in the hunt, after 2,192 hunters had applied for a permit.

"Our primary goal is to slow the growth of the regional black bear population," Peditto said. "This effort is an unqualified success toward that end and secures the future for responsible scientific management of black bears in Maryland. The successful and safe outcome of our second modern black bear hunt continues the remarkable wildlife management success story of black bear management in Maryland."

Recycling

"Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling and the board of county commissioners would like to congratulate residents and businesses on the improvement in our recycling efforts," Madigan said. "We all need to keep up the good work. Although the county has reached a 50.4 percent recycling rate, we will continue to encourage residents and businesses to not only recycle everyday, but also reduce waste at the source."

Source reduction means the design, manufacture, purchase, or use of materials or products to decrease the amount of waste generated. It includes reuse, waste elimination, package reduction, and substitution. Examples would include using rags instead of paper towels, packing lunches in reusable containers, and donating usable items to those in need.

Recycling in Garrett County is free of charge. A sticker is not required to deposit recyclables at the county's seven refuse disposal and recycling sites. Materials that may be recycled are newspapers, telephone books with covers removed, glass bottles and jars, aluminum cans, cardboard, #1 and #2 plastic jugs and bottles, office paper, used motor oil, and antifreeze.

Additionally, the Solid Waste & Recycling Division has extended its fall magazine recycling project. Magazines, catalogs, guides, obsolete brochures, or paper with a high-gloss or shiny appearance may be placed in a container at the Visitors Center in McHenry until Dec. 15. See separate story in this week's Republican for details.

"We're not going to sit back on our laurels," Madigan told the commissioners about the county's recycling success. She wants the rate to increase even more. Madigan and the commissioners discussed the possibility of offering magazine recycling on a permanent basis and the construction of a recycling center at the Garrett County Landfill.

"I have an idea in mind," Madigan said about the design for the center. She has been visiting other centers, however, to help finalize her vision for the project. She hopes to bid the project out next spring.

BRENDA'S FOLKS RAISE MONEY FOR CINDY'S FUND – The students and members of Brenda's Body Shop have participated in a month-long campaign for breast cancer awareness and to raise money for Cindy's Fund, a local organization devoted to assisting people in Garrett County with early cancer screening and detection programs. Funds were raised from pink merchandise sales, and banners to honor cancer victims and survivors which were displayed in the Autumn Glory parades. During the week of October 17-21, Brenda's Body Shop donated $1 for every person wearing pink to class. Then, as a culminating event, the shop hosted a special workout, with proceeds all going to the fund. "I am so impressed with the continued support of this campaign throughout the month," said Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop. "During our 'Think Pink' week, we had over 150 people wearing pink to classes. And we are grateful to those who participated in our workout to complete the campaign." The total amount raised for Cindy's Fund was $3,608. Pictured above in front is Rick Kutchman, accepting the check on behalf of Cindy's Fund, from Lisa Malone (center), and Brosnihan. Standing in the first row, from left, are Tonya Vernon, Amanda Proulx, Patricia Sherrard, Mariah Coddington, Jian Travis, Kayla Dawson, Avonlea Bowman, Morgan Brosnihan, Samantha Taylor, and Callie Vernon. Row two, same order: Alyssa Kline, Jill Utterback, Alyssa Cowgill, Rebecca Bittinger, Alicia Horner, Pat Vanbuskirk, and Patricia Falkner. Back row: Tiffany Yoder, Sheri Perando, Chasity Kent, and Becky Bowman.

Garrett College Panel To Profile Lives Of International Women

"International Women: Aspirations and Conditions," a panel presentation on international women's experience of life in their home countries and here in the United States, will be presented in the Garrett College Auditorium from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 10. The free event is open to the public.

The discussion will focus on roles of women, families and personal relationships, education, career, challenges and dreams. Five countries will be represented – India, Latvia, Lithuania, Bosnia-Herzegovina, and Estonia.

Marilyn Moors, president of American Association of University Women (AAUW) and a retired professor of women's studies and anthropologist, will facilitate the panel conversation.

A reception will follow in the college art gallery for those interested in meeting the women and other international students, male as well as females, and other American students.

"This is a chance to learn about the lives of women in other countries," said Global Education coordinator Judy Carbone. "We can learn the difficulties these young women faced and opportunities in their home countries, as well as their original perception of American women and if that has changed since coming to the United States."

The event is co-sponsored by the AAUW, Business and Professional Women of Garrett County, and Garrett College.

SGCRWC ATTENDS STATE CONVENTION – The 84th convention of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women (MFRW) took place recently in Cumberland, as approximately 100 members of Republican Women's Clubs from across the state gathered for meetings, workshops, an officers' election, and a presentation by Rep. Roscoe Bartlett on the potential for a world oil crisis. The event was directed by west region chairperson Ruth Umbel of the Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club (SGCRWC). Pictured from the left in the foreground are SGCRWC vice president Nita Roberts, treasurer Arzella Parsons, and president Ann Rebele, with MFRW president Betty Jane Carroll in the background. Magazines Can Still Be Recycled; Project Extended

The Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, General Services Department, with the assistance of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, is extending its fall magazine recycling project.

"The program has been extended one month, due to an overwhelming response," said Kim Madigan, the division's recycling coordinator.

The recycling container is already full and will be taken to Pen-Mar Recycling in Cumberland and replaced at the Visitors Center, McHenry, on the same day, she noted. The container will remain at the Visitors Center until Dec. 15 for collection of magazines.

Once again, magazines, catalogs, guides, obsolete brochures, or paper with a high-gloss or shiny appearance may be brought to the container for recycling.

"Please deposit the materials directly into the container – no bags or cardboard boxes," Madigan said.

Residents and businesses are invited to participate in the magazine recycling program. All of the materials collected will be recycled at Pen-Mar. During the spring pilot program, 6.49 tons of materials were delivered for recycling.

"Keep up the good work!" Madigan said. "We would like to thank the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for their continued support with this recycling project."

If additional information is needed with regard to the magazine recycling project or any other recycling issue, one may call Madigan's office at 301-387-0322.

Student Drugs, Alcohol Use Declines In Md.

by Mari Perry
Capital News Service

Maryland students drink, smoke and use drugs less than their counterparts did two years ago according to the 2004 Maryland Adolescent Survey released Wednesday.

First lady Kendel S. Ehrlich told the state board of education that parents can help this trend continue by staying involved in their kids' lives.

"You're not supposed to be your kid's friend," Ehrlich said. "You're supposed to be your kid's parent. They need you as an excuse" to get out of doing what their friends may be pressuring them to do.

The survey, released at the board's October meeting to a standing-room only crowd, was conducted by the state's Department of Education, Department of Transportation, and Department of Mental Health and Hygiene.

More than 34,000 sixth-, eighth-, 10th- and 12th-graders throughout the state anonymously answered questions about their alcohol, tobacco and drug use. The results weren't all rosy, however. There were slight increases in the use of certain types of drugs among the younger students surveyed.

The use of inhalants and alcohol was up among sixth-graders since the last survey in 2002. Also, Maryland sophomores and seniors were more likely to have smoked marijuana than cigarettes, according to the survey. But more students have tried alcohol than have tried smoking.

The study found cigarette smoking often begins at a young age. One-third of the seniors who smoke said they started before they were 12.

Ehrlich spoke at the board meeting because of her involvement with the Teen Advisory Council of Maryland, a group of high schoolers that meets throughout the year to discuss issues such as drug and alcohol use.

She said she was at first alarmed to find out the survey included sixth-graders, whom she initially thought were too young to be using drugs, drinking or smoking. But she said she has learned that some young students are involved in such behavior.

"We need to get parents aware and talk to kids as young as possible" about the negative effects of drugs, drinking, and smoking, Ehrlich said.

The survey found students are less likely to drink, smoke, or use drugs if they have a strong family life and adults who worry about their whereabouts. Ehrlich educated the board members about the meaning of the popular phrase "420," pronounced "four twenty," a drug culture term signifying the ideal time to smoke marijuana.

"It's the time you can start smoking pot if you're home alone, and people around the world will be smoking with you," Ehrlich said.

She said it's important for children to not be left home alone in the hours of 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. because that is when they would experiment with drugs and alcohol. "Sex too," Ehrlich said, her voice rising. "God forbid we talk about that!"

Student board member Joshua Michael, a senior at Centennial High School, agreed with Ehrlich that students should have more supervision in the afternoons, saying that could be a reason keep schools open later.

He said school buildings should be open later in the afternoons and more activities for teens should be available through the schools, particularly middle schools.

The Maryland Adolescent Survey is modeled after the National Institute on Drug Abuse's Monitoring the Future survey. The results can be compared for all but sixth-graders, who aren't surveyed nationally.

Maryland high school seniors use marijuana at a slightly higher rate than seniors nationally, according to a comparison of the surveys. More than 40 percent of 12th-graders in Maryland have tried marijuana, and nearly 70 percent have drunk alcohol.

A member of the Teen Advisory Council, Michael said he was interested that the study shows drug use follows money. In affluent areas such as Howard County where Michael lives, "there's a lot of use of alcohol and drugs because of the availability – the money factor," he said.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about cases of breaking, entering, and theft at homes under construction.

Sometime between the nighttime hours of Oct. 25 and 26, unknown persons entered two houses under construction located near Wisp Mountain Road at the top of the mountain. The perpetrators left the area with a number of items from the various construction trailers and houses. The items were valued at several thousand dollars.

A minimum reward of $1,000 will be paid for information received that leads to the arrest and charging of the responsible individuals.

Persons who have information about this case or any other unsolved crime are urged to contact the Garrett County Crime Solvers at 301-334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names or appear in court.

NATIONAL RESPIRATORY CARE WEEK OBSERVED – Garrett County School Health Services recently observed National Respiratory Care Week. Eric Tribby, director of Garrett Memorial Hospital's cardio pulmonary department and a member of the Garrett County Asthma Coalition, was the guest speaker for the October meeting of the Garrett County School Health Services staff. Tribby presented an overview of asthma and other pulmonary diseases. The nurses were presented with supplies that were purchased through grant funds provided by the Garrett County Asthma Coalition. Among the supplies given was a nebulizer and supply of tubing for each school. Garrett County's school nurses determined the best way to honor the efforts of their colleagues in respiratory care was to increase knowledge of asthma and other obstructive airway diseases. Pictured above, in the front, from the left, are Gloria Miller, RN; Donna Gilpin, LPN; Sharon Bogard, RN; and Kathy Shumaker, LPN. In the back are Peggy Logsdon, RN; Tribbey; Alma Ryan, CNA; Lorainne Stephens, CNA; and Teresa Harvey, RN. Absent from the photo were Kurt Lear, supervisor of CTE; and Becky Aiken, RN, lead nurse.

TAKING IT ALL IN, Garrett County resident George Varndell III is shown on the lap of Brandi Folk, an occupational therapist with the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program, during July's Prader-Willi Syndrome Association National Conference in Orlando, Fla. The Infants and Toddlers Program offers a full range of services and support to meet a variety of needs in its target age group. See story.

GC Infants & Toddlers Program Enhances Life From Beginning

Local resident George Varndell III was among a group of Garrett Countians who traveled to Orlando, Fla., in July to participate in the 27th annual national conference of the Prader-Willi Syndrome (PWS) Association.

PWS is a genetic disorder that affects one in every 12,000 to 15,000 people. George is receiving services through the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program, according to program coordinator Yvonne McConnell. "There is no cure for PWS but with early diagnosis affected children can thrive," McConnell said.

PWS typically causes low muscle tone, growth and developmental delays, feeding problems, and poor weight gain in infancy, later followed by an insatiable appetite that can lead to overeating and morbid obesity.

Growth hormone therapy (GHT) is now widely used in PWS to help children grow taller, develop more muscle mass, increase metabolism, and reduce the risk of obesity. Physical and occupational therapy along with GHT help motor development to approach age appropriate milestones. Speech and language therapy help with speech delays.

"Early intervention can help children affected by Prader-Willi syndrome reach their full potential," stated McConnell.

One venue for such early intervention is the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program, which is administered through the Garrett Partnership for Children and Families. The interagency, early intervention program is designed to enhance the development of infants and toddlers who may experience developmental delays by providing assistance to families by securing therapy and treatments in needed areas. Services may include special instruction, speech pathology, occupational therapy, physical therapy, psychological services, and family education and support.

Every child from birth until age 3 is eligible for screening and assessment to identify health and education needs.

For more information on Prader-Willi syndrome, persons may contact the Prader-Willi Syndrome Association at 1-800-926-4797 or national@pwsausa.org. To refer their child to the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program, parents and/or guardians may call 301-334-1189.

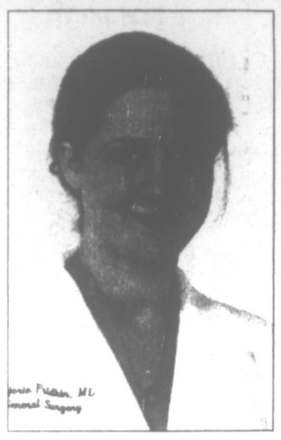
New Surgeon Joins Ranks Of GCMH Doctors



Dr. Marjorie Fridkin has joined the staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH), where she will practice general surgery, as well as provide some gynecologic services. She said she hopes women who have previously left the county to be treated by a female surgeon will now stay to be treated at GCMH. Her specific interests include breast cancer treatment and anorectal pathology.

Fridkin completed her undergraduate studies at the University of Michigan. She received her medical degree from the University of Maryland, and recently completed her surgical residency at Boston University.

As a senior medical student, Fridkin spent two months with Dr. Kaiser while completing requirements for rural practice. She has also traveled to Honduras with Dr. Dona Alvarez and the Central America Medical Outreach (CAMO) program.

"I love it here and I didn't want to be in a big city anymore," commented the new Oakland resident. "Really, it was all just kind of serendipitous."

Fridkin, who will be sharing office space with Alvarez, can be reached by calling 301-334-1751.

GCMH SUBACUTE PATIENTs REUNITE – The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Subacute Rehabilitation Unit recently held its seventh annual patient reunion. The unit opened in 1997 and has helped hundreds of patients who are too sick to return home or need additional short term treatment or therapy, but not sick enough to remain in an acute hospital setting. "The reunion shows former patients that we care about them," said Debbie Hawk, Subacute Unit nurse manager. "We feel that we have contributed to their successful rehabilitation and want to show them that we appreciate them as much as they appreciate us. "The reunion is held each year in October to coincide with the original opening of the unit. Past patients and their guests were invited to spend the day enjoying the company of former caretakers and roommates. Patients were also treated to snacks and refreshments, as well as door prizes. "A gentleman jokingly announced, 'One of the door prizes should be week in the Subacute Unit,'" Hawk said. For more information about services offered at GCMH, persons may call 301-533-4041. BASS PRO SHOPS MBNA 500 REVIEW

A sweep at Atlanta

Carl Edwards flips over AMS victory

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Hampton, Ga.

Carl Edwards is making a career of defying conventional wisdom.

Just three years removed from the dirt tracks of Missouri, he outran NASCAR's marquee stars to win Sunday's Bass Pro Shops MBNA 500 at Atlanta Motor Speedway, giving him three victories this season and a sweep of the two races at AMS.

And he's still in solid contention to win the Chase for the Nextel Cup, a position few in the sport, including his car owner Jack Roush, realistically expected with just three races remaining at Texas, Phoenix and Homestead.

After Sunday's race, Edwards is tied for fourth in the standings, 107 points behind leader Tony Stewart, who finished ninth and extended his lead to 43 over Jimmie Johnson, who faded to 16th at the end.

Edwards said the title is within reach.

"I did not expect to pick up this many points, and anything can happen in racing," he said. "We're not going to quit until the last lap of the last race."

Sunday's race also was evidence that even drivers not in the Chase aren't going to quit until the season ends at Homestead-Miami Speedway in three weeks.

Jeff Gordon, a winner a week ago at Martinsville, finished a strong second, and Dale Earnhardt Jr. dominated early, leading seven times for a race-high 142 laps, before handling problems relegated him to fourth.

But the big story was the way Edwards surged to the front in the second half of the race, and in a larger sense, the way he continues to emerge as one of the sport's top drivers in a little more than a year's time.

Last August, Edwards, 26, was racing for Roush in the Craftsman Truck Series. When veteran Jeff Burton vacated the No. 99 Ford to drive for Richard Childress, Roush gave Edwards the position.

Few, including Roush, realistically expected the results Edwards has delivered.

"For him to have led this team to three wins and to have the blue sky that he's got and the potential he's got is beyond my wildest imagination," Roush said, adding that his latest Cup hire may not be through springing surprises — like making a run for the title.

"I wouldn't bet against Carl Edwards," Roush cautioned.

Edwards' performance at AMS on Sunday was flawless. He led eight times for 115 laps, including the final 86, to win by half a straightaway over Gordon. His teammates, Mark Martin and Matt Kenseth, took third and fifth, respectively.

Gordon was impressed.

"[Edwards] was smooth and fast and made some great moves out there," he said.

Stewart had praise, too, and he counts Edwards among the drivers he has to beat to win the title.

"He's a short-track driver," Stewart said. "He's not one of those kids who is going to give up."

Stewart seemed relieved to be leaving AMS with an increase in his points lead from 15 to 43 over Johnson.

"I'm happy," he said. "Obviously we wanted to run a little better than we did, but at the same time we did what we needed to do."

He acknowledged that his lead isn't large enough to adopt a more conservative strategy.

"A 43-point lead with three races to go isn't any cakewalk by any means, but it's a small amount of breathing room," he said.

The rest of the top seven in the standings — Greg Biffle, Edwards, Ryan Newman, Mark Martin and Matt Kenseth — all are within 155 points of Stewart, although the odds of making up the difference are growing longer.

But for the three drivers at the bottom of the points chart — Rusty Wallace, Kurt Busch and Jeremy Mayfield — the odds are almost insurmountable.

Driver shuffle hinges on Ganassi's decision

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Hampton, Ga.

Roush Racing president Geoff Smith said Sunday morning that behind-the-scene activities during the next seven days likely will determine whether Jamie McMurray replaces Kurt Busch in the No. 97 Ford next season or the two drivers stay put.

McMURRAY

It's already agreed that McMurray will replace Busch in 2007, the same year Busch is set to become the driver of Penske Racing's No. 2 Dodge, which is being vacated by the retiring Rusty Wallace. But efforts are ongoing to accelerate the swap.

"If it's going to happen, it'll happen this week," Smith said. "I think the probability is much more toward a transaction working than it is falling apart."

The key player at this point appears to be McMurray's current owner, Chip Ganassi, who has been reluctant to let McMurray leave one season earlier than planned unless he can sign a top-notch replacement.

"In order for it to work, there has to be a driver for Chip," Smith said. "All I can say is 10 days ago it wasn't going to work for Chip, and now it can work. I assume he's got somebody."

Ganassi said that's not so.

"I don't know what [Smith] is thinking," Ganassi said. "I need a driver. Nothing's changed on my end."

Bobby Labonte is among candidates to drive the No. 2 Dodge next year if Busch is unable to take the seat.

Stewart not talking about title

Even though he is leading Nextel Cup standings with just three races to go, Tony Stewart said it's too early to talk about a title, especially under the current format.

STEWART

In the Chase, drivers compete for points against all 43 drivers, not just the 10 in the Chase, and that creates the possibility of a huge points swing with one bad finish.

"One race could take us to fifth place in points, probably," Stewart said. "You just don't know until after the race and you see the points sheet and you can assess the situation. It's a little too early to get eager about it right now."

No passing in the grass

Kyle Busch ran with the leaders Sunday until he was penalized for passing in the grass during a pit stop at Lap 161.

He said he was simply trying to avoid a collision with Greg Biffle.

"I got run out in the grass, so I held my position and they called me for passing [on pit road], so I'm pretty disappointed in that," Busch said. "We had a strong enough car where we probably could have been in the top five." Instead he finished 12th.

Busch stops late, blows past field on fresh tires

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Hampton, Ga.

Kyle Busch made a bold call to stop for new tires with just a handful of laps remaining in Saturday's EasyCare 200 Craftsman Truck Series race at Atlanta Motor Speedway, but it took an even bolder bit of driving to get his No. 15 Chevrolet to Victory Lane.

When the caution flag flew for Ted Musgrave's blown tire on Lap 124, Busch, running second to Jack Sprague, headed to the pits while Sprague and seven others remained on the track, which put Busch in ninth, with only three green flag laps to make up the difference.

Slicing through the field, he was fourth after one lap, third after the second and had moved to second place as the lead pack headed to the fourth turn for the final time. When Sprague moved high to block, Busch stood on his accelerator and squeezed between Sprague and the wall to take the top spot.

NASCAR

Kyle Busch (15) leads Jack Sprague on his way to victory at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

Then the real trouble started. Sprague slipped down the track and clipped Bobby Labonte, who slammed into the wall, only to be hit by Todd Kluever, who bounced off Labonte into the inside wall, his truck accelerating all the way because of a stuck throttle.

When NASCAR finally sorted out the scoring, Todd Bodine was credited with the runner-up spot over Johnny Benson, Sprague and Labonte.

Busch, a Nextel Cup rookie running a partial Craftsman Trucks schedule, compared the last-lap melee to a scene from a movie.

"That was more or less a Rowdy Burns from 'Days of Thunder,' running me up into the fence," Busch said, blaming Sprague for the damage done to the winning truck.

"He was trying to go for the win, but he knew he wasn't going to get it," Busch said. "I don't know why he tore up our perfectly good truck that we're taking to Texas next week.

"We're going to fix it and give him that back right there."

Sprague said the incident was just a product of hard racing.

"That was pretty cool," he said. "But it didn't work out quite the way I had it planned."

Busch's win was his third of the season.

HOW THEY FARED

A look at how Chase competitors performed Sunday

1.) Tony Stewart: He struggled near the bottom of the top 10 much of the day, but claimed five bonus points after Dale Earnhardt Jr. waved him past to lead Lap 59. "Obviously we wanted to run a little better, but we did what we needed to do," Stewart said. "It wasn't near as impressive as Jeff Gordon or Mark Martin. But in the big picture, it was a solid day for us."

2.) Jimmie Johnson: The defending race champion failed to lead a lap despite running in the top 10 during much of the first half of the race. Johnson missed a top-15 finish after the handling of his Chevrolet faded near the end. "We were competitive at one point," Johnson said. "I just feel like the car was abusive, and we were wearing the right rear [tire] out."

3.) Greg Biffle: Used pit strategy to lead five laps after staying on track during the fifth caution. He complained during the closing laps that his Ford wouldn't turn. "We just have to make up points on [Stewart]," Biffle said. "We made up a little bit on [Johnson] today and a little bit on [Newman], but we've got to finish more than one spot ahead of [Stewart] to gain anything on him."

5.) Ryan Newman: The pole winner at Atlanta for six straight races was not competitive much of the afternoon and fell off the lead lap with 50 remaining. His No. 12 Dodge scrubbed the wall 15 laps later.

6.) Mark Martin: Led 32 of the opening 50 laps, but spent much of day overcoming a pit road speeding penalty.

7.) Matt Kenseth: Rebounded from a Lap 67 speeding penalty on pit road to take the lead with 37 laps remaining. But his No. 17 Ford slipped to fifth during the final green-flag run. "We were just too loose all day off the corners, and we never could fix it," Kenseth said. "We finished in the top five and got to lead a lap there at the end, so it was a good, solid day."

8.) Rusty Wallace: Making his final start at AMS, the 1989 Cup champion spent all but six laps in the garage or limping around the track in a non-competitive No. 2 Dodge which suffered nose damage in a crash in the opening laps. "This pretty well knocks us out of winning the Chase," Wallace said.

9.) Kurt Busch: The defending Cup champion is on the brink of mathematical elimination after suffering a cut tire on his No. 97 Ford and tagging the Turn 4 wall on Lap 122. When he returned to the track 52 laps later, Busch was 53 laps behind the leader.

10.) Jeremy Mayfield: A crew chief change failed to change the luck of the No. 19 Dodge team, which seems destined to finish 10th in the championship standings.

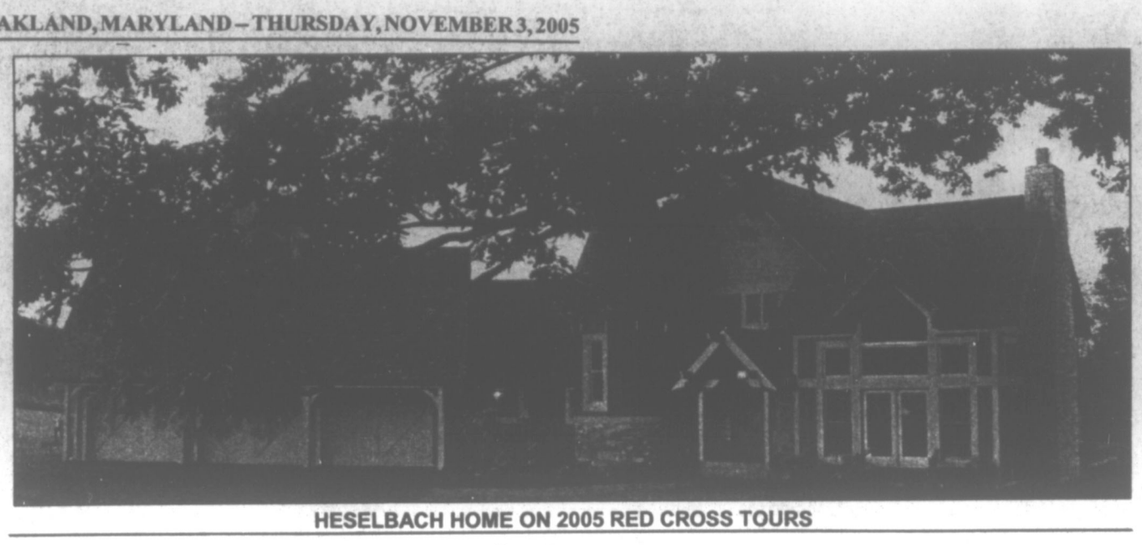
Heselbach Home Among Those On 2005 ARC Tours

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross will host the 14th annual Home for the Holidays House Tours on the first weekend in December. The home of Kevin and Cindy Heselbach is one of five homes features this year.

Located at 85 Heron Cove West, the Heselbach home is a recently constructed French country style farmhouse. The design was a joint effort between family members, architect Phil Silky, and Jeff Gosnell Construction.



HESELBACH HOME ON 2005 RED CROSS TOURS

"We originally started with plans of a silo at the end of the house, which turned out to be the turret in the front that gives the house a unique French country appeal," Cindy Heselbach said. She noted that the placement of the house was carefully conceived to complement the 300-year-old oak tree in the front yard. The branches span out over 40 feet.

The interior furnishings reflect the couple's interests, such as traveling, gourmet food, and wine. The gourmet kitchen and open floor plan allow for comfortable family and friend gatherings. The two-story, three-bedroom home features wide plank wormy oak floors throughout.

The great room with a cathedral ceiling and timber beams showcases a large open-hearth stone fireplace. Garlands, candles, and a 12-foot Victorian style Christmas tree will illuminate the room during the tours.

The family room will feature an animated North Pole Village, along with an array of additional holiday decorations. The master suite staircase will be draped with garlands, and a decorated tree will be placed on the balcony that overlooks the great room.

Tickets for the tours, including all ages, are $8 in advance and $10 on the days of the event. They will soon be on sale at the following pharmacies: Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek, as well as Arrowhead Market. All proceeds from the ticket sales will go to the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

The directions to the various homes will be printed on the back of the ticket, and directional signs will be placed at intersections to help guests find the locales. Local businesses have donated a variety of items that will be raffled off at each location. Guests will be asked to remove their shoes before going into the homes, and no photographing or videotaping will be allowed.

The other homes on this year's tour are those of Ronda Keefer, Ruth and Robert Hinebaugh, Dan and Bobbi Fornear, and Chuck and Linda Wieland. Feature stories on each will appear in The Republican in the weeks leading up to the event.

DC Baptist Church Slates Revival Svcs.

DOUG WHITE

The guest evangelist will be Rev. Doug White, pastor of Grace Baptist Church in Cumberland. He is a member of two state committees of the Southern Baptist Convention, and two committees within the Western Association of Southern Baptist Churches in the state of Maryland. During the 1970s and 1980s he served in various church ministries in Virginia.

White's education includes a bachelor's degree and a master of divinity degree with high honors, and he is currently pursuing doctoral studies through Rice Seminary in Lithonia, Ga.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

The term "October surprise" has taken on a whole new meaning recently, given last week's weather and the havoc it introduced into the glory that is normally Garrett County's autumn. Yet as we fall into November, it's appropriate for me to review some of what was (and what was not) surprising this past month.

It was a surprise, for instance, that the All-College Retreat featuring Garrett College employees gathering at the Wisp was accompanied by torrential rains in early October. What wasn't a surprise, however, was the awesome camaraderie shared by over 70 individuals who came together to share information, ideas, and good cheer in learning more about college initiatives, including the Learning Communities Institute attended by 11 employees last summer. We were treated to presentations by all senior administrators; delighted by a skit presented by one of Lonnie Brewster's classes; and brought to laughter and (occasional) amazement at our combined potential thanks to activities planned and led by Terry Peterson, Lyz Biser, and Terry Kasecamp. Their team-building initiatives reminded us of what we can do when we pull together as a group with a common mission, a predominant theme for the day. All of us left the retreat eager to continue working together and anxious to plan future opportunities for such events in the coming years.

Just 10 days after the retreat, I had the pleasure of attending another event that, while not a surprise for me, may have come as a delighted and unexpected event for some of our students and their families. Each year, Garrett is proud to initiate a very select number of students into our chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the international honor society for two-year college students. To be initiated, a student must attain a designated, very strong GPA in a number of credits and be in a degree program. Along with professor Beth Luers, our Phi Theta Kappa advisor, I was delighted to welcome 11 stellar students – and not at all surprised by their success. Craig Canfield, Mary Carlson, Erika Fike, Abe Folmsbee, Caressa Frazee, Josef Kariuki, Kristina Kask, Sarah Mullenax, Josh Petersheim, Robert Stemple, and Patty Wells represent a variety of interests, majors, and even counties and countries of residence. Each, however, shares a record of academic excellence as well as Garrett's collective pride in their success.

Students whose excellence makes us proud, of course, are not surprises at Garrett. What was a great surprise for me was a recent phone call from Christine Howell, former Garrett student who is now studying at Allegany College of Maryland. Chris, who worked alongside Amanda Savage as my work-study assistant, is nearly ready to graduate from ACM as a nursing major, where she's done very well, and is beginning her search for employment. I wasn't surprised to hear of her success, nor will I be startled when she calls to tell me of her job offers, which I'm sure will be forthcoming. Further, I wasn't shocked to hear Chris describe her appreciation for her time spent at Garrett, particularly the mentoring she had from professor Carolyn Deniker, revered for her dedication to students and their success at Garrett and elsewhere.

Just as I was delighted to hear from Chris, I was also surprised and thrilled to have a visit recently from Janelle Sines and her mom Chris, both former students, who dropped by the college to bring me some good wishes. It's not necessarily surprising that I had the privilege of teaching both a mother and a daughter – Garrett can be a family affair in a county our size – but it's always terrific to see the support family members can extend to each other as they're pursuing their education.

In the end, support is a common aspect of life at Garrett College. While much may surprise us – including snowflakes falling rather than leaves in late October – I'm never shocked by the kind of care and concern extended from our faculty, staff, and administration to our students. At the same time, I've come to expect the wonderful ways that our students reach out to us with the same kind of compassion. That's the way of life at a small college like ours, where big results come as no surprise.

TV PIPELINE

Jane Pauley's show: one season and out

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Jane Pauley

Q: What ever happened to Jane Pauley's show? It was very interesting, and I have always liked her. –Hilda Cicone, Ocala, Fla.

A: Although Pauley has had a national following ever since her "Today" days, her own weekday talk show evidently wasn't the vehicle for her, based simply on the ratings. That was the main factor in the cancellation of her program by its studio, NBC Universal, after only one year (in fact, even before that year was up). The company is going to try again next season by giving "Will & Grace" co-star Megan Mullally a weekday program that will be more celebrity-driven than Pauley's.

Q: What happened to Goren and Eames on "Law & Order: Criminal Intent"? Are they ever coming back? Why were they taken off? –Barbara Rhodes-Bridges, Chicago.

A: We received numerous messages along this line in the days after the first Chris Noth-Annabella Sciorra episode of the NBC series. Hopefully by now, the questions have been answered for most people, but just in case ... Goren and Eames, as played by Vincent D'Onofrio and Kathryn Erbe, are still part of the show. Those characters are alternating episodes with the team now played by Noth, who originated his Mike Logan role on "Law & Order," and Sciorra.

However, the two investigative teams will be together in a "Criminal Intent" story that's being planned for a November broadcast. Besides freshening up the show a bit, a reason for the new co-stars' presence is to provide a break of sorts for D'Onofrio, who had a widely reported case of exhaustion during production of last season's stories.

Q: Who is the actress who plays the new head nurse on "ER"? I know I've seen her on television before, but I can't place her. What other series did she star in? –Maxine Lee, Baltimore.

A: She's Kristen Johnston, who became an overnight star in the mid-1990s and earned two Emmy Awards for her portrayal of alien Sally Solomon on the NBC sitcom "3rd Rock From the Sun." She hasn't done a lot of work on film since ending that show and starting her current "ER" tenure, but she did appear in Mike Myers' last two "Austin Powers" movie comedies. She's also featured in the forthcoming movie version of the Comedy Central series "Strangers With Candy."

$1.1 Million In IRS Refund Checks Go Undelivered In Md.

The Internal Revenue Service is seeking 1,483 Maryland taxpayers whose income tax refund checks, totaling over $1.1 million, could not be delivered in 2005. Checks averaging $783 can be reissued after taxpayers correct or update their addresses with the IRS. In some cases, a taxpayer has more than one check waiting.

Nationally, there are 84,290 taxpayers with undeliverable refunds, totaling approximately $73 million, with an average refund of $871, according to the IRS.

"Our goal is to get this money back in the hands of the people it belongs to," IRS Commissioner Mark W. Everson said. "Visiting IRS.gov makes it easy for taxpayers to see if they've missed a refund."

The "Where's My Refund?" feature on the web site provides taxpayers with information about their refunds. It is available from the home page. To use it, taxpayers should enter their Social Security number, filing status (such as single or married filing jointly), and the refund amount shown on their 2004 tax return. When the information is submitted, "Where's My Refund?" will show the status of a refund and, in some cases, provide instructions to resolve potential account issues.

In the case of Gulf Coast residents affected by Hurricane Katrina, the IRS will expedite research into the status of undelivered payments and issue a refund check when the original is outstanding. The IRS advises hurricane victims who had been expecting a refund check but did not receive one to contact the IRS on the special toll-free Katrina disaster line at 1-866-562-5227.

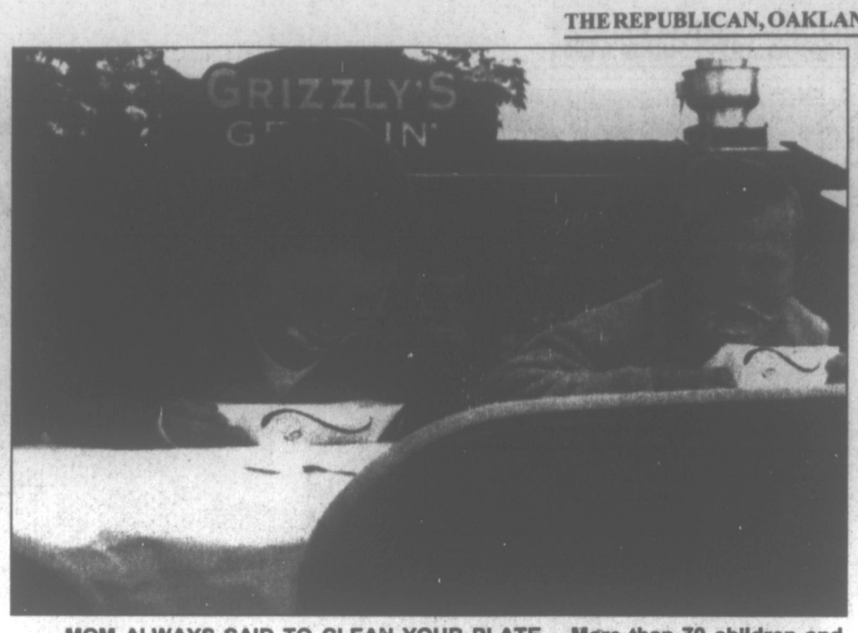
How to Update an Address with the IRS

Generally, refund checks can go astray for a variety of reasons. Often, a life change results in a change of address. When a taxpayer moves or changes address and fails to notify the IRS or the U.S. Postal Service, a check sent to the taxpayer's last known address is returned to the IRS.

Taxpayers who have moved since filing their last tax return can ensure the IRS has their correct address by filing Form 8822, Change of Address, with the IRS. Download the form from IRS.gov or request it by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Those who do not have access to the Internet and think they may be missing a refund should first check their records or contact their tax preparer, then call the IRS toll-free assistance line at 1-800-829-1040 to update their address.

To put an end to undelivered refunds, taxpayers can join more than 52 million individuals this year who have taken advantage of Direct Deposit. Taxpayers who choose this service receive their refunds directly into a personal checking or savings account. Direct Deposit, which also guards against theft or lost refund checks, is available for filers of both paper and electronic returns.



MOM ALWAYS SAID TO CLEAN YOUR PLATE – More than 70 children and adults participated in the 9th annual No hands Sundae Contest held at Lakeside Creamery during the Autumn Glory Festival. Participants received bowls filled with three scoops of ice cream, chocolate sauce, whipped cream, and sprinkles. They had to eat the sundaes using only their mouths. Pictured, left to right, are Will Meagher of Oakland and Sam Gallatin of Madonna finishing up their bowls. Bill Meagher, owner of Lakeside Creamery, holds the competition each year as a fundraiser for Big Brothers Big Sisters (BBBS) Garrett County. Jennifer Kotulak won a 50/50 raffle during the event, but donated her winnings back to BBBS. For more information about becoming a mentor, persons may call Stacey Lowman at 303-334-3591 or 800-400-0735.

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO HELP...

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the ninth year, The Republican newspaper and the Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

The Republican's* WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington is the head coordinator, assisted by several other club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue in her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful. Dora Hanlin has again volunteered to help handle the applications, as she has from the beginning of the program. Her help is invaluable.

The Medical Value Of Grape Seed

Grape seed (Vitis vinifera) contains compounds called Proanthocyanidins. These substances neutralize free radicals, which are responsible for tissue damage and cell death in the body. Grape seed may also reduce the production of inflammatory substances in the body and inhibit the activation of platelets ("thinning" the blood). To date, small research studies suggest that grape seed may improve circulation, prevent atherosclerosis (clogging of the arteries), lower blood pressure, and lower cholesterol levels. Further research is needed to confirm these findings.

The most common side effects from grape seed include dry, itchy scalp; headache; dizziness and nausea. In theory, grape seed may increase the risk of bleeding, and should not be used by patients who take other blood thinning medications (Coumadin®, aspirin, heparin, Plavix®, or medications and supplements that could increase the risk of bleeding (ibuprofen, naproxen, ginko, garlic). Grape seed extract has been given in doses of 100 to 300 milligrams per day. The extract should not be used by people who are allergic to grapes.

Thank you for picking up your toys. Thank you for remembering to get milk. Thank you for putting gas in the car. Thank you for making your bed.

Small routine matters? No! Because when a thank you is said, it provides a link of love for those involved. If we work on these small links of love, we can make life happier for those around us. It is encouraging to be thanked for the things we do.

The personal thank you a lso reminds us that a thank you to God is in order. In 1 Thessalonians 5:18 we are reminded to & give thanks in all circumstances. We can thank Him in prayer as we acknowledge His love and presence. We don t have to stop and close our eyes and bow our heads each time; we can just say a simple thank you. O ur prayers of thanksgiving link us to God with love.

As we pray, each day and weekly at our house of worship, we can say thank you for everything, big and small. With each thank you we can acknowledge God s love for us and our love for Him!

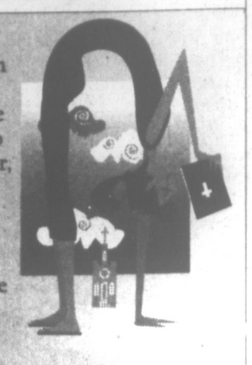
BEING FLEXIBLE



At an early age, children usually learn that in order to get along in this world, they have to be flexible. For example, at bedtime a young child may rather stay up and play than go to bed; however, they should be taught that they cannot always have their own way, and that it is necessary for them to get their rest. Adults, as well as children, should be aware that being flexible in our society is necessary to live in harmony with the world around us. Often, being flexible simply means being considerate of others, and when we show this thoughtfulness to others, our consideration will usually be reflected back to us. Kindness, generosity, and fairness breeds good will, and being thoughtful of others reflects God's values. However, being stubborn and non-yielding, only to save face when we are wrong, reflects egotism and self pride. Knowledge is acquired through experience; and, understanding and respecting another's point of view will help us to grow as a person. God wants us to live in harmony with those around us, and not always having things our way shows respect for others.

Pride only breeds quarrels, but wisdom is found in those who take advice.

Have Cat, Will Travel (Or Maybe Not)

Q. My husband and I are visiting relatives for a few days this Thanksgiving. Should we take our cat with us, or will she be all right at home? — Becky, via e-mail

A. Either option is acceptable — provided you make plans for your pet well in advance. Your cat can be left alone for a long weekend — up to three days — as long as it has no medical condition. Leave enough food and water out to cover your time away, as well as plenty of toys. Make sure that any item that could endanger the cat — including plants — is kept well out of reach.

On your return, your cat will probably be a little resentful at your absence. Shower it with treats and love, and that resentment will disappear, usually within a day.

If your trip will take longer than three days, consider hiring a cat sitter — a responsible neighborhood child or a friend — to stop by, feed the cat and play for a short while. If your cat needs to take a daily pill or has special medical needs, boarding it at the vet is a better option.

If you decide to travel with your cat, let your relatives know right away that you'll be bringing a pet.

On the trip, bring food and water for the cat, as well as a litter box and a leash. Make sure the cat wears its I.D. tags, and keep it in a travel crate while the car is moving. Stop frequently and take the cat out on the leash so it can stretch out.

If your cat gets extremely anxious or agitated while in the car, talk to your vet before the trip about giving it a sedative or anti-anxiety drug.

A final note: Please, be a good guest. If your relatives can't have the cat in the house because they have allergies, dogs or whatever, make other arrangements.

Q. I have a gavel signed by General Omar N. Bradley at a VFW club in Maryland during the 1940s. The signature is bold and clear, and I wonder if there is much interest in such an item. — Don (via e-mail)

A. I contacted three autograph dealers and was told that Gen. Bradley's signature generally sells in the $25-$50 range. With that in mind, you might want to contact a dealer who specializes in military memorabilia. Two established ones are Dale C. Anderson, P.O. Box 3516, Gettysburg, PA 17325; and Jeb Kipp, Allenwood Americana Antiques, P.O. Box 116, Allenwood, PA 17810.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Comedy can kill — literally. In Great Britain, a 78-year-old woman named Greta Warburton enjoyed Danny La Rue's drag performance "Danny Goes to Hollywood" so much that she went to see it a second time, this time getting a front-row seat. She found the production so hilarious that she laughed hard enough to cause a stroke. She was rushed to the hospital, but seven hours later she died. A friend commented, "It's what she would have chosen."

• Have you ever engaged in "sternutation"? You may not realize it, but you certainly have — it's simply the act of sneezing.

• It's still not known who made the following sage observation: "Blessed are those who go around in circles, for they shall be called big wheels."

• The White House didn't have flush toilets until they were installed by Thomas Jefferson, and Andrew Jackson was the first president to have a shower. There was no central heating until Martin Van Buren had it installed, and Rutherford B. Hayes was the first president to have a telephone. The White House had no electricity until Benjamin Harrison's presidency, and President Truman brought in the first TV set.

• England's King Charles I kept 8-foot-8-inch "Cambridge Giant" Thomas Bell at his court for amusement. Reportedly, one of the stunts the monarch loved most was when Bell would carry a dwarf around in his pocket.

• Most people are afraid of sharks. That's an understandable reaction to coming up against the largest shark species, the whale shark; it can reach an intimidating 60 feet in length. The dwarf lanternshark probably wouldn't scare anyone, though — the smallest of the sharks is only 6 inches long.

• On Nov. 9, 1970, in a 6-3 vote, the Supreme Court refuses to hear a challenge by the state of Massachusetts regarding the constitutionality of the Vietnam War. Residents Warned To Be Wary Of Phone Solicitors

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation is reminding residents to use extreme caution regarding phone solicitors requesting banking and personal information such as birth dates and Social Security numbers.

A Grantsville resident reported being called by a company in Spain advising her that she was the beneficiary of a sum of money and requested her banking information and checking account number. Fortunately, the woman did not give out any of that information, according to GBI.

GBI warns residents not to provide any unknown subjects or unknown companies banking and personal information over the phone when these subjects or companies initiate the call.

NAYLOR'S DONATES TO HOSPITAL GALA The upcoming Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation Gala recently received a donation of a Troy-Bilt snow blower, courtesy of Naylor's Hardware. The blower will be among the items going on the block during the auction portion of the annual fundraiser, set for Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Lodge at Wisp Resort. Pictured with the 9.5 horsepower, two-stage, electric start machine (with a 28-inch cut) are store manager Don Mason, left, and Wayne Johnson, co-chair of the Gala Steering Committee. Proceeds from the event will help fund a new mammography machine, and additional contributions from local individuals and business for the live and silent auctions are being accepted. Tickets can be purchased by calling the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation office at 301-533-4178 or 301-533-4173.

Their four sons treated them with a surprise limousine ride to Frederick for dinner, followed by another limousine ride to the Wash-Kenny Rogers in concert. After the performance, the couple returned to the Frederick area, where they were guests at an inn.

In Private Ceremony In Swanton

Pastor Ross Glotfelty and Linda Fleming were united in holy matrimony on March 25, 2005, during a private family ceremony at the Swanton home of Orval and Mareva Teets, parents of the bride. Rev. David Conrad Bush of Mission Outreach Church in Orlando, Fla., conducted the ceremony in the living room chapel, which was adorned with various hues of roses and English ivy.

Family members from Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Virginia, Florida, Stuttgart, Germany, and the Czech Republic gathered for the wedding.

The ring bearer was Jacob Davis of Swanton, grandson of the bride; and the groomsmen were Sam Compton of Culpeper, Va., and Dick Bond of McHenry, brothers-in-law of the groom.

The bridesmaid was Barbara Scarpa of Lakeland, Fla., cousin of the bride; and the matron of honor was Chris Riley of Stuttgart, sister of the bride. Nancy Compton and Chris Riley, sisters of the couple, lit the unity candles.

The flower girls were Anna Bush of Orlando, granddaughter of the bride; Mariah Graves of Culpeper, great niece of the groom; Brook Jolliffe of Rixeyville, Va., great niece of the groom; and Hannah Virts of Swanton, granddaughter of the bride.

The bride wore an ankle length, traditional ivory, a-line chiffon jacketed gown, while the groom was attired in a traditional ivory satin vest and heather gray pants.

The ceremony opened as Linda Kling, accompanied by Byron Miller, sang "Only God Could Love You More." The invocation was delivered by the bride's father, and the bride's sister Chris read a poem she had composed for the this occasion.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom were chauffeured by the groom's nephew, Andrew Compton of Castleton, Va., to the Red Run Lodge restaurant for the wedding dinner, where A.J. Fleming, son of the bride, led the group in prayer before the meal was served.

After dinner, the bride and groom were chauffeured to a reception at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, where 500 friends and family members gathered to celebrate their wedding. A centerpiece of long stemmed roses with a base of fresh summer fruits stood in the hall in memory of the groom's parents, Earl and Virginia Glotfelty, and in honor of the bride's parents.

Ellen Riley of Stuttgart, niece of the bride, and Joshua Bush of Orlando, grandson of the bride, registered guests. Beth Graves of Culpeper and Shannon Joliffe of Rixeyville, nieces of the groom, received cards and gifts. The wedding cake was cut and served to guests by Lawre Virts, daughter of the bride. Lucinda Davis, daughter of the bride, coordinated musical selections for the wedding and reception.

The couple honeymooned in Washington, D.C., Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, and England. They are now in residence at their Swanton area home.
